Schmitt edges Powers in selectman's race

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Winchester's newest selectman was a wanted man on election night. Shortly after Thomas Schmitt's victory was announced on cable television, a throng of supporters in his home began clamoring for his presence.

But he was nowhere to be found. Shortly after the results came in — about 8:45 p.m. — Schmitt left to be interviewed down at the cable station. On his way home he was sidetracked visiting supporters and housing authority victor Dennis O'Malley.

By the time he returned home at 10:20 p.m. some well-wishers had departed but many more remained to greet him with a whoop.

"I feel great. I am sincerely thankful," Schmitt said.

Looking sunburned from days of campaigning around town, and dressed in yellow rain pants against the weather, Schmitt kissed his wife Kate and shook hands with the many well-wishers in his home.

"We are excited, no question about it," Schmitt said.

McCall-Taylor, Roll beat Lombardi for plan board

By ROGER L. KAY

Maryann McCall-Taylor and Margaret M. Roll won seats on the planning board in a contested election Tuesday, defeating Kevin V. Lombardi.

McCall-Taylor currently is chairman of the board.

"As an incumbent I thought my chances were pretty good," she said. "I had lots of people out today. I want to thank everyone who helped. I appreciate people's support," she said.

She indicated that her program would continue in the same manner as it has been conducted in the past.

For Roll, the victory represented her first move into public office.

"It feels pretty good," she said. "I

Wine auction faces selectmen's decision over alcohol sales

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Plans for a wine auction to benefit Winchester Public Library next week were threatened Monday when organizers of the event learned they may not get an auctioneer's license.

Does a wine auction constitute sale of an alcoholic beverage? That is the question selectmen must decide before they can issue, or refuse to issue, the license needed for the event.

Ron Hertel, vice president of the Friends of the Winchester Public Library which is planning the event as a fund raiser, said the group had "perhaps overlooked the auctioneer's license," in planning the event.

Hertel told the board the wine auction would benefit the town by raising funds for the library. The event has wide support around town, evidenced by the number of people who have donated bottles or indicated they will attend the auction, he said.

"It is something we think will benefit the town. We have great sponsorship at this point," Hertel said.

Selectmen voiced support of the and its purpose as a fundraising activity for the library.

Some members of the board, however, expressed concern that the board may simply not have the authority to approve the auction.

"I do not want to line up to be sued one more time. If it is not legal, I'm against it, I don't care what the cause is," selectman Mark Lombardi said.

Town counsel Douglas Randall said the auction constituted a "prima facie sale" of an alcoholic beverage and could not be approved by the board.

"If it is an auction there is going to be, in fact, a sale," Randall said.

Selectmen discussed the issue at length, trying to find a way to allow the charitable auction.

"The law is the law but sometimes the better part of the law is good judgment," selectman Robert Deering said.

Outgoing chairman of selectmen Wade M. Welch said he personally supported the auction and had donated a bottle of wine to the cause.

Assistant principal ousted in committee tenure vote, Baker calls move 'surprise'

By ROGER L. KAY

Karen Baker, assistant principal at the Winchester High School, will not be back on that job next year.

The school committee voted unanimously at its March 24 meeting not to grant Baker, who was up for tenure, a contract renewal. She has served in her current position for three years.

Baker was at the meeting when the vote was taken and says she was caught by surprise.

"The superintendent told me he didn't have the votes 10 minutes before, but I stuck around because I didn't believe it," she said.

"Why was I not warned? Why did they wait until the last possible moment?" she asks. "No one should be treated this way."

Baker said she does not think she has any legal recourse.

She said her evaluations and recommendations had been positive. Superintendent Charles Mitsakos confirmed this: "We recommended the granting of tenure," he said.

She called the decision "arbitrary and capricious" and suggested that the school committee members go back to school to learn more about democracy.

The decision was not made for budget reasons. The position is funded and will be filled.

Mitsakos said there had been no public discussion concerning the hire. He described school committee policy number 2150 that covers the tenure-granting process.

According to Mitsakos, in December a list of tenure candidates is distributed to the committee members. By mid-January, the principal under whom the candidate serves submits an evaluation and recommendation. The superintendent and the principal meet with the can-

Controversy over, school celebrations to grow, say officials

By ROGER KAY

Winchester schools are unlikely to have a second "beige Christmas."

The unpleasantness experienced in the school system last December is unlikely to be repeated next year, said school committee chairman Michael Ronayne.

"The unfortunate results should be put behind us. We should go forward," Ronayne said of the controversies surrounding holiday celebrations in the schools this past December.

Ronayne, serving his last night with the gavel, spoke at a joint meeting of the school committee and the Task Force on Cultural, Religious, and Ethnic Awareness March 25.

During the meeting, the task force's five subcommittees presented an interim report to the committee and the public. The committee also heard public comment.

Members of the public expressed concern about the way the traditional Christmas had been handled in the schools and demanded explanations. Superintendent Charles Mitsakos said the task force had not issued guidelines to the music teachers about what music was appropriate for the holidays, and that the music department had developed its own guidelines.

Ronayne said a superintendent's memo, written to all staff before the holidays, had specified that there was no change in holiday policy for 1986. He admitted that the key language in the memo was toward the end of the second page, but emphasized that it was clearly stated.

"Directives can only come from the superintendent," he said. "The teachers erred if they reacted without the proper authority."

He pointed out that the task force could not have been responsible for this year's holiday because they had not even issued a report. The report is due in May.

"A lot of what happened came from public discussion and distortion," he said.

Parking mars beauty, committee tells board consistency is key

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Consistency is the key to beautifying Winchester according to Charles N. Tsekares of the town Beautification Design Review Committee.

Tsekares and other members of the committee addressed the board of selectmen Monday night to present them with the newly completed Design Reference Manual and to highlight issues the committee has been studying.

The manual addresses six categories of town: paving, street features, street furnishings, planting, and town buildings. It makes recommendations in each category on how to beautify the town.

In a brief report the board also told selectmen it "is concerned over the loss of visual experiences and would like to discuss methods of rectifying them."

Tsekares mentioned the open space near Wedge Pond as an area that was once very visually appealing but now needs work. Parking problems and the supermarket across the street tend to discourage the use of this attractive area, he said.

"To have such visual relief in one's downtown center is really quite extraordinary," he said.

Parking around town, particularly on Mystic Valley Parkway was also seen as a problem by the committee.

This road, said Tsekares, is clogged with cars during the day and they are not being ticketed.

Chairman of selectmen Wade M. Welch pointed out that Winchester police cannot issue parking tickets on the road as it is owned by the MDC.

"We really do not have the authority and jurisdiction to ticket. We would be very supportive of rigorous enforcement along the Mystic Valley Parkway," Welch said.

The board agreed that by working with the MDC the parking problem in that area could probably be addressed.

"If we can get it to the point where they pay a $3 ticket or they pay 80 cents (to park) they'll pay the 80 cents," selectman Mark Lombardi said.

The committee also discussed creating a new town informational

Who axed trees? 'Probably' LaRocco

By ROGER KAY

One part of the controversy of Christmas past turned on who told the teachers there would be no Christmas trees and other holiday symbols in the schools.

During the joint meeting of the Task Force on Cultural, Religious, and Ethnic Awareness and the School Committee, Winchester High School's home economics coordinator, Harriet Nelson, told the public that the teachers had been "instructed" not to put up trees and other traditional Christmas items.

In a telephone interview, high school principal Vincent LaRocco said that he "probably said, no, I don't want a Christmas tree" in the midst of the sometimes heated debate. "Teachers want specifics," he added.

LaRocco explained that a multicultural policy has existed in the school for "eight to 10" years, and there is much less traditional Christmas in the schools now than there was 10 years ago.

He said he divides holiday symbols into two groups: pagan, which he calls "blatantly commercial," and religious.

He identified Santa Claus, Rudolph the red-nosed Reindeer, and the decorated pine tree as pagan symbols. He expressed the opinion that the schools should not support commercialism.

About religious symbolism, he said that such symbolism belongs in the schools only in as much as equal time is given to the various religions.

LaRocco pointed out that the Constitution calls for the separation of church and state, but that the question of interpretation is so delicate that the manner in which holidays are handled in the public school system is a matter for United States Supreme Court judges to decide.

The Winchester Star POLICE LOG

Monday, March 30

Andrew W. Bankson, a Woburn resident, was arrested at 8:07 p.m. on Main Street for default on warrants issued by Woburn District Court. The warrants were for operating under the influence, operating to endanger and failure to stop for a police officer.

Sunday, March 29

A Woburn man was arrested at the corner of Cross and Holtan Streets at 6:53 p.m. for operating an unregistered vehicle, operating an uninsured vehicle and attaching plates. He was stopped for speeding and upon checking the registration, police found the other violations.

A Prospect Street resident reported, at 4:51 p.m., receiving obscene telephone calls. A trace by a telephone operator showed the origin of the calls was a phone booth in Stoneham. The resident was told to consult the Arlington telephone office if the calls persisted.

A Winchester resident reported vandalism of a fence at the corners of Canal and Sylvester Streets at 5:40 p.m. Three youths admitted to "fooling around" near the fence, but said they did not mean to do any damage. Police officers informed them they might be hearing from a juvenile police officer.

A burglar alarm that went off at Bartlett School was investigated by police at 11:06 a.m. Police found the building secure and found no reason for the alarm.

A Stoneham resident was arrested exiting the Parkview Condominium parking lot at Main and Salem Streets on an outstanding Everett warrant for a traffic violation at 10:09 a.m. He was stopped for speeding and during a routine license check, police found the outstanding warrant and also charged the man with operating without a registration in possession and operating after revocation.

Saturday, March 28

A Winchester resident collided with a car stopped in the intersection of Pond and Woodside Street at 11:16 p.m. The resident was taken to Winchester Hospital. She was unconscious and upon awakening, complained of back pain. Two cars were stopped in the intersection. The cars' operators, both from Winchester, said they stopped to talk to each other.

An Aristotle Drive resident reported a smashed lantern at the bottom of a driveway at 9:37 p.m. Police investigation did not turn up anything.

A Medford resident was arrested at 2:27 p.m. after being pulled over on Grayson Road for an expired inspection sticker. Routine investigation found that he was driving with a suspended license as well.

Friday, March 27

Police investigating a suspicious person call at 7:57 p.m. found a Medford resident who may have been mentally ill sitting on a rock on Hillcrest Parkway near Ainsworth Road. The man was transported by police to the Winchester/Medford line. Medford police officers brought him to his home.

A Main Street resident reported a smashed front window in his home. Police said the vandalism was probably a random act.

A George Road youth was injured when a car that his mother was operating suddenly jerked forward and ran over his ankle at 5:09 p.m. Neighbors were trying to push the car, that had stalled, while the woman behind the wheel tried to start the car.

The boy jumped onto the hood of the car, and when it jerked forward, he fell off and was run over. The boy suffered a broken left ankle.

A Malden man was arrested after being stopped in Winchester at 11:33 a.m. for an expired inspection sticker. A license and registration check showed two outstanding warrants, one from Wenham and one from the MDC.

A Burlington woman was arrested at 4:52 a.m. for leaving the scene of an accident and malicious property damage after she hit a car on Loring Avenue and then came back and hit it twice more. According to police reports, the woman told police, she hit the car on purpose after having a fight with her boyfriend.

Thursday, March 26

A Woburn man was arrested after he was stopped by police at 5:57 p.m. for running a red light at the corner of Cambridge and Wildwood Streets. A routine check showed an outstanding Woburn warrant for the man's arrest for wanton destruction.

A Winchester man was seen dumping small trees on the field on Lockland Avenue at 5:01 p.m. Police said no charges would be filed if the trees were removed from the field. The man agreed and removed all the trees he dumped.

Wednesday, March 25

Donald W. Lennox of Woburn was stopped while driving on Main Street at 7:11 p.m. March 25.

According to police records, a car was weaving all over the road. Lennox took a breathalyzer test, according to police. He was arrested for operating under the influence.

Further investigation showed several outstanding warrants for Lennox's arrest from different communities.

MISSED SAVINGS

Do you still think it is cheaper to go on your own merry way and rent quarters rather than own your own home? You're not alone. Many people believe that owning a home is more expensive than renting. On the surface that may seem true. But does a person who rents benefit from:

1. Tax savings?
2. Increasing equity?
3. Increases in home value due to inflation?

Say you bought a home three years ago for $100,000. If it increased in value at 12% per year, that same house would be worth $140,493 today. Confess—are you currently saving $40,493 every three years?

Also, there's no disputing that home ownership is the best tax break there is. No matter how Congress changes the tax structure, the one unviolated principle seems to be that the home owner gets the tax deduction for the interest paid. In the early years of the mortgage, well over 90% of the monthly payments may consist of interest. That's one very big deduction.

Schmitt slips past Powers to win selectman's seat it," Kate O'Neil said with a smile.

"I am very, very pleased that Winchester has people who read and who follow the issues," said Schmitt's campaign manager Misty Schwartzman.

Schmitt said he felt good after a long campaign.

"The great thing about campaigning door to door is they tell you what the issues are. I have never had so much energy. I think meeting the people is an exciting experience. It really gives you energy to keep going," Schmitt said.

Schmitt called the race a "dignified, hard-fought campaign that was won in the trenches."

He also spoke highly of his opponents, saying they ran "great campaigns."

"They really did a good job and had really skillfully run campaigns," Schmitt said.

In Stephen Powers' home, family and friends were quite as election results became known.

"When you win four out of eight precincts, you really do not lose," said Powers as the results indicated he had come in second in the three-man race.

Powers showed a dry sense of humor upon learning he had lost significantly in precinct three.

"In three we got clobbered. I think I forgot to show up in three," Powers told a supporter.

"We did our best but we came up short, but we only came up short by about 100 votes. I think we ran a good race. We campaigned hard. I wish Mr. Schmitt the best of luck," said Powers.

Third place candidate William O'Neil was also upset in his defeat.

"I congratulate Tom and I think it is the town's best choice. I am of course a candidate for selectman next year," O'Neil said.

"I learned a lot from it and I'll be better prepared next year," O'Neil said.

Welch thanks 'team' for selectman season

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Chairman of selectmen Wade M. Welch swung the gavel for a final time when he adjourned Monday night's meeting.

During the meeting Welch joked about his position as outgoing chairman.

"I'm a lame duck. The lamest of the lame," he said.

Welch addressed his fellow board members, town employees and the cable television audience before closing the meeting.

"When I ran in 1979, I said a selectman's race was sort of like an athletic race, and it is," said Welch.

"We rise and we fall on the efforts of the team," he added.

Welch thanked members of the "team" he has worked with in his two terms as selectman.

He praised the work of town manager W. Chadwick Maurer, town counsel Douglas Randall, comptroller Joseph Bonner, town employees and his fellow board members.

He noted the town's progress in housing, labor negotiations, planning, and the downtown revitalization as being among the areas in which he took pride during his tenure.

"This board has provided leadership, the type of leadership you expect and deserve," Welch told the viewing audience.

He also noted that this year's town report will be dedicated to the championship football team, the boys soccer team and the girls soccer team at Winchester high school.

"I think it is suitable that the town honors those teams," he said.

In closing Welch spoke to those watching and thanked the town for the opportunity to serve as selectman.

"To have served as your selectman has been to share a very special trust with each of you," Welch said.

Following the close of the meeting selectmen, town employees and other friends toasted the outgoing chairman with sparkling cider, crackers and cheese and truffles.

The faithful braved a wet and windy election day to show their support for candidates. Some busy corners, like this one, had almost complete representation. (Paul Drake Photo)

Raw weather failed to dampen spirits as 28 percent of Winchester voters turned out, average for a town election, according to town clerk Carolyn Ward.

Many residents had a particular interest in the selectman's race, which ended with Thomas Schmitt the victor by a margin of 163 votes.

"I've seen a lot of interest and enthusiasm in this precinct," said Mary Wallace, warden in precinct 7. "I think there's a lot of interest in the selectman's race. I've heard people say, 'I'm just coming to vote for one person' and you can tell from their time in the booth that they did only vote for one."

Wearing rain slickers from head-to-toe, dedicated campaigners stood with signs flapping in the gusty winds in a last-minute attempt to aid their candidates.

Others marked off a voting list at the poll so they could call supporters who had not yet voted.

Traditionally, Winchester town elections do not get as much of a turnout as elections where state or federal issues are involved. The average number of people who come out for local races is 28-30 percent of all eligible voters.

Precinct Four election official Gail O'Reilly said she believes there was a lot of interest in this year's campaigns. She cites the high turnout for the League of Women Voters' "Meet the Candidates" night as proof.

The busiest times for polling places, according to Ward, are the morning before work, and after 5 p.m.

when the trains start coming in from Boston. "There is usually a surge after dinner and especially in the last hour before the polls close," Ward said.

Ward's predictions were correct as the trickle of voters turned into a stream in the last hours of voting pushing the afternoon's low numbers into an impressive showing considering the rain factor.

FITNESS FIRST

Nautilus/Aerobics Center—Growing Strong

Success has come early and continually to Fitness First, a local health club, since it opened in Arlington Center three years ago. What started out as a modest sized club featuring Nautilus equipment, has now grown to be one of the largest Nautilus and Aerobics centers in New England. "The demand in this area for a high quality, well equipped, and comprehensive fitness center accounts for our continued growth," explained Larry Cronin, one of the owners. "Most of our members have shopped around looking for a club they recognize quality and value, and they love our facility when they see what we have," added Cronin.

What Fitness First does have is a clean, spacious and attractive facility spread out over a newly-renovated 10,000 sq. ft. area. While the physical plant itself is very impressive, there is something more subtle that makes Fitness First unique. It's the people that are here that make this club different. The staff is terrific, they're highly qualified and interested in the welfare of the members. And the members themselves are a nice mixture of people, half men and women, of different ages and interests.

Together both staff and members blend to create a relaxed, friendly atmosphere where everyone can feel comfortable," stated the owner. "We also constantly try to improve the quality of our programs," mentioned the owner. "We have carefully chosen and trained our Nautilus Staff, have recently renovated the facility, and added more equipment."

This would be in addition to the most complete equipment line up in the area including 34 Nautilus machines, Women's Nautilus, Physical Therapy Clinic, and a beautiful 1200 sq. ft. Dance Studio with 48 Aerobics classes per week—all free to members. One special point of pride for Fitness First is the Aerobics Staff, a group of 12 highly-skilled professionals chosen from over 100 applicants. "As a group, they're the best Aerobics instructors we've ever seen," stated the owner proudly.

These reasons may explain why Fitness First has become the most popular athletic club in the area. "We have become truly a regional facility with most of our members from a 7 town area around Arlington," stated Mr. Cronin.

Several hundred satisfied customers attest to the continued local support of Fitness First.

Had terrific support all the way through by a terrific group of people. That's what I give credit to."

"I'm interested in the planning process and interested in getting started," she said. "My last child goes off to college in the fall and I have a busy three years ahead."

She called the campaign a "good experience" and said that her family had been very supportive.

The tone was more somber at the Lombardi residence, but the losing candidate displayed composure.

"We worked hard," he said, "and I was happy with the turnout. It was a low budget campaign. We only spent $200."

He was upbeat about his chances for the next election. "There's always future years," he said.

"I want to thank my precinct," he added, "but mainly my family went out (to campaign)."

Workshops spark programs, health, wellness top list

By SUE SHOR

When summer vacation begins and most students have visions of days in the sunshine, their teachers will be already working on next year's curriculum.

This summer, the Winchester School Department has recommended 63 weeks of workshops where teachers will create new programs and refine existing ones.

Health courses are the subject of one such workshop. Physical education teachers as well as classroom teachers will work on expanding the existing health curriculum.

Fifth and sixth grade students currently can choose to participate in an optional personal growth program.

Seventh and eighth grades include a mandatory class that, according to Director of Health and Physical Education Janice Dolan, "revolves around wellness."

"Included in the curriculum are growth and development of an adolescent, nutrition, self-acceptance, stress management, feelings and, most important, problem solving," she said.

The program addresses physical, mental and emotional health, she added.

This summer, Dolan and other teachers will decide how best to expand the health curriculum to include Kindergarten through sixth grade. Dolan said the theme of the K-6 program will be "substance abuse in its broadest terms; learning to take care of your body."

Workshop participants will also incorporate lessons on sexuality into the seventh through ninth grade curricula.

Dolan said the lessons will focus on "an understanding of sexuality and how to make healthy decisions about sex."

Dolan hopes to get the opinions of curriculum consultants to aid the process. After teachers formulate a program, the citizens health advisory committee will review it and make suggestions.

Dolan said she hopes to have the curriculum in place by the beginning of the next school year.

Other plans include a six-week reading workshop which will focus on grades K-6. Teachers will examine different methods of teaching reading to revise and refine their current teaching methods.

A math workshop for grades 9-12 draws on recommendations from the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the National Science Foundation that suggest relating math classes to practical applications in daily life, careers and natural science.

Major goals of social studies teachers revolve around a more global view of life. Expansion of the "Human Family" section in grades K-6 will attempt to recognize contributions of both sexes and of people of other cultures.

Sixth grade students will have a chance to experience another language when Winchester implements a program to introduce Spanish with the study of Latin America and French with the study of Canada.

A new course, Manufacturing Technology, will be added to the Industrial Arts and Technology sequence in grades 9-12. Laboratory work and curriculum will be decided during the summer.

The business education program for grades 10-12 is also expanding. A business management class will be offered and general ledger software will be incorporated into accounting classes.

Other proposed workshops, most in the arts and interdisciplinary studies, were recommended for approval by Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction David Ackerman if the school department receives grant money to cover the costs. Of the 260 weeks of proposed workshops, only 63 can be funded through the existing school department budget.

The students were chosen by the faculties at their schools and their peers.

Resident hospitalized after cruiser collision

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

A 19-year-old Winchester woman remains in "fair condition" with head and neck injuries at Mass. General Hospital following a two-car accident with a Winchester police cruiser last week.

Jennifer A. Crockett was transferred to Mass. General from Winchester Hospital where she was taken following the crash at 11:43 p.m. on March 23.

According to police reports Crockett's 1980 Plymouth collided with Winchester patrol car 928, driven by officer Stephen P. Roache on Mystic Avenue.

According to Roache's report the cruiser was traveling south on Main Street at a speed of 35 m.p.h. when he observed headlights from another vehicle approaching in a northerly direction.

He reported that as he approached the intersection of Main and Mystic, the other vehicle turned left towards Mystic Ave. into his lane of traffic.

The report, prepared by Sgt. John J. Alford, says, "Roache further stated that at this time he hit his brakes causing him to go into a skid and attempted to steer his vehicle into the curbing to avoid coming into contact with the other vehicle."

The patrol car struck the right front of Crockett's vehicle causing the rear end of both vehicles to swerve into each other, the report says.

Following the accident Officer Roache radioed for an ambulance and administered emergency medical care to the women while waiting for it to arrive.

Crockett is a student at Johnson and Wales College in Rhode Island and was returning to her parents' Winchester home from her co-op job at Copley Plaza in Boston, at the time of the crash.

Police officials said no further investigation of the accident was planned at this time.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Dick Murphy
The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors

EVALUATING YOUR SPENDING POWER

One of your first house-hunting efforts should include a session with your Realtor or a lender where you discuss the financing options available. How much can you afford as a down payment and for closing costs? How much can you pay each month for your mortgage, taxes, and insurance? Do you want a fixed rate mortgage, or are you willing to take an adjustable rate loan to increase your buying power. With answers to these questions, we can give you a price range of homes you can afford to buy.

As a general rule, your monthly housing costs should be no more than 28% of your pre-tax income. If you have debts, such as car loans or other installment loans, your debts plus your housing costs shouldn't exceed 36% of your gross income. Your Realtor can help you translate these numbers into a monthly mortgage. By setting a realistic price range before you begin to house hunt, you can save a lot of time and energy, and you'll feel better knowing that you really can afford to own the houses your agent is showing you.

The professionals at Bixby & Porter Company Realtors are happy to serve all of your real estate needs. Please give us a call at 729-7000 or stop by our office at 33 Thompson St., Winchester.

70-unit Willows condos face town meeting, plan board

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Willows at Winchester developers took their project to selectmen Monday night and received support but not complete approval for their efforts.

Developer Louise Farese, architect Don Tellalian and attorney Paul F. Amico addressed the board seeking support of the 70-unit condominium project proposed for 7½ acres off Cross and Conant streets.

The area is zoned for light industrial use but the developer is looking to have that zoning changed at town meeting to allow the project to proceed.

"It is very important to us that we receive some type of approval from the board tonight," Amico said.

The approval is important as the developer looks to formulate a covenant with the town in time for town meeting, he said.

In earlier discussions with a sub-committee of selectman Judith Muggia, selectman Mark Lombardi and town manager W. Chadwick Maurer the developer said he wanted to build 70 units and make two units available to the town for housing, Amico said.

Chairman of selectmen Wade M. Welch said he liked the proposed linkage agreement but it was up to the planning board to approve the number of units — density — allowed on the site.

In a presentation about the development, Tellalian pointed out the seven buildings for the site have been designed and positioned to maximize open space. He also said each three-story building will have two elevators and be convenient for elderly persons.

When Amico asked for the board's sense of approval of the 70 units, Welch said the board did not have enough information to unconditionally support the project.

"We really do not have any data on the impact on schools, police or fire. We have not seen the covenant or the proposed covenant," Welch said.

"Neighbors are generally in favor of the change from industrial to residential use," Welch noted.

Selectmen maintained that the developer must come to terms with the planning board before the project will be approved.

"Once the planning board is satisfied, I'd be happy to go along with it," selectman Frank Sopper said.

"As long as they can satisfy the planning board I really think it looks like a super development," Lombardi said.

"You are close enough with the planning board to get it together. I think you can count on a board of selectmen that is supportive of what you are trying to do," Muggia said.

Planning board chairman Maryann McCall-Taylor, who was present for the hearing, said the major problem was agreeing on a density figure with the developer. Also her board has not yet seen a covenant for the design and number of units on the site, she said.

"It is really tying up those loose ends. We are on a tight deadline," McCall-Taylor said.

She noted that the covenant usually takes several months to prepare and the planning board would be meeting with the developer several times to try to formulate a covenant before town meeting.

In other actions the board signed the special town meeting warrant consisting of two articles; one to fund police contracts and a second supplemental appropriation for group insurance for town employees.

The board also signed the warrant for the regular town meeting.

Selectmen scheduled a hearing for Monday night to rule on action to be taken against a dog owned by a Pierrepont Road resident. Selectmen had originally discussed holding the meeting this week then opted to hold it Monday.

Dog officer Nick Molea told the board the dog has bitten at least three people who have required medical attention.

Selectmen instructed Molea to impound the dog if it is seen off of the owners' property before Monday's hearing.

The board approved performance bonds for the town clerk ($14,000), treasurer ($180,000), collector ($160,000), and the assistant treasurer ($45,000).

Building a new home one dream at a time

By CATHERINE WALTHERS

Since 1979 Sister Winifred Behlen has been friend, spokesperson, organizer, even "mother" to Vietnamese refugees.

Now, she adds the title of fundraiser.

She wants to raise $50,000 to $100,000 for a "dream house" and is expressing the plight of refugees in this area.

With a group of Arlington and Winchester parishioners in St. Eulalia's Church, Sister Winifred helped found Friends of Refugees eight years ago.

The group has helped about 160 people adjust to life in America by aiding with housing, education, and job hunting.

Sister Behlen still keeps track of about 25 families and talks proudly of their accomplishments. One Vietnamese woman helped by the group now owns a flag company in East Arlington.

Five families who arrived between 1981 and 1983 have bought and repaired three three-family houses.

And at age 70, Sister Behlen herself became a "mother" four years ago when she opened her own Arlington home to two Vietnamese children.

She is guardian to 14-year-old Hang and 11-year-old Hal "Peter" while working to free their natural mother from Communist-held Vietnam.

"She has all the papers she needs," Sister Winifred says of the children's mother. "She's on a waiting list of 30,000."

Sister Winifred said her organization has contacted senators and representatives in an effort to free the woman.

"She writes and we write her and

And at age 70, Sister Behlen herself became a 'mother' when she opened her own Arlington home to two Vietnamese children.

we send her packages. It's been seven years since they've seen their mother."

In the meantime, Sister Winifred and the friends continue to sponsor new families.

Their problems do not end once they are here, says Sister Winifred. In recent years, the biggest problem has become the lack of housing due to skyrocketing rents.

"We've had to stop the program because we've had to place them in Dorchester," she says. "We really didn't want to continue putting people that far away from us and it's really not safe."

Sister Winifred believes that purchasing a two- or three-family house is the only way to keep the program going.

"I call it 'our dream house,' but it is an urgently needed reality," she says.

Sister Winifred hopes to raise at least $50,000 to buy a house that would allow two or three families to rent for 18 months at a time.

"If we could charge them $400 they'd have the chance to learn the language and get a trade," she says.

"They usually have some kind of profession and they could develop that and be ready to be independent at the end of 18 months."

When the Friends sponsor a family, they help find an apartment, furnish and clean it, and supply some basic clothing. Members also help register children in schools and adults in English classes.

Now, says Sister Winifred, they need help.

From speaking at masses at St. Eulalia's and from an article in the Pilot, a Catholic newspaper, she has raised about $21,000 so far.

She is also receiving help from community members and residents serving on the Arlington Housing Corporation.

"She's really a dedicated individual," says Robert Murray, a housing corporation member and Arlington selectman. "When you have a 70-year-old woman who's taken in two refugee kids, that's not any easy job for anyone. This woman is incredible."

Adds Murray: "She lives what she speaks and now she needs some help."

Contributions toward the Friends of Refugees home can be made to: Friends of Refugees, St. Eulalia Church, 50 Ridge St., Winchester, 01890.

Sister Winifred Behlen and Peter, 11, display the St. Eulalia's dollhouse symbolizing the start of a fundraising drive to buy a house to help refugees being resettled into the area.

Cosmetic surgery evaluations held at Choate-Symmes

In an innovative offering, Choate-Symmes Health Services will provide a free facial cosmetic surgery evaluation program, believed to be the first of its kind in the area.

Steven Friedman, M.D., chairman of the Plastic Surgery Service at the Choate Hospital division, will conduct the program ("You Look Great!"), Wednesday, April 8 in Conference Room A on the main floor at Choate. He will see people on an individual basis, beginning at 4 p.m.

The following day, April 9, John Bergmeyer, M.D., staff plastic surgeon, will perform the same service at Symmes Hospital in the 2B Conference Room, starting at 4 p.m.

The purpose of the program is to provide women and men who are interested in facial cosmetic surgery the chance to have a personal, preliminary evaluation by professionals. Drs. Friedman and Bergmeyer are both board certified in general surgery and plastic surgery.

Registration is required. To make an appointment at Choate or Symmes, call 646-1500, Ext. 1441.

Diabetic mother to deliver fifth child

A 34-year-old Somerville woman who developed diabetes while pregnant with her fifth child is doing fine thanks to the cooperative medical attention of Choate-Symmes Health Services and Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Geraldine Graham, who was diagnosed with diabetes during the first weeks of her pregnancy, hopes to deliver her baby any week now.

Both her obstetrician, Dr. Janet Moore of Brigham and Women's, and her endocrinologist, Dr. Gary Portnay of Choate-Symmes, said Graham has done "amazingly well."

"Quite simply, her blood sugar control is incredible," Dr. Moore said. "The diabetes specialists at Choate-Symmes did a great job educating and monitoring Gerry, and she has done very well."

For years, women with diabetes were discouraged to have children, for fear of congenital abnormalities, increased risk of still birth, jaundice and other neonatal risks.

But doctors are discovering obtaining normal blood sugar through insulin injections or the insulin pump can help gestational diabetics carry a child through a full term.

"The insulin pump is an attempt to mimic what the body would normally do," Dr. Portnay explained.

Hospital offers programs on women's health

Winchester Hospital offers an exercise program for new and expectant mothers led by a physical therapist. The program includes gentle aerobic activity, stretching and strengthening exercises, and posture training.

Sessions are Mondays and Thursdays 5:30 - 6:30 p.m. in the Kingsbury seminar room. Cost is $5 per session. (Discounts available for 10 sessions or more).

COMING EVENTS

Library provides many services for town

The Winchester Public Library provides the town with a wide array of materials. Last year 10,178 registered patrons checked out 223,483 items, including almost 10,000 issues of magazines, 7,000 videocassettes, and 85,416 children's books, sound recordings, magazines, filmstrips and kits.

Those figures work out to 22 items per registered borrower, and 10 items for every man, woman, and child in town.

As impressive as those numbers are, the library serves to town adequately only if it supplies every resident's recreational reading, educational and informational needs, whether from its own resources or by obtaining materials from other libraries.

To achieve this goal the library's eight full-time librarians devote time and effort to selecting materials for the collection. The library also needs user input into its selection decisions.

Patrons who cannot find materials they want or need at the library are encouraged to fill out reserve cards for the desired items at the reference desk.

Suggestions for records, audio cassettes, compact discs, magazines, and video purchases as well as for books are welcome.

Reserve cards are examined by the library's professional staff. Requests for materials the library does not own are reviewed and the decision is made whether or not to purchase the item.

Every attempt is made to borrow items not purchased, from another library.

Patrons are notified when an item has arrived for them. There is a 25 cent charge for each reserve to cover the cost of notification.

The library strives to serve Winchester by having as complete and timely a collection as possible. Library users can help the library serve them better by making requests for materials they would like to see in the collection.

Events planned for National Library Week

National Library Week is April 5-11, and Winchester Public Library is celebrating with a series of events including a trivia contest, various displays, a puppet show, and an open house by the Ginn Field Playground Committee.

The Junior Library will feature an exhibit of books created by Lincoln School students for Lincoln School Book Week. Students wrote original stories based on a moral and use a word processor to edit and print them.

Some used computer graphics to illustrate their books, while others did original drawings. The books will be on display in the Junior Library through National Library Week.

Local artist and puppeteer Ruth Lieberherr will present a puppet show, "Mother Holle" at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 11. The program is free, and no advance registration is required.

The Ginn Field Playground Committee will hold an open house in the Junior Library story hour room 2:30-5 p.m. Sunday, April 5.

They will make a short presentation about their efforts, and a model of the proposed playground design will be on display.

The Winchester Library is sponsoring a trivia contest in honor of National Library Week.

The answers to 10 questions about Winchester and the library can all be located at the library.

Two winning entries, drawn from entries with the correct answers, will receive celebrity READ posters.

The grand prize winner will be rewarded with a boxed copy of The History of Winchester.

The deadline for entries is 5:30 p.m., Saturday, April 11, so test your knowledge, sharpen your research skills, and celebrate National Library Week by entering. Entry blanks are available at the library.

Library friends to host wine auction

The Friends of Winchester Public Library will host its first spring wine auction Saturday, April 11, at the Jenks Center.

The event will be hosted by wine expert Richard Elia, a Winchester resident and nationally known publisher of The Quarterly Review of Wines. Elia is also chairman of public television's Channel 2 wine auction.

The April fundraiser for the library is expected to attract a wide range of fine vintage wines, including many exceptional Bordeaux, Burgundies, California Cabernet Sauvignons and Ports. Many residents have donated bottles from their wine cellars, and wine and spirits merchants from Winchester and surrounding communities have donated wines as well.

"The evening promises to be both enjoyable and educational," says Ron Hertel, auction chairman. "We will auction fine wines in a variety of price ranges, and invite all with an interest in wines and their origins to attend."

A brief Annual Meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served at 8 p.m. in the new Jenks wing, at which time bottles may be inspected. The auction will begin at 8:30 p.m. There is no admission charge. For information, contact Dee Hanley at 721-7171.

Yoga expert brings classes to Winchester

Ruth Bender, Physical Education and Yoga instructor, will conduct two classes in Winchester. The first will be 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 13 at the weekly Yoga class at the Unitarian Church.

Newcomers are welcome. The second class will be 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 14, at Jenks Senior Center.

All are invited to participate in the first hour sitting in chairs; the second hour starting at 11 a.m. will be geared to those already practicing Yoga. Beginners may then observe or participate as desired.

Those doing floor exercises at 11 a.m. and on Monday evening will require non-restrictive clothing for stretching and a mat or a blanket.

Bender received her degree in physical education from the University of Munich, Germany. She studied Yoga with Selvarajan Yesudian in Zurich, Switzerland. In recent years she has added movements from Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais, author of "Awareness Through Movement."

She conducts classes in West Hartford, Farmington and Avon, Connecticut, where she offers annual training and refresher courses for teachers throughout the country.

Tuesday morning she will be the guest of the Yoga and Creativity group which meets each Monday at 9:45 a.m. at the Jenks Center.

Students and friends of Ruth Bender in the area are invited to bring an ingredient for a salad bar luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Paulett Taggart, 17 Ridgefield Road. Bread and tea will be provided.

Visitors may contact Margaret Leader at 729-6695 or Annette Riley at 933-6532 or other participants: Margaret Agababian, Beni Bleyle, Marjorie Burton, Sally Gallagher, Florence Hritzay, Polly Keppeler, Eva Medzorian, Alita Neff, Carmela Rice, Catherine Snell, Barbara Weber and League offers persentation on town planning

What is long-range land use planning? Why should we be interested in it?

Discussion meetings open to the public will be held next week by the Winchester League of Women Voters to answer these questions.

Vital questions about housing, recreation, traffic, water supply and maintaining open space depend on long-range planning.

Water supply and recreational needs appear to conflict in the future uses of the Middlesex Fells. Building developments affect traffic patterns.

How to keep precious open space and still broaden the tax base and meet housing needs presents a complex and ongoing problem.

How is the town meeting the need for planning?

The LWV study committee has interviewed a number of people in town government and investigated how planning is done in other towns.

Ann Bailey Berman, Debe Holland, Susan McGonagle, Marjorie Moore, Marianne O'Brien and Elaine Vreeland will present the results of their study at 7:30 p.m. at 20 Sheffield Road Tuesday, April 7, and at 9:15 a.m. at 68 High Street Thursday, April 9. All are welcome.

Historical board begins national registration

Work has begun on a Multiple Resource Area nomination (MRA) for Winchester. An MRA is a streamlined way for all of a town's important historic buildings and districts to be listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

National Register listing is valuable for three reasons: it recognizes that the listed structures and areas are important to Winchester's history; it promotes rehabilitation of the listed properties by allowing owners of income producing properties federal tax incentives for approved rehabilitation work; and it deters demolition of the listed properties by requiring approval for federally and state assisted projects.

The Winchester Historical Commission has begun this work by hiring two consultants, Harriet White and Candace Jenkins, to prepare a narrative overview, the first part of a MRA.

Whit, who holds a M.A. in historic University, is a Winchester resident. She has been one of the consultants for Newton's MRA and she has worked on preservation and planning for Somerville, Lowell and the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

Jenkins also holds a M.A. in historic preservation studies from Boston University. From 1977 to 1984 Jenkins held positions on the staff of the Massachusetts Historical Commission, lastly as preservation planning director. Jenkins has prepared many national register nominations.

Using the existing survey of Winchester properties built prior to 1917 as a base, the consultants have been working to identify the buildings and areas most significant to Winchester's history.

In the narrative overview, these buildings and areas will be seen in the context of Winchester's historical development.

Youth league seek volunteers

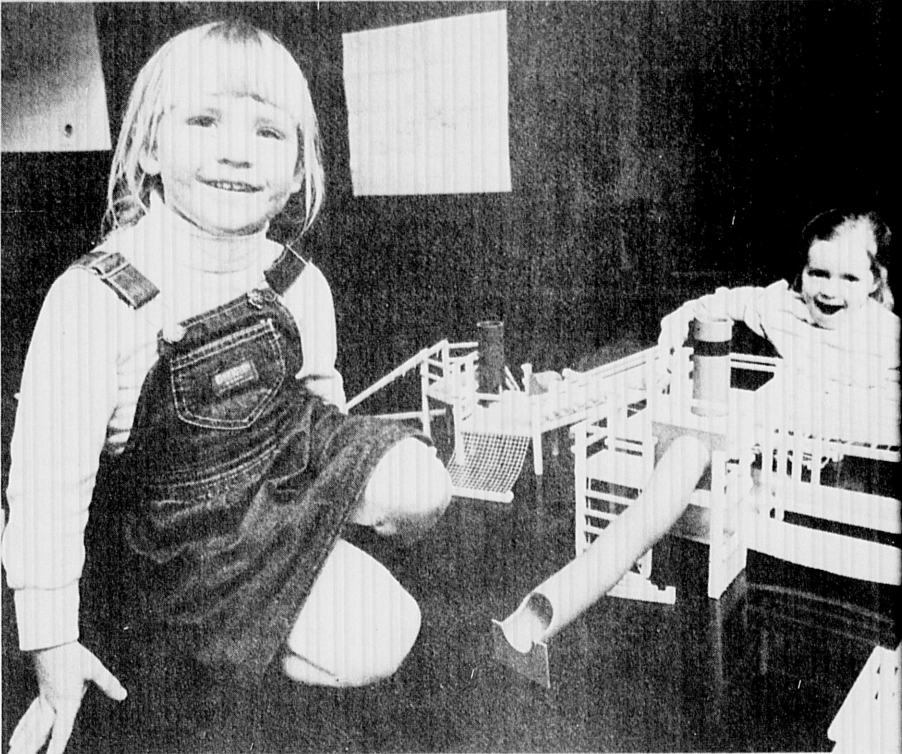

Winchester Youth Baseball-Softball league needs volunteers to help coach boys and girls this spring. This organization supports 67 baseball and softball teams for the youth of Winchester.

The league ranges from an instructional league for 7-year-olds to a Babe Ruth League for 15-year olds.

The season begins the first week of May and ends by June 15.

There will be a meeting for anyone interested in helping in this program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 2, in McColl Jr. High cafeteria for this spring's program.

If you have any questions, please call Paul Capodanno at 729-5721.

Winchester preschoolers Margot Kniffin and Haley Lamson get a glimpse of the playground proposed for Ginn Field. The model will be on display 2:30 — 4 p.m. Sunday in Winchester Public Library. (Paul Drake Photo)

Books and clothes are getting out of hand

By TERRY MAROTTA

The filing systems in this house seem to work reasonably well most of the time: food gets filed in tummies; ads get filed in the trash; those dandy fat elastic that come around broccoli get filed in the special junk drawer in our kitchen.

But the books and the clothes are beginning to get of hand here; the filing systems for them both are beginning to break down on us.

Books team and multiply in this house. They spawn and undergo cell-division. We have a million books: spy novels and an autobiography of Benito Mussolini; epic poems and a lurid photographic Encyclopedia of Disease.

They foam and overflow, yeasty with life and regeneration. Every six months we go out and buy more shelves to house them all. Bookcases climb to the ceiling in some rooms, nestle under every window, cling like ivy to the walls.

We need all these books. We're a queer sort of family when it comes to reading. We took suitcases full of books on our honeymoon.

Our 10-year-old reads half the night, huddled with a flashlight beneath the covers so we won't notice. Her sister writes long narrative poems which she then reads, in various falsetto voices, to her dolls.

Our littles, preliterates still, pretend to read his Mother Goose during the endless room-bound naptimes that are a toddler's fate to endure.

Our bookcases are inadequate to our needs, in sum.

Sadly enough, so are our bureaus. Mom and Dad's clothes abide in two narrow-shouldered chests of drawers, a pair of rickety maiden-aunts born in the last century. They are no-nonsense walnut with homely drawer-pulls and white marble tops. They are not beautiful. They are not even rectangular anymore.

And they don't hold much, dating as they do from a time when folks wore the same outfit week after week, changing only collars and cuffs in the interest of a fresh appearance.

As for drawers, they have two big ones each, followed by a small stack of drawers of various sizes, suitable for what — stays? Button hooks? Hatpins? They're too small to keep socks in, and surely too small for underwear. Even the big drawers aren't what you'd call big; they won't hold more than three sweaters, for example.

Consequently, our bureaus are museums. Since they can't possibly hold many of our actual wearing clothes, they've come to hold all of our nostalgia clothes: the satin shorts my husband boxed in at college; velvety jewelers' boxes too fancy to part with; vintage bras, those boned dinosaurs from an era of armed womanhood.

In further consequence, our closets burst with all the real stuff: hundreds of hanging things press together there, front to back in the same forced embrace commuters know on rush-hour subways.

The question of course, is what to do about this predicament? Toss out the old bureaus and buy new ones, splendid rambling stacks of drawers as long as a city block? Pull out the old skinny closets and build whole dressing rooms, gleaming well-lit open-shelved affairs, wide supermarkets we can stuff with new clothes?

I don't think so. Sure, our wardrobes are limited due to these restraints, but that's probably better for our spiritual development. Beware all enterprises requiring new clothes, Henry Thoreau used to say.

If we must build things around here, let them be bookcases, is my conclusion. If we must acquire things, let them be ideas rather than raiment.

We'll wear suits dating back to the Kennedy era if we must; but our minds will be decked out in the latest.

BEACON HILL

The House and Senate. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on two roll calls from the week of March 23-27. There were no roll calls in the Senate.

Retirement (H 5615). House 143-0, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a bill aimed at eliminating an $11 billion unfunded pension liability in retirement systems for public employees.

Supporters said the bill was carefully crafted after input from all parties and claimed it will finally tackle this major problem facing the state.

A Yea vote is for the bill.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

High School Grads (H 1501). House 105-44, rejected a bill establishing certain requirements as a prerequisite for public high school graduation. Under the bill, the requirements, beginning with freshmen in 1991, include a passing grade in four years of English; two years each of math, social studies and science; one year of fine arts or humanities; and one-half year of computer science or business education.

Supporters said the bill will improve the state's public education system and decrease the disparity in learning among students.

Opponents said 98 percent of the communities in the state already voluntarily comply with these standards and argued the problem is not the specific courses but how much students are actually learning.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Student chronicles eighth grade trip to Washington

By CHRISTY VanAKEN
Student, Grade 8
McCall Jr. High

At 4:30 a.m., March 5, 80 alarms go off and 80 McCall Jr. High eighth grade students rise to greet the still dark morning.

There is a flurry of activity as 80 people shower, do last-minute packing, or fix a snack to tide them over until later that morning.

One hour and 15 minutes later the greater part of this group, bound for Washington, waits at McCall Jr. High for a bus to Logan airport.

The travelers are under way and ready for whatever awaits at 6 a.m. Well, almost all are ready for whatever awaits, some snooze during the half-hour ride.

After that hurried start the next hours seem long. But at 7:05 a.m. the group boards the airplane ready to take off.

The flight is exciting as the small plane turns quickly and many experience a sense of exhilaration. Unfortunately, not all share this feeling and the bags provided for motion discomfort do not stay idle throughout the trip.

The group touches down in Washington D.C. at 9 a.m. Everyone is excited and hopeful. The group sets off for the Federal Bureau of Investigation building. On tour, they listen about how the F.B.I. fights foreign intelligence crimes, terrorism, white collar crimes, and organized crimes.

The high point of the visit was the firearms demonstration at the end of the tour.

"You just have to see it," many said when it was over.

When the group is finished they are so hungry, the chaperones decide to skip the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and head for lunch.

After eating, they jump back on the bus for the two-hour ride to Luray Caverns. When the group arrives they spend about an hour wandering the magnificent caverns.

They explore the mile and a quarter walkway through the caverns with tour guides who explain everything in full detail.

Once out of the caves, the group hops back on the buses and takes the scenic route through the mountains along Skyline Drive.

The group relaxes and watches the scenery roll by, stopping occasionally to take pictures. One picture stop is abandoned though after a very frightened skunk made his presence known.

Fortunately nobody is sprayed by his "perfume."

The group has dinner at a cafeteria in a mall across from the hotel, then the eighth grade students ride the bus across the highway to the hotel.

Room leaders are given keys and the groups go to their rooms to settle in before taking a swim in the pool that has been kept open for them.

Much later, the groups drift back to their room before a bed check and stay there watching TV or talking.

At 6 a.m. the teens awaken for breakfast downstairs in the hotel dining room.

When they finish, the two buses set out again; this time for the Washington Monument.

They arrive almost 20 minutes early and the young photographers busy themselves while they wait.

At 9 a.m. the first group takes the 70 second elevator ride up and is amazed by the view. On the way up the group hears how the builders ran out of money before the monument was complete and when they raised the rest of the funds, the marble used for the first part was almost gone. The rest was finished with marble of a slightly different color.

About half an hour later the buses are full again and head for the Vietnam Memorial.

For about 15 minutes the group walks about reading the names engraved in the black marble. Some students look for names of friends of their family.

Others walk along the walkway reading names until it is time to go across the street to the Einstein statue.

Students sit on the huge statue and have their pictures taken.

From there, it is off to the White House where everyone gets shots of the back of the President's home. Then, everyone leaves for the Capitol Building.

After waiting for a while with about 1000 other elementary school children from Florida, the group is brought inside the Capitol by Representative Markey.

They sit down in the House of Representatives and listen to a speech on how Congress operates and then break off into groups for a tour and then just look around.

They can go almost everywhere except the Senate Chamber. The Senate is meeting that day.

At noon the eighth grade students straggle back to the bus and go to the National Gallery for lunch.

After lunch it is time to tour the Smithsonian and there are a lot of them.

First the group visits the Natural History Museum where everyone scrambles trying to find the answers for a scavenger hunt.

Then it's off to the Museum of American History with another scavenger hunt.

Then, it is time to go to the Air and Space Museum.

By this time the heat and fatigue are taking their toll and the tired group drags themselves inside for a life-like movie shown on a five story movie screen, titled "To Fly."

Then it's back on the buses and off to dinner and a little shopping before the group prepares for the night tour.

The first stop on the night tour is the Jefferson Memorial.

The shutters really have a great time during this tour. All the monuments and memorials are lit up and every detail is visible in the reflecting pools.

St. Mary's offers extended kindergarten

Beginning in the Fall of 1987, the hours of the kindergarten class at St. Mary's School, Winchester, will be extended by 45 minutes each day.

The hours will be 8:15 a.m. until noon.

The Pre-K program will continue to be offered on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday 8:15 to 11:05 a.m. In addition, the school will be offering a new after school care program 11:10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. for those students who attend St. Mary's School.

The purpose of this program is to provide a safe and enjoyable environment with supervised play and other constructive educational activities for those children whose parents work or are otherwise unable to pick up their children at the end of their school day.

Details of the after school program are in the process of being finalized and will be announced later this spring.

Parents interested in registering children in St. Mary's School for the fall are encouraged to contact the Next stop is the Lincoln Memorial where everyone scans the tablets of two of Lincoln's most famous speeches for a mistake in the stone.

They find it — instead of "future" it had been chiseled "euture."

Everyone finds this amusing and the tour heads out for the last stop — the Iwo Jima Marine Memorial with statues of men putting the American flag in the ground.

The tour is done, but the night isn't over. It's time to go back to the hotel for a dance.

But the dance soon breaks up in favor of swimming or little parties in the rooms.

The parties are broken up early. Unfortunately for the party-goers but probably a blessing for the chaperones.

The next morning is an early one as the group rises for breakfast at 7 a.m. All bags need to be packed and bills settled before the group leaves the hotel.

Nonetheless the group is under way and arrives at the Arlington National Cemetery on time.

Erin O'Neill, Sheila McCarthy, Darryl Nash, and Mike Britt have been chosen by lottery to help place the wreath from McCall on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

It is quite a ceremony and when it is over the group watches the changing of the guard — another spectacular sight.

They then walk over to see the Kennedy gravesites.

On the way the group sees a red fox scamper through the cemetery. Everyone stops and watches before moving on.

The group arrives at Mount Vernon later that morning and wanders the grounds of the mansion belonging to the nation's first President.

The last stop on the tour of Washington D.C. is the National Zoo. The students are told they will only have about an hour-and-a-half and to make the most of it, but they are so exhausted that most return to the bus early, having toured and seen most of the wonders of the zoo: giant pandas, the white tiger, even gophers.

It is time to split up, as not everyone will fit on the same plane going back.

One bus drives all the way to Baltimore, Maryland to board a plane while the other bus heads for the Washington airport.

Tired but happy, both groups arrive in Boston and details concerning luggage and buses are taken care of. Back on the same buses they started on, many can't believe it is over. After all that activity, many will sleep for more than 12 hours that night.

But first they must get home. In the McCall parking lot, goodbyes and special thank yous are given to the chaperones: Mr. Mac, Mr. Bouley, Mr. McGrath, Mrs. Halstrom, and Mrs. Howell. Finally the students are driven home.

Everyone agreed the trip to Washington D.C. was terrific and is a must in years to come.

Sachem lacrosse team at 8-9

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

The Winchester High School lacrosse team finished last season with a record of 8-9, which isn't bad for a small school in a big league.

Lacrosse competition is not divided into the usual high school leagues because so few schools have programs. The result is the formation of Division I North competition, with Winchester High School ranking as the second smallest of 13 schools.

Winchester has been able to remain respectable despite its size, however, playing around .500 after switching to Division I North play.

The Sachems were scheduled to open their 1987 season Wednesday, April 1, at Newton South and should be able to remain a respectable team. Despite some preseason problems, they should put up a good fight this spring.

The Sachems lost ten seniors to graduation last year, including everyone on the team with any experience in goal.

"We don't have any tested goalies back, which is going to be a major problem," coach Gene Bouley said.

The Sachems also lost several starting attackers, including standout Jim Campo. To worsen the situation, Winchester has been limited by field problems, making it difficult for the team to organize itself for the season opener.

There are some positive notes for the Sachems, however. Bouley said the defense is looking solid this year with experienced seniors Scott Racek and Dan Fallon returning, which should help the Sachems while they try to get themselves straightened out in goal.

Winchester should also be strong at midfield with John Ward, Rob Arcari, George Nowell and Kent McCord returning, all of whom made big contributions to the team last season.

Mike Murray will be leading the offense as the key man on attack. Murray was converted from mid-fielder to attack with great success last season and should be effective for the Sachems again this spring.

The Sachems also have an advantage of experienced coaching. Bouley has coached lacrosse at Winchester High School since the program began. Bouley said Winchester was the first public high school in the state to have lacrosse when he started it as a club 23 years ago.

Although the Sachem's standing in Division I North play is somewhat questionable right now, Winchester has the potential to provide strong competition for the big schools in the division.

They'll have tough competition, but they should be able to hold their own among the giants of the North.

Winchester youth team wins title

The Winchester Youth Basketball seventh grade team won the Winchester Invitational Tournament and the Wakefield Tournament after finishing its season with a 23-3 record.

Winchester's sixth and eighth grade teams were less successful, although the sixth grade team managed to make the finals in both tournaments.

The seventh grade team beat Burlington, Masconomet and Reading in the Winchester tournament on March 14 and 15.

After the Winchester tournament final, the team traveled to Wakefield the same afternoon to compete in the other tournament.

Winchester faced Lynnfield for its first game of the Wakefield Tournament, one of only two teams to beat Winchester during the season.

The Winchester boys played hard and trounced Lynnfield in an overwhelming 59-38 victory.

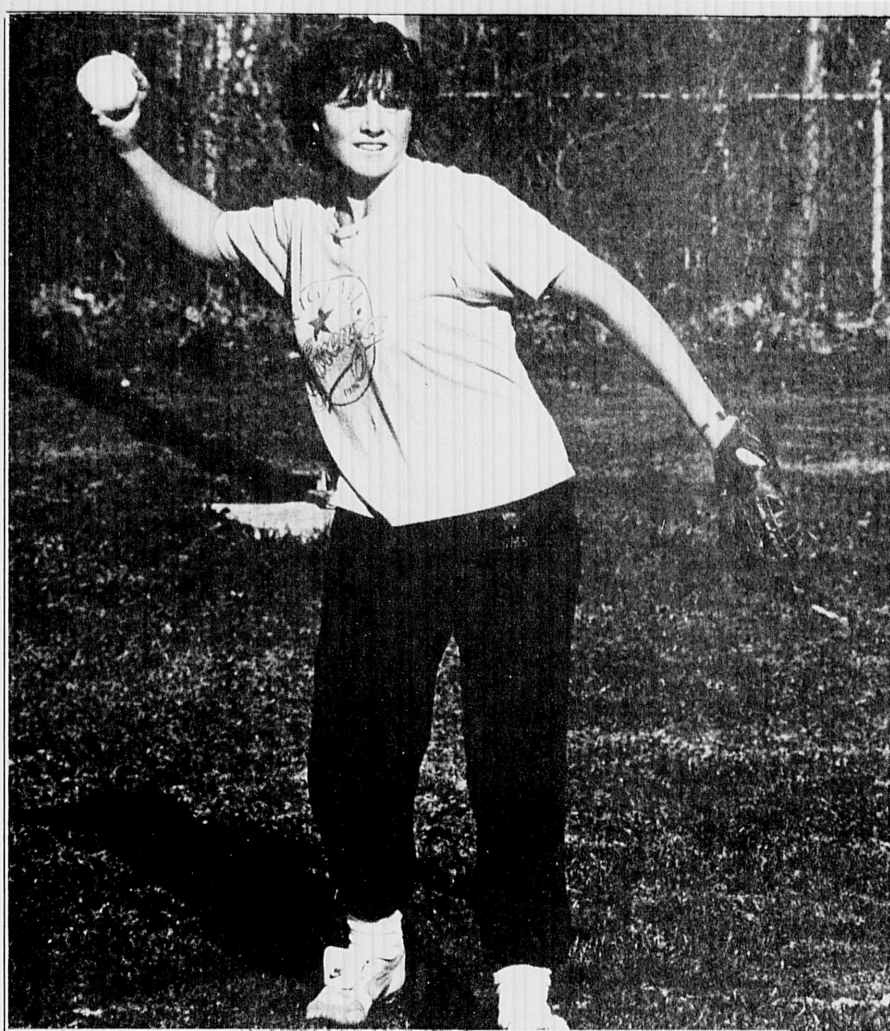

The following Sunday Winchester beat Wayland 67-41. On March 29, Winchester won the final game of the tournament, 53-32, over Beverly.

Driscoll returns as Curry College lacrosse goalie

Kevin Driscoll of Winchester will return as a veteran goalie to the Curry College lacrosse team which will open a 12-game schedule this week under new head coach Edward Olmstead.

Only in its second year as a varsity unit, the team hopes to record a second winning season.

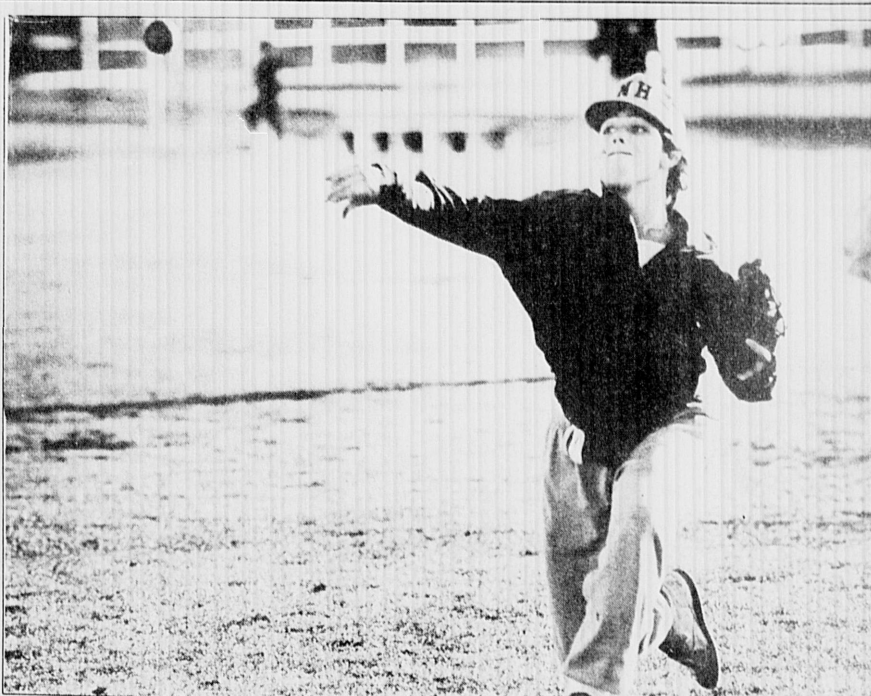

The opening game was at Western New England College on March 26.

Winchester High '9' hopes to stay near top

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

The Winchester High School baseball team will be relying on different strategies this year in hopes of remaining successful in the Middlesex League.

Last year's team finished second in league play with a 14-5-1 record. The Sachems of 1986 relied mostly on their strong hitting, however and that could be missing on this year's squad.

The Sachems lost several seniors to graduation, including four league all-stars, but Coach William Chase believes that pitching will keep Winchester near the top of the league.

The Sachems' best pitcher was among the four all-stars lost, but they will still have three pitchers on the team with varsity experience.

Al Nasson, who is also a leading hitter for Winchester, will be the top pitcher, followed by Sean McElhinney, who was last year's number three starter and led the Sachems in earned run average for most of the season.

The starting pitching staff will be rounded out by Shawn Epps, who has varsity experience as a relief pitcher, and John Kirkpatrick, who pitched in junior varsity last year.

"We're going to look towards some aggressive baseball and pick up the runs where we can - more hit and run, bunt style baseball as opposed to waiting for the big home run and the big four-run inning here and there. We aren't going to get those kind of runs so we look more to pitching to carry us this year," Chase said.

Chase is confident Winchester will be successful with its new approach to baseball. He hopes the Sachems will have the same success that brought them to post-season play four of the last five seasons.

"We've done that pretty much with hitting and scoring a lot of runs. We're going to have to do it with pitching and defense this year," Chase said. "I don't know if we'll end up as the winner of the league, but we'll be up there."

9 are named to all-stars

The Winchester High School boys swim team placed nine of its members on the Middlesex League All-star team, more than any other school in the league.

Representing the Sachems were Omar Ali, Jim Blasi, Jim Bower, Alexi Carayannopoulos, T.J. Foley, Adam Latts, John Murray, Greg O'Conner and Guy Pollino.

Maida honored

Winchester High School senior Debbie Maida was recently named to the 1986-87 Middlesex League girls gymnastics all-star team.

Maida was also recently honored by the Grand Lodge of Italy for her soccer performance with Winchester High School last fall. She was named the state player of the year for the 1986 girls soccer season.

Chitty Chitty Bang Bang fills the house all week

By PEGGY HALLISEY

Special to the Star

The Cooperative Theatre for Children production of Chitty, Chitty, Bang, Bang played to enthusiastic full-houses at the Lincoln School Auditorium over the week-end.

Directed by Cathy Alexander, the cast of 71 Winchester elementary school children gave polished, performances. The cast sang with gleeful gusto and danced skillfully.

This clever adaptation of the story of a car that can fly is introduced by very poised narrators: Lindsay Bleier, Emily d'Entremont, Lauren Cvinar and Mahrya Dakubu. We meet Professor Potts' children first and they are delightful. As Molly, Tomoah Murakami and Tracey mabardy have magic smiles.

Kristen Freeman and Allyson Livada bubble in the role of Jemima. Eric Clemente and Andrew Fuller as Jeremy, and Jessica Swainbank and Sarah Rotondi as Mimsy are wonderful.

Alec Duffy and Matt Fuller play the role of inventor Professor Potts well. They capture his spirit of eccentricity, yet portray him also as a loving father to his motherless children.

Their song of family love, "Yor Four" is charming. Even their dog Edison (Mike Lacey and Mark Gallagher) get into the act.

The choreography by Bethany Appleton, especially clever in the "Toots Sweet" scene. The actors, with the help of orchestra percussion instruments, become the candy factory machinery.

It is in this scene also that Miss Truly Scrumptious (Lauren Harder and Debbie Lerman) helps Professor Potts sell his whistling lollipop recipe to her father. Thus, he earns the money to buy the junkyard car for his children.

Professor Potts rebuilds the wreck into a magnificent "Chitty, Chitty" car. The children are delighted.

Their first family outing serves as the occasion for Truly and the children to warm the audience with their beautiful rendition of "Truly Scrumptious."

Grandpa, Col. Potts Esq. traveler extraordinaire, is a treat on stage. Brett Lovins and Jan Zeman make this comic character lovable.

Grandpa leads the singer and dancers in three spirited numbers. The audience is sad when he is carted off to Vulgaria where he must reproduce the Chitty Chitty car or be executed.

Vulgaria is ruled by a Baron and Baroness who hate children. When Truly, Potts and his children arrive there to rescue Grandpa, the kindly village toymaker (Catherine Doherty and Lindsay Schlorff) hides the children to save them from certain death.

The long-nosed Childcatcher sniffs them out and knows that they must be in the toy store, but can not find them. He returns later, dressed as a clown, and lures the children out with promises of candy.

Lindsay Bleier brings a lively, quality to her portrayal of the Childcatcher. Gabe Brandt conveys forbidding, sinister quality.

"Chu-Chi Face" sung by John Magee, Catherine Krumme, Matthew Pavelle and Deirdre Murdock as the Baron and Baroness brings down the house in this show. It is the silly love song of a childish, selfish couple. What makes it especially hilarious is the actors' ability to play so well off of each other.

The toymaker brings in her presents which are two special life-like music box dolls. Lauren Harder, Debbie Lerman, Matt Fuller and Alec Duffy fascinate the Baron with their dancing.

While his is thus distracted, the hidden children of Vulgaria rush in and capture the evil Baron and Baroness. Finally the children are free and happiness can again reign in Vulgaria.

Four more productions of "Chitty, Chitty, Bang, Bang" are scheduled for this week-end at the Lincoln School Auditorium.

ARTICLE
To see if the Town will vote to release the covenants contained in an Agreement dated November 5, 1980, with John Lane concerning certain property located off Cross Street and designated as Lot 2 on a "Subdivision Plan of Land Winchester, Mass. Scale: 50 feet to an inch" dated September 14, 1974, by Joseph Selwyn, Civil Engineer; and to direct the Planning Board of the Town of Winchester to release the covenants under said Agreement; and take any action in relation thereto.

(Purpose of this amendment is to seek relief from terms of a covenant entered into with the Planning Board which regulated the allowable uses when a portion of land was previously rezoned to an LI District.)

Prior to the hearing information and plans relative to these amendments may be obtained at the Planning Board/Engineering Department Office, Temporary Quarters, Town Hall Auditorium. By order of the Planning Board this twenty-third day of March 1987.

Wine auction uncertain

He also said he hoped the permit would be approved when the board votes next week.

He will no longer be serving on the board when it votes on the issue Monday.

"The life of the law is not logic but good judgment. What is the purpose of the auction? It is to benefit the people of the town. This is for the benefit of the people and we are here to work the will of the people," Welch said.

Welch further said he hoped public support of the auction would encourage issuance of the auctioneer's permit.

"This is now in the court of public opinion," Welch said.

Hertel said he hoped the board would consider the benefit to the town by the auction and would support the Friends of the Library in their efforts.

"We are trying to do a town-wide good," Hertel said.

The board will vote on the matter Monday night.

didate in January to discuss their recommendations.

By Jan. 30, the superintendent's written rationale and evaluation is submitted to the school committee.

Mitsakos said that, on the basis of Baker's positive evaluation, a recommendation to rehire was made.

During the month of February, the school committee is encouraged to meet with the superintendent, and by the end of February, the superintendent's responses to questions should be complete. By March 1, the superintendent's formal recommendation should be on the committee members' desks.

In this case, Mitsakos said, he withheld his formal recommendation until the March 24 meeting, where he again recommended a rehire decision.

School committee chairman Michael Ronayne would not comment about the reasons for his decision, or how the committee members all arrived at the same decision, against the superintendent's recommendation, without public discussion.

He did say that he had based his own decision on "input from the system, other members of the school committee, and the public."

Addressing the question of whether the open meeting law was violated by a private discussion among committee members, Ronayne said, "We do talk to each other, but not as a board. All six members of the school committee had come to the same conclusion."

School committee member Edward O'Connell commented, "Tenure is a thing not to be granted lightly. When we exercise that, we should do it without any reservations. We must have full, full, full confidence in the candidate. In this situation, I just didn't have that."

Asked about the sources of information that led to such a decision, O'Connell would only say, "I'm a part of the community. I hear lots and lots of things."

O'Connell refused to go into detail about the nature of his information. Baker says she has no immediate plans other than to finish the graduate work she is doing this year on leadership in education.

"I don't know if I want to continue in education," she said. "I may leave it altogether."

sign and re-locating it. Suggestions for a better location included near town hall or duck pond, closer to the downtown area and on the common.

When the discussion turned to renovating the war memorial near town hall, selectmen deferred to the town hall advisory committee.

"We have been deferring to them with great glee for a number of months now so, we will pass you on to Susan Keats and her friends," Welch said.

Selectmen and members of the planning board who were present commended members of the committee for both their report and the Design Reference Manual for the Town of Winchester.

Members of the committee are Tsackares, Ann Blackham, Jane Kirtledge, Maureen Meister and Sergei Sorokin.

Controversy over, school celebrations to grow, say officials

tion," Ronayne asserted.

Mitsakos, who said of the Christmas issue at one point, "Frankly, I'm tired of hearing about it," told parents and teachers present, "This should be put in perspective. It is one small part of the multicultural program. I hope this much energy is devoted to the other nine months of the year."

The five subcommittees that presented interim reports have investigated and are preparing final reports on school climate (informal atmosphere), outside curriculum (other schools' programs), religious awareness, Winchester curriculum, and staff education (in multicultural awareness).

William Jervy, a member of the school committee who also served on the school climate task force, said that his subcommittee had prepared a draft report and sent it to the task force members. The report, he said, calls for more dialogue in the schools in the form of workshops and "ongoing sessions."

Jervy noted that for one year, in 1979, the schools had a multicultural specialist on the staff, but that Proposition 2½ had forced termination of the position.

Mitsakos said a major goal for this year is to "foster a sense of community among the students." He pointed out that, in addition to racial, religious and ethnic concerns, awareness should be increased concerning gender and socioeconomic prejudices.

David Vitale, a father of three in the school system, spoke for the outside curriculum subcommittee. He indicated that, though there is much evidence of multicultural programs in other schools, there is some question as to whether the programs are really being implemented.

To make such a program effective in Winchester, Vitale suggested, teachers should be encouraged to teach multicultural subjects that interest them, rather than being obliged to teach from a program developed "from above."

"We look to validate teachers in what they do," he said.

"Inspire not require," clarified Susan Bokil, a teacher at the Muraco School.

Vitale's subcommittee's report will deal with the development of a teacher training program and the organization of study groups to look into other towns' actions.

As needed, course developers will "add updated and relevant material on minorities to course material."

Elizabeth Herberich presented the religious subcommittee report. She told of the need to balance the sense of community with the sense of diversity.

She said her subcommittee had heard a lot from Winchester residents, and that discussion had been on the order of "whether you are for more Christmas or less Christmas."

She also indicated that her subcommittee had been the object of some abusive behavior.

The Winchester curriculum subcommittee's Lawrence Rinaldi, a teacher at the high school, said the subcommittee's report would be ready in April.

Noting that curriculum was really the purview of the school committee, he stated that the report would take the form of recommendations.

In the area of teacher training, Rinaldi pointed out that there are two former Peace Corps members on the staff, and that they bring their perspective the children they teach.

School committee member Edward O'Connell asked if something like a multicultural day might be appropriate. Rinaldi said that there had been one at the high school during the year the multicultural specialist was on staff.

School committee member Donna Brandt Landry pointed out that such "a day is nice, but every day is necessary."

Vitale said that a calendar with all the different ethnic holidays might be a good tool to develop.

Rinaldi pointed out the conflict between students' learning of a global perspective and their ability to score well on SATs, which have not yet been integrated with a multicultural perspective.

O'Connell questioned whether it was appropriate for Winchester to follow SAT standards. He said the town should lead in such matters.

Assistant superintendent David Ackerman noted that SAT tests are changing and that the problem would resolve itself over time.

Nevaire Gift Shop has something for everyone

Whether you have a specific holiday gift in mind—a hummel, a collectable, or a collector plate, or if you can't make up your mind what to get that certain someone, there is something for everyone at Nevaire Gift Shop located at 1 Medford St. (Corner of Mass. Ave.) Arlington.

Owner/proprietor Elaine Cunningham recently renovated the store which she took over about a year ago. She has expanded some lines and added others offering an even wider selection of gifts and collectables.

"We have expanded our greeting card section," Elaine explains. "We now have more than a thousand new cards in the store. We also carry a full Hallmark line including cards, giftware, and paper goods."

Nevaire Gift Shop is the only Precious Moment dealer in Arlington and stocks one of the areas largest selections of Hudson collectables, Sebastian figurines, David Winter cottages, and Normal Rockwell and Chokin collector's plates.

Nevaire Gift shop also stocks one of the areas largest inventories of nativity figurines and sets. Among the lines they carry are Christopher and Fontanini. They also carry a large selection of religious items.

"We have probably doubled out inventory since taking over from the previous owner," Cunningham explains. "He put his focus on expensive giftware. In fact," she adds, Nevaire means precious gift in Armenian. We now have expanded to some larger giftware including gift line and have something for everyone."

Complimenting a selection of Waterford Crystal, and a large inventory of Schmid, Willett, and Enesco music boxes, are some more moderately priced items ranging from Dakin and Gund stuffed animals, and Hallmark candles, to Cross pen and pencil sets and an extensive supply of novelty gifts including mugs with just about anything you can imagine printed on them.

Nevaire Gift Shop also stocks many thank you cards, wedding invitations, calendars, and stationery.

Perhaps you are already familiar with the inventory at Nevaire Gift Shop. You were probably among the many Arlington households that received their catalogue in the mail recently. Ninety percent of the items in the catalogue are carried in the store inventory and if you need a catalogue you can pick one up during store hours — Monday-Saturday 9-5:30.

No matter who you need a present for, or what you need as far as collectables, greeting cards, or gifts are concerned, you will find something at Nevaire Gift Shop.

Custodian honored for 25 years at school

By ELIZABETH AARON

Pat McDonough has racked up his first quarter-century as a custodian for Vinson-Owen School.

In celebration of last week's milestone, Jane D'Ambrosio, president of the Vinson-Owen parents association, presented McDonough with a framed caricature of himself.

"The parents really appreciate what he's done for the children. He's very personable, accessible, and always has a smile on his face. He's popular with the children," D'Ambrosio said.

"That's beautiful," exclaimed McDonough upon receiving the gift. "It's unbelievable. They had a day for me last year, too. I'm happy working here. It's the only school I've worked at," McDonough said of his work and friends at the school.

Principal Suzanne McGee announced the occasion over the public address system to the students.

"Happy Custodian's Day," roared back from the class rooms in congratulations to McDonough.

Three 8-year-old students, Emily Callahan, David Bees, and Nadia Tzeliavento, represented their classmates by giving McDonough a child-crafted book of drawings.

"I think he's a good custodian. He's always happy every day," Nadia said.

Voice of the Turtle will present The Dove and the Magic Cloak on Sunday, April 5 at 4 p.m., at M.I.T.'s Kresge Auditorium.

This is an original folk tale through which the music of the Sephardim (the Jews of Spain) is woven.

The story, written by Turtle Derek Burrows, with Lisle Kulbach and Judith Wachs, offers a unique vehicle for the music of the spring holidays of Purim and Passover, as well as for the story-songs of the Sephardic musical repertoire - the romancas.

Guest artist will be Robert J. Lurtsema, host of WGBH Morning Pro Musica, who will serve as narrator of the folk tale.

Designed by people of all ages, the event will offer an afternoon of music and storytelling.

Tickets are $12, $10 and $8 and are available at Wooden Strings in Arlington, Kolbo Bookstore in Brookline and at the M.I.T. Hillel in Cambridge. For further information call 253-2969.

Dance continues at the Strand

Dance Umbrella, in association with the Boston Dance Alliance and the McCormack Center for the Arts, continues its Dance at the Strand series during the month of April, highlighting some of the newest and best choreography by local companies.

All events take place in the historic Strand Theater, 543 Columbia Rd., Dorchester.

The Strand, built in 1918 as a vaudeville house, became the first of the million dollar movie houses. It was renovated in 1979, restoring its famed beauty and offering an excellent setting for dance performances.

The series which offers world premieres by some of the area's finest contemporary dance choreographers continues Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4 at 8 p.m. with a shared program by Danceworks and Boston Dance Project.

Included is a premiere of duets and solos. Culled from previous works, Letters is an extended dance piece for five dancers.

Gerri Houlihan, Artistic Director of Boston Dance Project, will also premiere a new work. Both Ms. Rose and Ms. Houlihan will present their new collaboration, a quartet to a suite of Patsy Kline songs.

Concert Dance Company will conclude the series on Friday and Saturday April 10 and 11 at 8 p.m.

The program includes Inlets, II, choreographed by Merce Cunningham for seven dancers and set to music by John Cage, as well as Mark Dendy's Beat for four dancers.

Dreamgirls returns to Boston

Dreamgirls, the innovative Broadway musical returns to the Shubert Theatre for a limited four-week engagement, April 7 through May 2, as part of its international tour.

Dreamgirls has a Tony Award winning book by Tom Eyr and a Grammy Award winning score, with lyrics by Mr. Eyr and music by Henry Krieger.

Dreamgirls is a personalized history of black musical performers during the 1960's and 70's when the effort to cross over into the white world of popular music was achieved.

It tells the story of three young girls from Chicago who start out singing backup for a rhythm and blues star and end up as solid gold superstars — The Dreams — who come face to face with the consequences of success.

Lillias White portrays Effie, the headstrong Dream who sings the showstopping Act I finale, And I'm Telling You, I'm Not Going.

Alisa Gyse is Deena, the lead Dream who has it all—fame, fortune, and ultimately, heartbreak.

Obba Babatundé, who starred on Broadway as C.C. White, plays Curtis, the man who brings both success and pain to all. Arnetia Walker is Lorrell, the Dream who knows it Ain't No Party in her quest for a career and marriage.

Herbert L. Rawlings, Jr. portrays James Thunder Early, the singer who has gotta have soul in his music.

Susan Beaubian plays Michelle, the new girl. Kevyn Morrow is C.C. White, Effie's songwriting brother and Roy L. Jones plays the faithful agent, Marty.

Dreamgirls opens Tuesday, April 7 at 7:30 p.m. Performances thereafter are Monday through Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday at 2 p.m. and on Sunday, April 12 at 3 p.m.

Tickets are available at the Shubert Theatre Box Office, 265 Tremont St. and at all Ticketron outlets. Tickets may also be charged to a major credit card by calling Tele-Charge at 1-800-233-3123 or call 246-4520.

A.R.T. announces new stage series

The American Repertory Theatre will present world premieres by American playwrights Christopher Durang and Ronald Ribman, and introduce a new late-night cabaret.

The series will run in repertory from Sunday, April 5 through Sunday, May 3 at 12 Holyoke St., Cambridge.

A.R.T./New Stages will present two one-act plays by Ribman, The Serpent's Egg and The Cannibal Masque, staged by resident director David Wheeler.

Written as a trilogy with Sweet Table at the Richelieu, these two plays are as simple and suggestive as parables, and as mysterious and compelling as prophecies.

Under the collective title

The Cannibal Masque, they begin performances on Sunday, April 5 at 8 p.m.

In the second offering, Mrs. Sorken Presents...("Ubu Lear" and Other Peerless Classics), Christopher Durang has fashioned an evening of outrageous satire as he parodies Tennessee Williams, Shakespeare, and Sam Shepard.

This hilarious stamped through the great plays of the Western world is guided by an unforgettable dotty Mrs. Sorken and her ruminations on the origins of theatre.

The comedy is directed by R.J. Cutler and Wesley Savick, with performances beginning on Wednesday April 8 at 8 p.m. and continuing through May 1.

On Friday and Saturday evenings at 10:30, New Stages will present the first in a series of late-night cabarets, with a double-bill of Richard Curits's The Skinhead Hamlet and Miles Kingston's The Case of the Danish Prince.

This evening of comic adventure is directed by Wesley Savick, and will be performed on April 17, 18, 24, 25 and May 1 and 2.

Except for the first week, which begins on April 5, performances in the New Stages series are Wednesdays through Sundays at 8 p.m., with late-night cabarets on Friday and Saturdays at 10:30 p.m. Tickets for Sunday, Wednesday Thursday evenings are $12; Friday and Saturdays are $16; and the late-night cabaret tickets are $5.

The Box Office is now open for sales at the Loeb Drama Center, 64 Brattle St., Cambridge from 11 to 5:30, or reservations can be made by calling 547-8300.

If this looks to you like a goose on roller skates, you could be going blind.

No, there's nothing wrong with your vision.

But there could be something wrong with your eyes.

You could have an eye disease serious enough to blind you, and not even know it. The leading cause of blindness in adults, glaucoma, has no symptoms in early stages.

There's no cure, but there is hope.

You can stop glaucoma from advancing (and many other eye diseases from happening in the first place) by seeing an eye doctor at least every two years.

Remember, no one can save your sight but you.

Chinese

through the Final years of traditions of calligraphy at Sackler

The final years of the great traditions of Chinese painting and calligraphy are the subject of Last of the Mandarins: Chinese Calligraphy and Painting from the F.Y. Chang Collection, on view at the Arthur M. Sackler Museum through June 21.

Shown for the first time are some 37 works from the Chang collection: scroll paintings, calligraphy, and fans by the last generations of Chinese artists to follow the classical ideals formed by thousands of years of artistic practice in China.

Organized and with a catalogue by Julia K. Murray, former assistant curator of Oriental art at the Harvard University Art Museums, the exhibition will offer a fascinating view of the persistence and change of the classical Chinese tradition through the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Some of the paintings follow the conservative practice of court artists in Peking, while others were influenced by the bold, colorful approach developed in the commercial center of Shanghai in the 19th century.

Much of the calligraphy on view, inspired by studies of recently discovered ancient texts, looks strikingly modern.

The powerful pictographs of some of these calligraphers almost seem to anticipate the work of the American abstract expressionists.

Born in 1890, in the waning years of China's last imperial dynasty, Chang Fu-yun (F.Y. Chang) lived a life which spanned an era of vast political, social, and cultural change in China.

He received a classical Chinese education in his birthplace, the port of Chefoo, and, in 1911, won a scholarship for study at Harvard.

He received the A.B. cum laude, from Harvard College in 1914, the LL.B. from Harvard Law School in 1917, and remained devoted to the University for the rest of his life.

While Chang was in America, the last imperial dynasty of China, the Ch'ing, was overthrown and the monarchy was abolished.

By the time he returned to China, the nominal republic which had replaced the empire had degenerated into warlord-ruled factions and rival governments controlling different parts of China, a prelude to several decades of instability.

Chang served in a number of government and academic posts during these turbulent years of the Chinese Republic, after the nation was officially reunited under Chiang Kai-shek, and gradually formed a remarkable collection of the Chinese art of his own time.

True to his life-long Confucian values, the works he acquired from the artists who were often his friends and contemporaries represented the last harvest of the great tradition of Chinese painting and calligraphy.

As Murray points out in the introduction to the catalogue, Chinese painting and calligraphy in the late 19th and early 20th centuries was a fascinating mixture of conservative tradition, new developments in "Chinese-style" art, and European influences.

F.Y. Chang had, despite his American education, little interest in the latter. He collected only one work by a European-trained artist and disapproved of Chinese artists who imitated foreign styles.

For centuries considered the highest of the arts by the Chinese, calligraphy traditionally followed models provided by great calligraphers of the past.

A century and a half of scholarly studies of earlier script styles, particularly from ancient stone tablets, archaic bronzes, and classic carved seals, provided new models for the late Ch'ing calligraphers to emulate.

Many of them rejected the cultivated, ornate taste of the established Ming models in favor of a new, refreshing directness, simplicity, and vigor, based on ancient examples of Chinese writing.

This movement in calligraphy flourished in the twentieth century, represented in the exhibition by the work of such artists as Lo Chen-yu, Cheng Hsiao-Hsum, Chu I-fan, and Ting Erh-chung.

The dramatic discovery of "oracle bones" in the late 19th century led to another development in calligraphic styles.

The oracle bones, polished cattle bones or tortoise shells carved with ancient inscriptions, were found by the thousands in Honan province.

The oracle bones, scholars discovered, contained one of the earliest forms of Chinese writing, the records of divinations made by the high priests of the Bronze-age Shang dynasty.

Calligrapher-scholars such as Wang I-jung, represented in the exhibition, collected the bones and the powerful and angular oracle bone script was adopted as a new style which was both "archaic" and modern."

In painting, F.Y. Chang collected 20th-century works of two stylistic types, the Orthodox style and the Shanghai style.

The Orthodox style had its origins in the conservative, Ch'ing court of the 17th century, when Tung Ch'i-ch'ang formulated theories on the development of Chinese landscape painting and proposed a lineage of ancient masters as models for emulation.

He held up the ideal of the master painter as a cultivated scholar, who painted not as a professional but as an amateur, using the medium to express his ideas and feelings.

This style, as exemplified by the "Four Wangs," a group of prominent late-18th-century landscape painters, became institutionalized at the Ch'ing court.

Its goal was to achieve a "grand synthesis," in which an artist drew on the essence of the ancient masters to make his own creative statement.

When the cultural power of the Ch'ing dynasty disintegrated in the early twentieth century, Orthodox artists struggled to maintain traditional Chinese painting against the threat of Western-influenced styles.

In Peking, Chin Ch'eng established the conservative Hu-sh'e (or Lake Society) art association,

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

Shapes undulate and movement prevails in Roselyn Karol Ablow's pastel, Falling Leaves, on exhibit at the Newton Arts Center.

Works on paper exhibited

New Works on Paper at the Newton Arts Center, 61 Washington Park, features the work of Alexandra Antic, Nan Freeman and Roselyn Karol Ablow. The three artists give paper a different role in their handling of it as a medium of expression.

Paper as fibrous, fragile, and yielding is integral to Antic's work. Tearing its edges and letting pools of watery color sink into its porous surface, Antic allows the paper to assert those aspects of its character.

Shapes flow organically across the pulpy surface, merging with other rounded and blunt, slowly moving, kindred shapes. Broken white lines, like stitching diagrams on clothing patterns, move across the flowing shapes as if to reassert the paper's weave and emphasize its surface as the frontal plane of all other pictorial events.

The landscape as a motif and point of departure is thematically central to several of Antic's works, notably four small untitled pieces which hang together and are illuminated by bursts of light that emerge glowing from behind tree forms.

Nan Freeman uses paper as a large, soft arena for the motion and drama of her figurative and abstract narratives. Captain Frankland, the subject of many of the mixed media pictures is "a real historical character," says Freeman, "but one of no [literary] importance." His travels, much like those of Odysseus, are chronicled in his memoirs, a source of inspiration and loose interpretation for most of Freeman's lively, energetic works on exhibit.

Sinuous, liquid figures gel where big linear arcs meet. A cast of characters — shipwrecked, embracing, floating, always romantic and heroic, leave traces of their paths and motion in Freeman's sweeping lines. The gestural marks take center stage in the abstract works where a vertical split is bridged by the big wiry arcs. Freeman sees these large abstract drawings as a sensual confrontation of the theme of opposition.

Paper is for Ablow a means of allowing color and marks to create shape and spatial interplay. The dynamic of her drawing is such that at times a sense of the paper's surface is lost altogether: lines penetrate it and shapes float out in front of it.

Linear tension is the subject — literally and pictorially — of Cat's Cradle. Using pastel over monotype, Ablow pulls lines up to the picture's surface where they stretch and bask in a diffused yellow-gold light, then disappear only to re-emerge in another place, another space, of the picture.

While some of the works make reference to the landscape, the most recent, larger pieces are more purely abstract. Although air and atmosphere make their presence felt amidst the rich, sometimes-dense configuration and quite beautiful color, the shapes that move through these pictures stand very much on their own in the context of form and do not readily yield to associations of things identifiable in the real world.

New Works on Paper is on view through April 12. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday. Call 964-3424.

What To Do

Spring into spring, spot first signs

By Susan Shor

Ah, the first signs of spring... sunshine, green leaves, longer days. But are these truly the first signs of fairer weather?

No, says Blue Hills Trailside Museum's Caryl Simon-Katler, the very first signs of spring are more elusive than that. The salamander walk and the return of the woodcocks are the events Simon-Katler has in mind.

The Museum, at 1904 Canton Avenue (Route 138) in Milton, has put together a program for all ages that gives some insight into these annual happenings.

Spring's schedule begins with salamanders. These creatures mark the beginning of a warmer season.

Salamanders are in a hibernation-like state during the cold, winter months, according to Simon Katler. On the first warm and rainy night of the year, the salamanders migrate from the woods to any area where there is water. Simon-Katler says even a temporary pool of water will do.

The salamanders lay their eggs in the water, where they stay until hatching into larvae. The march and egg-laying must be completed as quickly as possible, before the water sources dry up.

Of course, there is no set date for this occurrence, but brave nature-watchers have already signed-up for a salamander watch on the night of the march. Simon-Katler says the participants will be called at the first sign of the salamander's movement, the first sign of spring.

The museum's program also includes an acid rain slide show, which shows the effects of the rain on the salamander's natural habitat.

another early sign of spring is the return of the woodcock. The woodcock is a very long-billed bird that flies north at the first hint of warmth.

The bird comes to New England to nest and mate, and has a very distinctive ritual to usher in its spring. The bird flies thousands of feet upward, then spirals down towards the earth making a funny, twittering sound, Simon-Katler described.

"They are so far up that if it is a very clear day and you look up, you can barely make out a tiny speck in the sky," Simon-Katler explained.

In about two weeks woodcocks will begin the ritual during the evening and the night.

The museum has scheduled a twilight woodcock watch for Sunday, April 5, at 5:30 p.m. Simon-Katler recommends bringing binoculars to see as much of the flight as possible.

Both the "March into Spring" and the woodcock watch require pre-registration.

For more information, call the Blue Hills Trailside Museum at 333-0690. A fee will be charged.

whose members studied classic paintings in order to improve their own techniques.

The exhibition includes examples of the work of a number of Hu-shhe painters, including the Manchu princes P'u Ju and P'u Chin, Yu Shao-sung, and Fan Hsu.

Their work had, by necessity, become more "professional," in that they began to accept money for their work, as the cultural systems that had supported the old "amateurs" no longer existed.

A very different kind of painting developed in the economic capital of Shanghai.

Opened to Western trade as a "treaty port" following China's defeat in the Opium Wars of the mid-19th century, Shanghai quickly became a thriving, modern city with the largest population of any city in China.

Along with foreign goods and traders, foreign ideas poured into Shanghai's streets.

Free from the old, semi-feudal constraints of Peking and much of the rest of China, Shanghai developed a large, newly-wealthy class of Chinese entrepreneurs, industrialists, and merchants.

The conservative, understated taste of Peking appealed very little to these new capitalist families of Shanghai.

Under their patronage, artists developed a new "Shanghai" style of painting, a style with roots in traditional painting but with a taste for bright colors, bold designs, and accessible subject matter like figures, birds, and flowers.

Practiced mostly by professional artists rather than the amateurs of the Orthodox school, Shanghai style painting was at first disdained by elite connoisseurs, but gradually grew more respectable spreading well outside Shanghai in the early 20th century.

The Chang collection includes examples by such Shanghai artists as Wu Cheng and Wang Chen, a prominent Shanghai banker and industrialist as well as an artist; and Ch'i Pai-shih and Ch'en Nien, artists living in Peking who practiced the Shanghai style.

By the 1920s, when F.Y. Chang was collecting, the old distinctions were breaking down.

Few artists were amateurs in the old sense, and many of them moved freely between the Shanghai style and the Orthodox style, choosing their approach to fit the occasion.

Chronology of Chinese painting

Opium War: China, defeated by Western powers in a dispute over the importation to China of opium, makes concessions to Western trading interests and establishes "treaty ports" open to foreign commerce and missionary activity.

A newly wealthy "mercantile class" of Chinese traders and entrepreneurs develops in treaty port of Shanghai.

Taiping rebellion: series of peasant revolts devastates sections of country and further weakens imperial government. Refugees from surrounding countryside arrive in Shanghai, which becomes China's leading port city. "Shanghai School" of painting begins to develop, in contrast to "Orthodox school" established in imperial capital of Peking.

1890

F. Y. Chang born in treaty port of Chefoo, Shantung.

ca. 1890

"Oracle bones," polished cattle bones and tortoise shells carved with ancient inscriptions, begin to attract the attention of archaeologists and calligraphers.

These bones, discovered by the thousands in Honan province, proved to be among the earliest examples of Chinese writing.

The strong, archaic "oracle bone" script has a major influence on twentieth-century Chinese calligraphy.

Sino-Japanese War: China defeated by Japan and further concessions to foreign interests follow.

1900

Boxer rebellion: anti-Western uprising leads to attacks on foreigners, particularly missionaries, living in China and the siege of the foreign legation quarter of Peking; after rebellion's defeat by outside intervention, Chinese government forced pay indemnities to compensate foreign countries suffering damage and to make further economic concessions.

1905

The Chinese civil service examination, foundation of classical Confucian education and the imperial Chinese government for centuries, is abolished.

Shared culture of the scholar class, major practitioners of classical Chinese painting, begins to erode.

In Peking, conservative Hu-shhe (Lake Society) art association is founded to try to preserve traditional values in Chinese painting.

Reformers advocate use of Western learning to modernize China and Western degrees become new route to government service.

The United States, stating that its damages in the Boxer Rebellion had been fully repaid, begins to remit its share of China's indemnifications back to China.

China uses the funds to set up a scholarship program for students to come to the United States for higher education, a scholarship which allows F. Y. Chang to matriculate at Harvard three years later.

Death of the conservative Empress Dowager Tz'u-hsi who, as regent skilled in political intrigue, had largely controlled the imperial government since 1861.

As Chinese society continued to change, however, the cultivated elitism of the Orthodox style gradually faded.

The leading classes were no longer composed primarily of the classically trained scholar-officials for whom the delicate landscapes of the literati style held deep cultural meaning.

The old ways faded into memory, and soon the art of the traditional elite was cast aside in favor of the artistic and political expressions of social classes that had previously been ignored.

F.Y. Chang's collection preserves a glimpse into the world of the literati just before the curtain came down.

In her amply illustrated catalogue of the exhibition, Julia Murray says of the Chang collection that "more than in the premodern era, such works embody and reveal the artist's view of himself and his relationship with the shifting forces in his world."

Last of the Mandarins reveals not only artistic, but cultural change, as China struggled to adapt its traditional values in the modern world.

The Arthur M. Sackler Museum is located at 485 Broadway at the corner of Quincy Street in Cambridge, across from the Fogg Art Museum.

Tours of the Sackler are offered on weekdays at 2 p.m.

1911

Ch'ing dynasty overthrown by nationalist revolution; F. Y. Chang matriculates at Harvard.

1912

1914

F. Y. Chang graduates from Harvard with A.B. degree, cum laude, enters Harvard Law School. First World War begins in Europe.

1916 - 1927

Period of warlordism; while the central government remains weak, autonomous, regional militarists control much of China and government in Peking; Sun Yat-sen heads rival Nationalist (Kuomintang) government in Canton.

1917

F. Y. Chang finishes Harvard Law School with L.L. B. degree and returns to China.

Prevented by the political situation from entering government service, Chang follows other returned scholars into higher education.

1919

May Fourth movement promotes renaissance of Chinese culture.

1921

Founding of the Chinese Communist Party.

1923 - 1925

F. Y. Chang president of Communications University, Peking.

1925

Death of Sun Yat-sen; Chiang Kai-shek succeeds him as leader of Nationalists.

1926 - 1927

Chiang Kai-shek's Northern Campaign to reunify China nominally re-establishes authority of Nationalists over entire nation.

1928

Capital of Chinese Republic established at Nanking.

1928 - 1932

F. Y. Chang enters government service as director-general of the Customs Administration, serving under his Harvard Classmate T. V. Soong (1894 - 1971), then minister of finance.

Chang struggles to regain Chinese control over the customs service, previously controlled by foreigners, and reestablishes tariff autonomy for China.

During this period he also begins seriously to collect contemporary Chinese painting and calligraphy.

Ultimately he gathers some 150 scrolls and 125 fans by artists of his own day who work in traditional styles.

Japanese forces invade Chinese territory in Manchuria.

1932

Japanese occupation enthrones deposed Ch'ing emperor in "Manchoukuo," and "independent" kingdom under Japanese control.

1937 - 1945

Sino-Japanese War: much of China is occupied by Japan until the end of the Second World War.

1945 - 1949

Chinese civil war: Communists triumph over Nationalists on mainland.

1949

Founding of People's Republic of China under Mao Tse-tung, with capital at Peking. Nationalist government moves to Taiwan.

1951

F. Y. Chang returns to United States to live, bringing his family and art collection.

Ballet presents Great Masters

Boston Ballet presents The Great Masters, a program showcasing three masters of modern classical ballet, April 1-5 at the Wang Center, 270 Tremont St., Boston.

Featured on the program will be Antony Tudor's richly mysterious Jardin aux Lilas, George Balanchine's majestic Theme and Variations and Nederlands Dans Theater Artistic Director Jiri Kylian's whimsical Symphony in D.

Antony Tudor's tragic and intriguing Jardin aux Lilas is a dance drama masterpiece. Set to Ernest Chausson's expressive Poeme for Violin and Orchestra, Opus 25, Jardin aux Lilas unravels the bitter-sweet compromise of a marriage of convenience against a background of thwarted love.

The passion beneath the surface of polite Victorian society is revealed when a beautiful garden wedding becomes a tragic setting for both bride and groom, as each yearns for other loves despite their mute acceptance of what must be.

Korean violinist David Kim will join the orchestra as featured soloist.

Sallie Wilson, former principal with American Ballet Theatre staged the piece.

Balanchine's Theme and Variations, set to the final movement of Tchaikovsky's Suite No. 3 in G takes place in a grand ballroom with marble pillars and crystal chandeliers and is a tribute to the tradition of Imperial Russian ballet.

Boston Ballet's production will have costumes by famed Danish designer Jens-Jacob Worsaae.

Czechoslovakian choreographer Jiri Kylian's Symphony in D is a fun ballet set to the first three movements of Haydn's familiar Clock Symphony and the last movement of Symphony #73, known as The Chase.

In a minutely timed, orchestrated spoof, Kylian simultaneously creates and destroys the tradition and dignity of ballet itself.

Ticket prices range from $30.50 to $40.50 for all performances. Curtain times are 7 p.m. on Thursday opening nights, 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evening performances, and 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday matinees. Call 1-800-682-8080.

Condominiums boom in Arlington

New projects to double number of condo units

By JOANNE BISSETTA

Condominiums are hot in Arlington.

With the conversion of 324 apartment units at the Brentwood and Old Colony Apartments plus new projects in town, over 900 more condominium units will be available in the next four years.

That will almost double the number of condominiums in town. According to the assessors office, Arlington has just over 1,000 condominium units.

"The marketplace is saying, build me a condo and I'll buy it," said Alan McClennen, the town's planning director. "It is no longer economic to build rental housing in the Northeast."

The marketplace also dictates the premium price for a condominium in Arlington. At Old Colony and the Brentwood, a two-bedroom apartment fetches $140,000 to $150,000 as is.

In a new project, such as the recently approved Rembrandt, a two-bedroom condominium will cost approximately $200,000.

Other projects slated for construction include Watermill Place on Lowell Street, Reeds Brook Estates on Summer Street, and condominiums built by the Mirak family in Arlington Center.

According to local realtors, Arlington is a prime market for condominiums for several reasons.

First, the town's proximity to Boston; second, the depreciation of existing apartment buildings; and the high cost of housing in the area.

The Brentwood "is prime real estate," John Cusack of Keenan & Cusack Realtors, which is marketing the Brentwood and Old Colony Apartments. "It is close to town; you can walk to the corner and catch a bus to Boston."

"The demand is strong, it can easily fill 900 units," said Robert Garrity, owner of Garrity Realtors. "The town is close to things people find important, like Cambridge and Boston."

Building owners convert their buildings because they depreciate over the years.

While it may have been profitable to build apartment buildings in town 20 years ago, these same buildings have depreciated in value and are no longer profitable to the owner as rental units, realtors say.

"Conversion is only logical," Garrity said. "It makes bookkeeping sense because housing is so scarce."

Garrity also said building owners fear rent control may come to town. "They convert their buildings to save themselves."

Because of soaring home costs, many people who would normally buy a home are opting to buy a condo instead.

"People who can't afford a home buy condos because they are cheaper and are able to build equity," Ann

Rendell, a spokesperson from the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, said. "A few years down the road, they can sell the condo and be able to purchase a home."

Arlington condominium buyers are also escaping high-priced units closer to the city and chose Arlington because Boston is about a 30-minute ride on the Red Line.

"People are buying condos in Arlington because units in Cambridge, Somerville, and Boston are too expensive," David Lynch of American Hallmark Realtors.

Condominiums attract mainly young professional people into town, and provide an option for people who have an empty house after raising kids in town.

"Many young couples stall having kids so they are able to afford condos," Louise Ivers, of Ivers & Stein Realtors. "Many of them really want to purchase a two or three-bedroom house, but they can't afford one. Someday they can move on. Buying a condo is better than keeping money in the bank."

"If they like the town after living in it for a few years, they may decide to buy a home here," said Lynch.

The demographic makeup of the town may change the next few years as more white-collar people move to Arlington.

"As older people move out of their big houses into condominiums, professional couples in their 30s and 40s will probably move into the homes," McClennen predicted.

"White-collar people have more disposable income and will probably help local businesses and the tax base will be expanded," Lynch said.

Rental market squeezed, conversions hurt elderly

By JOANNE BISSETTA

With condominium projects and conversions, Arlington's already tight rental market will be squeezed even more.

"I predict there will be a serious shortage of rental units," David Lynch of American Hallmark Realtors said. "There could be a glut of condominium units and not enough rentals."

This creates a problem for many of the people displaced by the conversion of 324 apartment units at the Brentwood and Old Colony. Many elderly tenants are choosing not to purchase their apartments and need to find alternate housing.

"We've had a lot of requests for applications for senior housing since the residents got their notices," Elizabeth Kelley, an administrative assistant at the Arlington Housing Authority, said.

The authority oversees 519 apartment units for the elderly at Winslow Towers, Cusack Terrace, Chestnut Manor, and Drake Village.

Currently a qualified Arlington resident waits about six months to a year for a senior housing.

"We give Arlington residents priority," Kelley said.

To qualify for senior housing; one has to be 62 or older; have a yearly income of $15,232 or less, or a two-person combined income of $17,408 or less; and a $15,000 limit on personal assets. Rent is based on sliding scale of 25 percent of a resident's monthly income.

"If someone is determined not to be financially needy, then they appear to be able to afford rent on the private market," Kelley said. "But of course many elderly people who don't qualify are on a fixed income and have a tough time finding affordable apartments."

"It's difficult to tell elderly people they have to dip into their savings for rent, but senior housing was developed for low-income elderly people," she added.

"We've received five or six calls a day from the residents since they were notified of the conversion," said Louise Ivers of Ivers & Stein Realtors. "It will be difficult relocating the elderly people into rentals because there are fewer apartments left."

"Elderly people chose brick buildings with heat and hot water included," Ivers added. "Most don't want to rent in a two-family house because they are too big and unwieldy."

Because of the lack of apartment units in town, many of the elderly residents may have to move to other towns.

"Most of the tenants probably worked long and hard through the years and saved their money," Lynch said. "After selling their home of many years, they may be forced to move to surrounding towns because they don't want to buy their units and there's nothing much else for them in Arlington."

CAR CARE CORNER

By Dan Hogan,

Although automatic transmission has taken a lot of the effort out of city driving, in many instances it is directly responsible for the development of a bad driving habit. Some motorists feel that since there is no clutch to keep the left foot busy, they have to find a job for that foot. "Why should it just go along for the ride when it can be put to work on the brake pedal?" Much easier to feed the gas with the right and stop with the left. But some motorists leave their foot resting lightly on the brake pedal at all times, which can result in ruined brake drums. Take note! The technicians at PETER FULLER OLDS are ASE certified. We keep a computerized history of all cars serviced here to notify you of preventative maintenance. Open 8-5. Tel. 924-8100. M/C, Visa & A/E accepted. We are located within walking distance to public transportation. Come to PETER FULLER OLDS, Watertown Sq. "Olds National Service Award Winner."

Rain, rain go away!

Streets, ponds full

By SUE SHOR
More than six inches of rain fell on Winchester this week, causing flooding of streets and homes all over town.

But the news was not all bad. Director of Public Works Dominic Serratore estimates the town's reservoirs gained 115 million gallons of water from the storm.

The North Reservoir is at its capacity and is flowing over the spillway. The town's other two reservoirs are almost at capacity. This, Serratore said, should give the town a good start for the drier summer months ahead.

The total amount of water stored, Serratore said, will be approximately 200 million gallons.

But the bad news was there. Many residents spent time in their cellars with pumps and bailers trying to undo the damage.

Traffic problems arose when the Aberjona River overflowed its banks and closed both Cross Street at Davidson Park and Shore Road.

Massachusetts Water Resource Authority sewers could not hold all the rain water and sewage spilled out onto Lake Street causing a more serious problem in front of the Department of Public Works.

Reservoirs got 115 million gallons of water from the storm.

Serratore said within 24 hours of the end of the storm, there should be some drastic improvements in road conditions. He added it will take a few days to clean up the sewage on Lake Street. The street was closed as of Tuesday and will remain closed until the problem is cleared up, he said.

Police said there were no accidents, injuries or deaths reported due to the storm.

1st woman administrator files sex discrimination charge after tenure denial

By SUE SHOR
Winchester High School Vice Principal Karen Baker has filed a sex discrimination complaint with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination (MCAD) after being denied tenure by the school committee.

She claims no man in an administrative position in the Winchester School system has ever been denied tenure.

Some school personnel agree. Guidance counselor Carolyn Tiffany said, "Mrs. Baker is the first administrator in my memory to be denied tenure and she is the first woman administrator at the high school or junior high."

Karen Baker claims no man in an administrative position in the Winchester School system has ever been denied tenure.

Tiffany has worked at Winchester High for 16 years.

Baker maintains that she has no idea why she did not receive tenure and claims she had no knowledge that there was a question about her position until a week before the school committee's decision.

"I don't know what basis she has for filing a suit," school committee member William Jervey said in response to the claim. The MCAD has agreed to investigate the discrimination charge.

"Why wasn't I given the opportunity to improve if they were having problems with me?" asks Baker. "I was here for three years and I was never told there was a problem. I was never reprimanded for anything. I don't have anything to go on."

"It's not a fun job all the time. I've been sworn at, screamed at, almost attacked and threatened (by students)," Baker said, "but this has been a good year; we [the faculty] had even been discussing having the kids participate in a democracy of some kind within the school." Biting dog may be killed

Owners plead for Mandy's life

By STEPHEN R. HOWE
A dog owned by a Pierrepont Road family will be impounded and possibly destroyed on order of the board of selectmen.

Following an emotional hearing with testimony from the owners of the dog and parents of children who have been attacked and bitten by the dog, the board voted 4-1 to have dog officer Nick Molea seek a court order to impound the animal.

"I appeal as a mother who has seen a child hurt and traumatized by a dog bite," Anita Gerrein told the board. The hearing was initiated by John and Anita Gerrein, whose son, they say, was bitten by the dog.

The Gerreins say their son was riding his tricycle on the sidewalk when "Mandy" — a mixed breed doberman — owned by the Suvak family, 39 Pierrepont Road, rushed out of the yard and bit the boy.

Their son, 4-year-old Joseph, broke away from the dog and dashed for home, John Gerrein said.

"Joseph was hysterical when he came into the house. I was shocked when I took off his clothes to see such a gash," Anita Gerrein said.

The boy's ordeal following the bite included nightmares, having the wound cleaned three times daily and taking medication, she said.

Several residents of the area spoke on behalf of having the dog destroyed. Two others said members of their families had been bitten by the same dog.

Darryl Behrmann told the board that his child had been bitten by the dog but he had not reported it to police.

"Had I taken the action that Dr. Gerrein is taking now, maybe some of this could have been avoided," Behrmann said.

Larry Suvak, who attended the hearing with his daughter Lauren, tried to explain the dog's behavior.

"The dog has always been extremely protective of my daughter," (Please see RESIDENTS, page 18)

Wine auction benefit wins grudging 3-2 board approval

By STEPHEN R. HOWE
The Friends of the Winchester Public Library wine auction will go on as scheduled Saturday after winning narrow approval by the board of selectmen.

The board voted 3-2 Monday night, to allow the auction with selectmen Frank Sopper and Mark Lombardi vocally opposing issuance of the auctioneer's permit.

Sopper and Lombardi contend that issuance of a permit for a wine auction sanctions the sale of alcoholic beverages, something the board is not empowered to do.

"I will not compromise my principles for a few votes in the ballot box," Sopper said.

Town counsel Douglas Randall told the board last week that the wine auction constituted a sale of liquor and required a liquor license.

"It is unfortunate that this group planned to have an auction without checking first to see if it is legal. We have issued all the liquor licenses that we are allowed by law, we have no legal right to issue a liquor license," Sopper said. (Please see WINE, page 18)

Muggia picked as chair

By STEPHEN R. HOWE
Change and uncertainty was evident at the start of Monday night's meeting of the board of selectmen.

"Is it on?" town manager W. Chadwick Maurer asked the cable television camera operator before opening the meeting.

The task of opening the meeting fell to Maurer as chairman. Wade M. Welch is no longer serving on the board and a new chairman had yet to be elected.

Maurer opened the floor to nominations for chairman. Selectman Mark Lombardi nominated Judie Muggia for the post. The nomination was seconded and unanimously approved.

As her first orders of duty, Muggia welcomed new member Thomas (Please see MUGGIA, page 18)

Christians, Jews celebrating Churches, temples plan special services

By JANINE DI GIOVANNI
In the Christian community, Easter represents renewal and fulfillment. After suffering and dying, the belief is that Jesus rose from the dead on Easter Sunday.

"He was killed, but he remained light of the world," says Rev. Susan E. Cartmell, associate pastor at The First Congregational Church in Winchester.

She explains a service in which candles, representing Christ, illuminate the darkened church.

"When evil overcomes us, Christ remains the steady light we can rely on," she said.

First Congregational Church

The First Congregational Church begins Holy Week on Palm Sunday, April 12, with a children's procession at 10 a.m., followed by the worship service.

The sermon, one of a series on the cross will be, "The cross and our timidity."

On Holy Wednesday, April 15, there will be a Lenten buffet at noon, followed by a service at 12:30 p.m. in Ripley Chapel. Marie Strain will lecture on peace.

On Maundy Thursday, April 16, there will be "seder-agape" services at 7:30 p.m.

It is a rendition of the Passover seder meal. Agape means "love".

Rev. Cartmell said, "The tradition is that Jesus had his last meal with his disciples. The two calendars [Jewish and Christian] coincide and on this night, we bring both traditions together."

Following the seder-agape service will be the silent procession services leading to the tenebrae, or light service.

(Please see CHURCHES, page 3)

Passover, Easter only days apart this year

JANINE DI GIOVANNI
With Passover and Easter only days apart this year, Winchester will be alive with holiday ritual and worship.

And indeed, the two religious holidays have more in common than the date.

For Christians, Easter symbolizes the resurrection of Christ. It is a time of renewal, of hope, of fulfillment, and the triumph of eternal life over death.

For Jews, Passover commemorates the deliverance of their ancestors from slavery in Egypt, to freedom and new life. Emphasizing tradition, the week-long holiday is a reminder of deliverance from bondage.

In the Christian community, the celebration of the resurrection of Christ is known in old terms as pascha, meaning to pass over.

The term "pass over" comes from the Old Testament account. During the time of plague in Egypt, the Hebrews smeared lambs blood over their doors to identify their homes. God passed over and spared them their first born sons.

Lois Walsh, left, and Elaine Kane were among Winchester schools' faculty members who turned out for a candlelight vigil before Tuesday's school committee meeting. The vigil was to protest the decision not to grant tenure to assistant principal Karen Baker. (Paul Drake photo)

Man's body found in car trunk in Boston

By SUE SHOR
A Winchester man who had been missing for a month was found dead in the trunk of his car Friday.

Herbert Todd Wadsworth, Jr. was reported missing by his mother on March 3. He was last heard from a day earlier when he called from Somerville.

Police reports said he told his mother he was going to a prayer meeting in Roxbury. Police do not know exactly where he was going or if he reached his destination.

The family became suspicious, police said, because according to them and neighbors, Wadsworth never went anywhere without calling someone first.

Winchester police at that time searched the area around Roxbury's churches looking for Wadsworth's car, but were unsuccessful.

Police believe Wadsworth's death occurred within a few days of his disappearance, because the car had been towed to a junk yard on March 6. It was going to be crushed when the trunk popped open and the body was found.

Police notified Wadsworth's mother, Dorothy Wadsworth, who identified the body.

"We all knew him," police Detective Joseph Perritano said. "He was a very trusting person, he liked everybody." Wadsworth was the former pastor of Forest Street Congregational Church in Wilmington and the Dale Community Church in Billerica.

Perritano said there were no external signs of injury on the body. Police are investigating the death.

Lynch children meet author

During the week of the Lynch Elementary School Book Fair, kindergarten and first grade students were treated to a visit from children's author Jerry Pallotta. He is the author of the Ocean Alphabet Book and the soon to be published, Icky Bugs Alphabet Book.

The children learned many interesting facts about life in the Atlantic Ocean, bluefish, cod, dogfish and eels.

The classes also learned about the process of writing a book.

A lot of hard work goes into publishing a book.

Pallotta brought to the classrooms many examples of ocean life. One of the most interesting was a sword from a swordfish.

The children were able to see, touch, and even smell various shells, from scallops, quahogs, and clams.

They also discovered how a lobster uses his claws to pinch its prey.

Family portrait day

Sunday, April 12, Lynch School will sponsor a family portrait day.

Picture packages will cost $20 at the time of the sitting.

Photographs will be available in packages of: one 8"x10", two 5"x7" and eight wallet size.

Photographs will be delivered in two weeks.

For reservations and information, please call 729-3368 or 729-9092.

Special needs unit

Under the direction of teachers

The Winchester Star

FROM THE BLACKBOARD

Vicki Cavicchi, Karen Clements, Missy Kaplon and Mike Marino, fifth and sixth grade students at Lynch are participating in a three-week unit on special needs.

The focus is on understanding and becoming sensitive to individual differences.

Activities involve keeping a journal, seeing films, reading books dealing with special needs, meeting speakers, art projects, a simulation experience.

The sensitivity students gain as a result of experiencing this special needs unit should enable them to better deal with special needs in their lives as well as in the lives of others.

Lynch book buddies

Twice each month, fifth and sixth grade students at Lynch join forces with the kindergarten classes for special activities.

One activity was the creation of an ABC book.

Working in pairs, the children decided the theme for the book and proceeded to carry it through, A to Z. The books turned out great.

Another activity was a dramatization session. Favorite stories were read to the kindergarten children. Little Red Hen, The Three Pigs, Chicken Little, etc. and skits were prepared.

Props and costumes were assembled for the performances.

All the children, with their "made-up faces," were performers. Each skit was viewed by all the children.

Lynch visits hospital

Louise Barker's first grade visited Winchester Hospital March 25.

The children were taken on a tour of the x-ray room, the kitchen, and the pediatric wing.

Their guide, Mrs. Johnson, explained procedures and answered questions with the hope of relieving some of the anxiety children feel about being a patient at the hospital.

Sample x-rays and the kitchen dishwasher were especially interesting to the children.

At the end of the tour, the children were treated to ice cream and cookies, balloons, and special stickers.

Development specialist to speak at Lynch

Cynthia Papoulas, developmental specialist, will talk to parents on the topic of early childhood development, Tuesday, April 28, at 7:15 p.m. in Lynch School library. Parents are welcome.

The Lynch Parent-Teacher Organization meeting will follow the lecture.

First grade teddy bear day

Students in Vivian Vining's first grade class at Vinson-Owen School recently celebrated Teddy Bear Day.

Each student brought a favorite teddy bear to school for the day.

Everything about the day involved teddy bears.

There was teddy bear math to calculate, teddy bear poems to read and write, and teddy bear stories to hear.

Teddy bear book reports were written on the book Corduroy. The play "The Three Bears" was presented.

There was even teddy bear science with Maura Albert, in which students ordered and sorted their teddy bears according to their properties.

Mrs. Gerry Driscoll, librarian, invited all teddy bears and their friends to the library to hear a new story When Panda Came to Our House by Helen Jensen.

A teddy bear tea was the grand finale of the day. Students and teddies enjoyed homemade teddy bear cookies, punch, and gummy bear candies served with teddy bear cups and napkins.

Lincoln students go to town

First-grade and kindergarten classes from Lincoln recently attended a performance of Mary Churchill and the Cranberry Puppets.

This exciting field trip was organized by the school's enrichment committee and made available through the Performing Arts Students Series (PASS).

Muralist visits Lincoln

Lisa Carter, well-known muralist, has begun a residency at Lincoln School.

Working with the kindergarten and grades 1, 4 and 5, Carter with the assistance of Sophia Mone, Lincoln's art teacher, will help students create fanciful murals.

Inch by inch

Kindergarten students at Muraco School have started a unit on measuring.

The program takes the children through a series of steps, to discover the need for a standard unit of measure.

Each student is working to complete a measuring workbook which is full of exciting and fun activities such as measuring one's own hands, feet, and height and those of friends.

Dino-might Dinosaurs are the main attraction for Muraco's first grades.

The young Paleontologists have built a six-foot dinosaur called Tyrannosaurus Rex.

They have also learned poems, written stories, and done extensive reading about these historic giants.

The golden rule

Pat Garvey and Mary Conley are teaching their third grade classes the golden rule by initiating a "kindness week" where students are encouraged to define kindness in their own terms.

Most responses seem to echo the golden rule with the major emphasis on treating others well.

Nicole Levesque said it best: "Don't push or tug at people, don't tease people or call them names, and don't make jokes about people."

Scout project is a sign of the times for town

By SUE SHOR

Imagine a town where all the street signs were in place and legible. That's what Adam Keats, an Eagle Scout candidate from troop 303, wanted to do in Winchester.

"I noticed there were a lot of problems with getting around the town. Nobody could find my street because there were no street signs," Keats, a sophomore at Winchester High, said.

He decided to do an inventory of the traffic and street signs in Winchester for his Eagle Scout project.

He would like to see the town place street signs at each intersection instead of only at the beginning and end of each street.

He believes this would make it easier for people to get around but said that decision is up to the town.

Director of Public Works Dominic J. Serratore said the project would have cost the town about $1,500 and because of manpower problems could only have been done on a part-time basis. Serratore said he did not believe the project would have been completed yet if it were not for Keats.

"This will allow us to replace defective signs in town," Serratore

"I noticed there were a lot of problems with getting around town. Nobody could find my street because there were no street signs."

Adam Keats, 15

said. "I really commend him; he did a marvelous job. Adam really did this job in the best way possible. He did the whole thing at once and put it on a computer disk so we can keep track of our repair progress."

Serratore said the town will hire summer help to repair the signs Keats noted. Keats created a computer data base for Winchester so that the list can be updated whenever the need arises.

The ambitious scout estimated that the project took him 80 hours to complete. He began in November 1985 and finished the project in January. Adam started his work in the western corner of Winchester and methodically made his way through the whole town.

"I found out that I only knew a small part of Winchester," he said. "I also found a lot of weird signs, like the one on Sachem Street. It's really a plaque on a telephone pole so nobody will take it."

"I made recommendations about some of the weird signs on the data base, so the town can decide what it will do," Adam continued. "If I thought the sign wasn't in a good place, I recommended a different type of sign."

Adam has been a scout for eight years and expects to receive scouting's highest status, that of Eagle Scout, in a double ceremony with a friend in June. He will most likely hear of his approval by late April.

Director of Winchester DPW and Adam Keats. Keats, 15, completed a survey and inventory of the town's streets for the DPW as his Eagle Scout project.

(Paul Drake Photo)

He undertook this project to help him earn Eagle Scout status and received help from his troop leaders in putting together his application and working on the street sign inventory. He must be approved by his troop, the Boy Scout Council and the National Boy Scout Association before he can become an Eagle Scout.

He has earned many merit badges on his way up the scouting ladder and says he has learned from them. He also says he knows a lot about the wilderness and the woods from his experiences as a scout.

"I plan on continuing as a scout. I'm hoping to be Senior Assistant Patrol Leader [the top leadership position for a scout within his troop] and then go on to be a Junior Scout Leader," Keats said.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

GETTING PREQUALIFIED FOR A LOAN

Most lenders will help buyers initiate the loan application process before serious house-hunting begins. You can meet with the loan officer for an in-depth review of your personal financial picture. Bring all of your information about income, debts, and assets. If you're self-employed or have any income other than a regular salary, bring your tax returns for the past three years or any other income substantiation you have. For a nominal fee, the lender will do a credit check and, if any problems are found, help you clear them up.

When you find the perfect house, being pre-qualified can pay off. This market is active and there may be other buyers for the home you want. You will look much more attractive to the seller, especially if you're self-employed, if you have a letter from your lender saying that you have already begun the loan process and can afford to buy their home. It can also cut down on the amount of time you will need to settle on your new house. Finally, it will save you and your Realtor valuable time by eliminating from consideration homes you would not be able to afford.

Bixby & Porter Company Realtors is happy to serve your real estate needs. Please call us at 729-7000 or drop by our office at 33 Thompson St., Winchester.

Unitarian players to perform O'Neill classic

The Winchester Unitarian Players have begun rehearsals for their spring production of "Ah, Wilderness!" by Eugene O'Neill. The production is directed by Karen Barton and is scheduled for the first two weekends in May.

Winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature, O'Neill spent most of his career writing dark, tragic works of personal misery and self-destruction. But in 1932 at the peak of his career he suddenly produced the gentle, loving, hilarious comedy of recollection, "Ah, Wilderness!"

Set in a small town based on O'Neill's home town of New London, Connecticut, "Ah, Wilderness!" tells the story of the Miller family: Nat Miller, the good-natured newspaper editor, his scolding, affectionate wife, Essie, and their children, particularly their 16-year-old son Richard, a reader and a dreamer, on fire with love, radical politics and the dangerous new literature of Ibsen, Swinburns and Oscar Wilde and the seductive rhythms of "The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam."

"A Book of Verses underneath the Bough, A Jug of Wine, a Loaf of Bread—and Thou Beside me singing in the Wilderness—Ah, Wilderness were Paradise now!"

For Richard the "thou" in question is Muriel McComber, a pretty 15-year-old, too shy even to let him kiss her.

Her father discovers some scandalous excerpts from the new literature which Richard has in-judiciously copied and given to her, and forbids his daughter from ever seeing the young man again.

Richard's desperate reaction and the eventual resolution of the conflict form the main thread of the play.

"Ah, Wilderness!" will be presented Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2, and Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9 in Metcalf Hall at the Winchester Unitarian Church, 478 Main Street.

Performances begin at 8:15 p.m. Tickets are $5 general admission, $4 for students and senior citizens.

The Friday, May 1 performance is a benefit performance for the Visiting Nurse and Community Health Association, for which all tickets are $10.

For information and reservations call 721-1822.

SHALL WE WATER-SKI THE KIDS TO SCHOOL?!

BEACON HILL

Solid Waste (H 4815)—House 148-0, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate a $290 million package providing funding for a solid waste grant program designed to ease the growing shortage of solid waste disposal sites.

Supporters said the bill is only a beginning but will establish new siting guidelines and offer incentives for the construction of new landfill facilities and the cleanup and expansion of existing ones.

A Yea vote is for the bill. Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Consultants (H 4815)—House 131-9, rejected an amendment striking a section of the solid waste bill allowing the hiring of consultants for the study, design and engineering of waste disposal facilities.

Amendment supporters said the hiring of 93 consultants leads to abuse.

Opponents said the use of the consultants is necessary and can be controlled.

A Yea vote is against allowing consultants. A Nay vote is for allowing consultants.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Limits (H 4815)—House 130-16, rejected an amendment prohibiting landfills from being constructed or expanded after 1994 except where every other disposal option has been exhausted and then only if the landfills accept biologically harmless material.

Amendment supporters said this seeks to emphasize the fact that landfills are not the long-term solution.

Opponents said the amendment is well-intentioned but unworkable.

A Yea vote is for the amendment.

A Nay vote is against it. Saltmarsh voted no.

Historical (H 4815)—House 117-26, rejected an amendment adding "potential adverse impact upon historical sites, parks and recreational areas" to the list of things which must be reviewed when the suitability of a potential landfill site is being considered.

Amendment supporters said this simply adds another factor to consider when taking into account the public's welfare.

Opponents said the list is already sufficient and takes ample things into consideration.

A Yea vote is for the amendment. A Nay vote is against it. Saltmarsh voted yes.

New Senate Postion (S 1658)—House 116-31, gave near final approval to the bill creating the new post of assistant vice chair of the Senate Ways and Means Committee and providing a $7500 pay hike to the person who is appointed to the position.

Supporters said the bill simply provides additional money for a senator who will be given additional work and responsibilities.

Opponents said the bill is a sham and a disgrace designed to give Senator Michael Barrett, the only Democratic senator without a leadership position, a new position and additional money. They claimed this is an assault on the taxpayer and simply tightens Billy Bulger's lock on the Senate.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Seat Belts (H 5217)—House 109-50, gave initial approval to a bill requiring children from age 5 to 12 to wear seat belts and providing a $25 fine to the operator of any vehicle in which a violation occurs.

Current law requires seat belt or child restraint use only by children under 5. The House earlier rejected 104-46, an amendment raising the age to 16.

Opponents said parents should be responsible for teaching their children and noted the voters rejected the mandatory seat belt law last November. They claimed the bill is an intrusion by government into people's lives and claimed it is the beginning of an effort to require seat belt use by everyone.

Both roll calls are listed. The first is on hiking the age to 12. A Yea vote is for the hike to 12. A Nay vote is against it. The second is on the hike to 16. A Yea vote is for the hike to 16. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no on both roll calls.

Spring fires some with bursts of energy while others do nothing

By TERRY MAROTTA

Spring is here. How do we know? Because mud flounces in the door like a brash and uninvited guest. Because houseflies, risen like Lazarus, fuss and mutter as they inch along sun-warmed windowpanes.

We know it's spring in our house because the kids are back in roller skates. They clump indoors in those great rolling boots. They eat in them when they can, weighted ankles swinging like pendulums beneath the kitchen chairs. They'd sleep in them if they could.

Spring fires some people with fresh bursts of energy; others it warms with a spreading surge of indolence. It depends on how you've spent your winter.

Men tend to belong to the first category, I notice.

Most men have lain about in their spare time all winter, growing whiskers and tummies, and considering the steady flicker of televised sports. Men are more responsive than women to the natural rhythms of life. I sometimes think. And what could be more natural than holing up and hibernating during the cold months?

Men, with their burps and their scratchings, seem to stand generally for the principal of Nature.

Women, on the other hand, stand for the principal of Civilization. As the inventors of hair-combing, marriage and manicures, they have historically supported a finely calibrated system of checks on the purely natural.

In any case, most women have not spent the winter lounging around and hibernating. They've been stretched on the rack of holiday shopping, lashed into fits of polishing and table-setting by the various winter celebrations that button the cool months into place and fasten their slushes and muds into seasons of ritual and preparation.

By April, most women I know are exhausted.

Historically, of course, women have been responsible for the inside of the house; men for the outside. Since you can't do much outside in the cold months, maybe what I sense now just represents a passing of the baton from the Indoor team to the Outdoor one.

All I know is what I see: my husband, and other pale puffy men, poking about in the crinkly brown petticoats of the garden, piles of brush growing beneath their rakes; and myself, drawn more and more like a cat to the puddles of sunlight on the floorboards of the old front porch.

I perch here by the hour, lately. I do nothing. I think nothing. I only sit, with the sun on my shoulders, watching life emerge.

Branches relax their witchy grip on the sky beneath my gaze.

Geese in twos and threes, wingspread wide as jumbo jets, honk as they lower their landing gear after the long flight up from Ecuador.

Cats slink round the corners of houses, swaying their hips and remembering Africa.

Old folks emerge from layers of quilting, and come to sun themselves on park benches.

Today a small boy rounds the corner. He is three-and-a-half at the most. With one hand he pushes a doll carriage. With the other, he wields an automatic weapon, one of the new and fiendishly clever kind that shoots water 30 feet at heart-stopping velocity.

I laugh outright at the sight of him. This child is a child for the day, all right, fresh as the season. He stands, it would seem, both for the hearth and for the hearth's protection. He represents both the Indors and the Out. He may well set all winter's tables and rake all April's brush when his turn comes.

He's a brand-new version, born afresh as all things are born in the melting and honeyed April sunlight.

What a pleasure just to sit and attend at the birthing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Firing of school official raises questions

TO THE EDITOR:

The Winchester School Committee's summary firing of high school assistant principal Karen Baker raises serious questions about how school committee members see their job and about how they choose to handle their staff. Perhaps the town had better look a little more carefully at what happened to Miss Baker.

For three years Miss Baker received positive evaluations from the professional staff assigned to evaluate her. Twice, the school committee voted to renew her contract. No one from the school committee contacted Miss Baker and warned her that her tenure would ultimately be questioned. And then suddenly in a "surprise move" the committee voted unanimously to fire her.

A unanimous school committee vote suggests either that members of the school committee had absolutely no question about their actions or that the members were so unsure of themselves that they felt behooved to present a united front. If, in fact, their evidence was so damning that they knew they had to fire Miss Baker, I would expect some sort of an explanation from them. Mr. O'Connell's unfortunate statement that he hears "lots and lots of things" certainly provides no such explanation. Indeed, it simply raises more serious questions.

Through democratic elections of school committees, public education grants local residents the final say about what happens in their schools. But no one seriously thinks that a volunteer board, meeting twice a month, can handle the complex affairs of a local school system. Full-time paid professionals administer the schools. These administrators are trained to supervise and evaluate their staff. The law requires these administrators to observe their staff people and evaluate them annually. Why, then, when these paid professionals make their recommendations to the school committee, would the committee choose to ignore the recommendations? Moreover, if the school committee plans to ignore their administrators, why do they bother to have them at all?

And, regardless of who has ultimate power over hiring and firing, how are these decisions made? Are they made as the result of some sort of due process which leaves our educators feeling as though they understand the system, or are they made in private conversations and phone calls and without public explanation?

But philosophical questions raised should not overshadow what the school committee has done to one of its employees. Karen Baker is a human being who has lost her first administrative position and who has been publicly humiliated in the name of education. She has worked for three years and then has been told she has failed. I can only imagine what the school committee would do to a teacher who flunked a student in the way that they have flunked Miss Baker.

Miss Baker was probably right when she stated that she feared she had no legal recourse. School committees have astute legal advice and usually manage to operate within legal limits. Whether or not they were operating within moral or ethical limits is much more questionable.

Miss Baker probably made some mistakes. Most people do. She certainly made some powerful enemies, though, and that, clearly, was her biggest mistake. The enormity of this mistake is plain considering its final cost.

Ultimately, though, the school committee may have made the biggest mistake of all. They have sent a very clear and frightening message to their teachers and administrators across town. They have simply and clearly stated that their employees cannot count on a reasonable and due process. On some level, the whole town will pay for this mistake.

School safety to be issue at town meeting

TO THE EDITOR:

The school committee recently submitted a warrant article for the Spring Town Meeting seeking funding to alleviate a hazardous situation at Ambrose School. Originally Marycliff Academy, the school was acquired by the Town of Winchester sixteen years ago for elementary students. The complex of Academy buildings which now house the Ambrose students, The Winchester Archives, The Mystic Valley Early Intervention Program, and The New England Association of Schools and Colleges generates substantial traffic on the driveway which closely wraps around the school. This driveway separates Ambrose from its playgrounds and access paths, posing serious safety hazards for the students, as they all must cross it several times a day. Some parent traffic has been rerouted to abutting side streets, Westland Avenue and Taft Drive, creating other safety problems.

A master plan addressing these issues was developed by the townwide playfield study committee in 1984, but thus far has not been included in a town budget. Hoping for immediate action on this long standing problem, Ambrose parents and staff have signed a letter of concern. In January of this year, the school committee authorized a traffic flow and safety study which is currently being done by the BSC Group. Ambrose parents applaud the School Committee's prompt response demonstrated by the warrant article. Approval of this warrant article by town meeting will be needed to correct this serious and dangerous problem.

New selectman thanks supporters and opponents

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing to express my sincere appreciation to those who supported my candidacy for selectman.

When I opened my campaign on these pages, I said that serving as selectman can be a labor of love - and filled with both. A campaign is no different. It can be an exercise in commitment for a great many friends, relatives and acquaintances. Indeed, it was most gratifying to meet so many fine people who opened their homes and minds, offering me a forum in which to express my thoughts and ideas. I am a better person for having run; I hope only that others benefited as well.

As my new terms begin, I want to offer a special thanks to the people who did the real campaign work and made it possible. Misty Schwartzman and a dedicated campaign committee made very day a joy. Our victory, and I want to emphasize the word our, resulted, from their energy, dedication and creativity. I also offer my thanks to Cable 19 News' superb programming and generosity, to the Winchester Star and Woburn Daily Times for their coverage of the election, and to all the citizen who took time to listen, consider and vote.

I also offer my thanks to Bill O'Neil and Steve Powers whose dignity and courage have won my respect. I appreciate their kind words of encouragement and support following the election. As our campaigns were beginning, I said that regardless of the outcome, Winchester would be a better town because of this annual exercise in democracy. I maintain that view and I applaud the efforts of the candidates for all offices. Their efforts continue to prove that our system of government is indeed alive and well.

Needless to say, I look forward with great enthusiasm to joining selectmen Deering, Lombardi, Muglia and Sopper as well as Town Manager, Chad Maurer in the management of our town. Dignity and the leadership role of our board of selectmen were key themes of my campaign and one of my fundamental values. As I begin my term, I hope always to live up to that commitment to you.

Sincerely,
Thomas W. Schmitt

Powers thanks voters, wishes Schmitt well

TO THE EDITOR:

I want to take this opportunity to express my thanks to all the townspeople who took the time and (needed) energy to vote in the town election last Tuesday, March 31. A surprisingly high—28 percent—turnout for this off-year election (which saw the continuation of this spring rain, rain, rain) was something I shall personally never forget. And I want to especially congratulate all the senior citizens who were so evident to all the polling places throughout the town's precincts.

I received 1329 votes—some 150 fewer than Mr. Schmitt. Winning 4 precincts of the town's 8 shows what (Please see LETTERS page 10) guest at yoga

and Creativity group

The broad spectrum at the Jenks Senior Center is demonstrated by classes in yoga and creativity conducted by Paulett Taggart who is dedicated to helping seniors stretch and tone up muscles, and the entire body.

Although yoga is commonly understood by many as simply a form of physical exercise, it is indeed a system whereby the body, mind, and spirit unite to improve general health and posture through coordination.

Paulett Taggart is bringing Ruth Bender to the center April 14 10-11:30 a.m.

Bender is a nationally known yoga teacher and author of several books in her field.

Taggart received her teaching certificate from Bender in 1975 and has attended her workshops annually for teacher refresher weekends along with yoga teachers from across the country.

Bender resides in Avon, Connecticut and travels widely doing demonstration programs.

All are welcome to attend this interesting session to participate or observe. Wear loose clothing and bring a mat.

Students and friends of Bender are invited to bring ingredients for a salad luncheon at the home of Pauline Taggart.

Visitors may contact Margaret Leader at 729-6695 or Annette P. Lev at 933-6532.

Health benefits counselors in spring training

There are 11 health benefits counselors at the Jenks center who are trained elder advocates for seniors who need assistance and clarification regarding health insurance and resources. This service is sponsored by the Winchester Council on Aging.

During March and April, the Massachusetts Executive Office of Elder Affairs and the Massachusetts Association of Councils on Aging have set up a series of meetings throughout the Commonwealth to update information on Medicare, Medicaid, and Medigap, the latter covering the services not accepted by Medicare and Medicaid.

Its name, Medigap, means closing significant gaps in insurance coverages.

SENIOR NEWS

Jenks are attending meetings at the McCormack Building in Boston and the Council on Aging Center in Peabody.

Part of the Jenks' group will be in Boston and part in Peabody for training meetings.

During the workshops, nursing home services and mental health issues such as Alzheimer's Disease will be discussed.

New legislative bills pertaining to the elderly will also be explained.

Health benefits counselors at the Jenks are on duty one morning each month for prearranged appointments.

Some questions are handled through telephone contacts and home visits are made to the physically handicapped who are unable to come to the center for assistance with their health forms.

Chairpersons are Richard Brownell and Helen Cotter. Members are Agnes Blyth, William Burns, Audrey Kuhn, Mary McLaughlin, and Catherine Morris.

Recently added to this important committee are Barbara Hess, Eleanor Matson, Mary DeCourcy, and Robert Morrison.

For information about filling out insurance forms, contact the center receptionist (721-7136) and leave a message for one of the chairpersons to contact you.

The service offered by the health benefits counselors is valuable and far-reaching and should be for those who need assistance with health insurance coverage.

The counselors are developing a file of resource materials for varying needs. They are on duty to provide help at the second Thursday session of the Keep Well Clinic.

Medications workshop

The second Medications Workshop is scheduled for April 16 at the Keep Well Clinic at the Jenks Senior Center. The pharmacist of the Winchester Hospital will be at the clinic to review with you medicines you may be taking, possible side effects, time and food intake indications, and any possible reaction and interaction.

The Jenks Center Health Committee has arranged for this special service.

Bring in the original bottles of all the medicines you are taking.

Plan to spend some time discussing them with the pharmacist. Call the center receptionist (721-7136) for an appointment.

Volunteer drivers sought

More volunteer drivers are needed urgently at the Jenks Senior Center for this important service sponsored by the Council on Aging.

There are currently 25-30 volunteer drivers and substitutes.

Trips are provided for visits to doctors and dentists, Winchester Hospital, hairdressers, banks, drug stores, general business errands downtown and grocery shopping.

Drivers also take riders to communities around Winchester for the above reasons.

The program has expanded from 43 rides in 1979-80 to more than 550 rides in 1986. This is an increase of approximately 7 percent in the eight years of the service to seniors.

Requests for rides must be placed with the center receptionist (721-7136) at least 48 hours in advance to complete plans.

The Council on Aging obtained a grant for use in the transportation program on a per mile basis.

Some drivers follow this arrangement while others list a deduction in reporting to the Internal Revenue Service.

The given on a voluntary plan may be weekly, bi-weekly, or monthly in accordance with the wishes of individual drivers.

Kimball Archibald and Mary Peterson, co-chairpersons of the transportation committee, will be very grateful for new recruits to add to the faithful volunteer drivers who give their service.

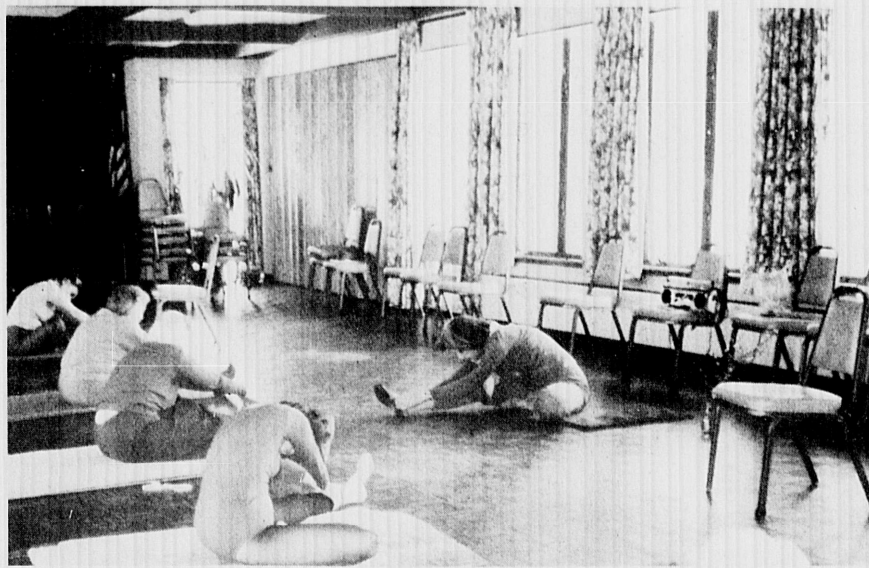

Appreciation is extended to all the members of the Transportation Committee for rendering this important service to the seniors of Winchester.

Safe levels of exercise to stay vigorous

On June 11, 1986, the New York Times carried an interesting article on "Safe Levels of Exercise to Help the Elderly Stay Vigorous," written by Jane E. Brody.

Unfortunately, some older people became so hooked on the rejuvenating effects of physical activity they endanger themselves by doing too much.

Others don't stir their muscles enough which is equally harmful.

Yoga will return to the Jenks Senior Center when special guest Ruth Bender brings her class to Winchester Seniors.

Brody states there are three major types of exercise which are important in maintaining the highest possible quality of life for however long a person lives.

Endurance activities condition the cardiovascular and respiratory systems and enable a person to do more physical work with less effort and less strain on vital organs.

Strengthening exercises increase the power of muscles which permits greater, safer and more sustained muscular effort and helps protect the joints against injury.

Flexibility or stretching exercises keep aging joints from stiffening. Researchers have shown much of the joint stiffness and aches and pains that accompany aging are the result of disuse, not always arthritis or the age-related deterioration of tissues.

In following a program of endurance exercise, pursue an activity for 30 continuous minutes at least three to five times a week.

The intensity of each work-out should not be excessive and a variety of exercises should be planned to ensure that different parts of the body are used.

Strengthening exercises bring conditioning benefits using the long muscles of the body - the legs, arms, and trunk in a rhythmic fashion for 20 consecutive minutes. Heart and breathing rates should increase the exercise period.

An ideal activity for older people is brisk walking at the pace of 3 to 5 miles an hour. Swimming, also, is excellent if done rapidly and continuously.

Using a stationary bicycle or rowing machine is beneficial.

Strengthening exercises need to be done only 2 to 3 times a week. Begin slowly at a comfortable level and increase the intensity gradually. Walk a half a mile in the beginning and increase to three miles over a period of 6 to 12 months.

Exercise regularly since it takes many weeks to reach a peak level of conditioning.

Never take a hot shower after a vigorous work-out because it could lead to a circulatory collapse.

Wait at least five minutes before showering in warm, not hot, water.

The Winchester Star LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

a dog-fight these past eight weeks was. I feel I had a broad-based campaign, and that I obviously spoke to many of the issues in such a way as to influence this broad-based support.

I want to congratulate Tom Schmitt for his spirited, clean-run campaign and his victory. I wish him well in his first term. There is much work to be done.

In closing, I want to personally thank all my many tireless workers. As John Sullivan so aptly said on election night, many people don't know what fun and excitement and learning goes on in a town election. We do, and knowing this, we shall be back in some leadership capacity in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,
Steve Powers

Jervey thanks supporters and town's voters

TO THE EDITOR:

Although I ran, ultimately, in an uncontested race for School Committee, there were many people who were kind enough to provide support, time, energy, and organizational skills to our campaign. I would like to thank them especially, and all the voters who turned out in the rain last Tuesday.

Thank you,
Bill Jervey

Family thanks friends for help and support

TO THE EDITOR:

Until such time as we can contact each of you personally, may we express to all our friends our sincerest appreciation for the love, kind thoughts, and prayers which are helping us through this difficult time.

Thank you

A.B.C. officers say thanks for jazz concert

TO THE EDITOR:

Our grateful thanks to all friends of A.B.C. who braved the elements on Saturday night to come and support our jazz concert. It was held at the new wing of the Jenks Senior Center which was a beautiful facility. We thank the Jenks Center for their cooperation and support of our fund raising efforts. We also are most grateful to Nowell movers who moved the piano into the new wing. The A.B.C. students all helped at the concert.

Special recognition should be given to the committee who worked so hard to make this event a success. Carolyn Angeles, Dee Dee Cunningham, Marty Fuller, Marge Harvey, Marsha Lamson, Jamie Minetti and Jan Smith made it all happen. Sandy and Lou Thompson added their enthusiasm and enormous help to every aspect of the concert. The Vinny Jefferys Quartet, once it arrived, was a wonderful jazz group which was enjoyed by all. Laura Beth Foster and Betty Britt, co-chairmen

Health board supports lawn pesticide laws

The State Department of Food and Agriculture Pesticide Bureau, recently approved regulation giving the consumer the right to know what materials are being used in the application of commercial pesticides, as well as the right to be notified when and where each application is made.

These regulations will only pertain to applications of pesticides to turf by commercial applicators and will not address fertilizer applications, tree and shrub applications or homeowners' use of lawn-care fertilizer.

These regulations have four provisions. The first provision requires that applicators provide their customers with a Department of Food and Agriculture - approved consumer information sheet at the time the two parties enter into an agreement.

The consumer information sheet informs the consumer of his rights to notification of pesticide applications and outlines what steps he can take to minimize exposure to these pesticides. It also contains some information on commonly used pesticides.

The second provision requires that the applicator give the customer the opportunity to be pre-notified by the applicator of the date of pesticide application.

This requirement gives the consumer time to take precautions such as keeping pets indoors, putting away lawn furniture and toys, closing windows, and bringing in laundry.

The third provision requires that after each pesticide application, certain important information is provided to the consumer including the applicator's name and license number, the trade name of the pesticide product, the purpose of the application, the date and time of the application, any post-application precautions listed on the label and a statement that notification sign must remain posted for 72 hours unless otherwise specified by the Department of Food and Agriculture.

The fourth provision requires that signs be posted on the property being treated by the applicator at the time of pesticide application. Consumers are responsible for maintaining signs on their property for 72 hours following the pesticide application.

The Winchester Board of Health hopes that the adoption of these regulations by the pesticide bureau will help to increase consumer awareness and knowledge of safe pesticide applications as well as to minimize potential exposure to pesticides. If you have questions about these regulations or any other pesticide issue contact the State Pesticide Bureau at 727-7712 or the Winchester board of Health at 721-7121.

Youth center overnight trip called a success

The youth center's new overnight ski program took 35 sophomores and freshmen to Sugarloaf Mountain, Maine.

It was a March weekend of fresh air and fun. The group traveled by bus on Friday evening and returned Sunday after two days of activities with the youth center staff.

Weekend opportunities included skiing, swimming, racquetball, shopping, group activities and use of the arcade game room.

Students enjoyed accommodations at The Lodge Hotel at the foot of Sugarloaf Mountain in Carrabassett Valley.

The trip was planned by Chris Lee, sophomore class president and Darcy Fitzgerald, youth coordinator.

Because of the success of the program and commendations from mountain and hotel personnel, the youth center has planned a summer trip for high school students.

The second trip is scheduled for the weekend of July 25 to Montreal and The Rouge River, Quebec. Registrations will be accepted May 9 at the recreation department.

Sightseeing and white water rafting will be the focus of the weekend.

OPEN LETTER To Citizens of Winchester

We are writing to tell you about an action taken against a colleague that has shocked, saddened and demoralized us. Karen Baker, Assistant Principal at the High School, was denied tenure at the March 24th School Committee meeting, in a 0-6 vote. There was no discussion. The school administrators who have supervised and evaluated her over a three year period unanimously recommended her for tenure. The tenure review committee approved. No school official had indicated to Mrs. Baker that there was dissatisfaction with her performance.

The established evaluation procedures developed over the years provide a method by which a school employee is supervised, evaluated, and helped to grow as a professional. The manner in which this process has been discarded destroys our assumptions that we will be treated fairly. We are demoralized. We are upset with the way a member of the faculty has been treated.

Just and fair treatment are the foundations of a democratic society. We teach this in our schools. School systems should be models of democracy and should be especially sensitive to safeguarding our basic values. The treatment afforded Mrs. Baker is not only an affront to her, but also an affront to all of us in the teaching profession who believe in the basic doctrines of a democratic society and who had assumed we could expect the observance of these doctrines in Winchester. We hope the School Committee understands the long-term effects its action will have, not only on one person's life and career, but also on our spirit as professional staff of the Winchester schools.

Sachems lacrosse teams opens season with a win

Dan Fallon, No. 19, and Bill Lee, No. 15, battle for control with Peabody and other Sachem players.

Defeats Peabody by a 13-7 score

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

After a somewhat questionable preseason and postponed season opener, the Winchester High School lacrosse team started its spring with a solid 13-7 win over Peabody Friday.

Just a few weeks ago the Sachems were adjusting to some preseason problems, but if last Friday's game is any indication, they could be on the road to a successful season.

The Sachems lost 10 seniors from last year's team to graduation, including several top starters, and were left without an experienced goalie. To make the situation worse, field problems limited practice and scrimmage time for Winchester.

All this was overcome, however, and the Sachems played strong throughout Friday's victory.

Winchester took a 4-0 lead early in the game but Peabody would make a comeback attempt almost as quickly.

Peabody finished off the scoring for the first half to bring the game to 4-3 and then scored the first goal of the second half to tie Winchester.

Winchester took control of the game after that, going on a five-goal run to help put the score further out of Peabody's reach. At the end of the third period Winchester was ahead 9-5 and went on to outscore Peabody 4-2 in the fourth to wrap up the victory.

Bill Coppins and Rob Acardi both scored three goals each for the Sachems. John Ward and Kent McCord scored twice, and Phil Svahn, Mike Murray and George Nowell each scored one goal for Winchester while Murray and Scott Nijesson had three assists.

Winchester's Louie Frate played a very good game in goal for a previously inexperienced goalie.

"I thought he did a pretty good job," coach Gene Bouley said. "Several of the goals that were scored were not his mistakes, we made other mistakes to let them go through."

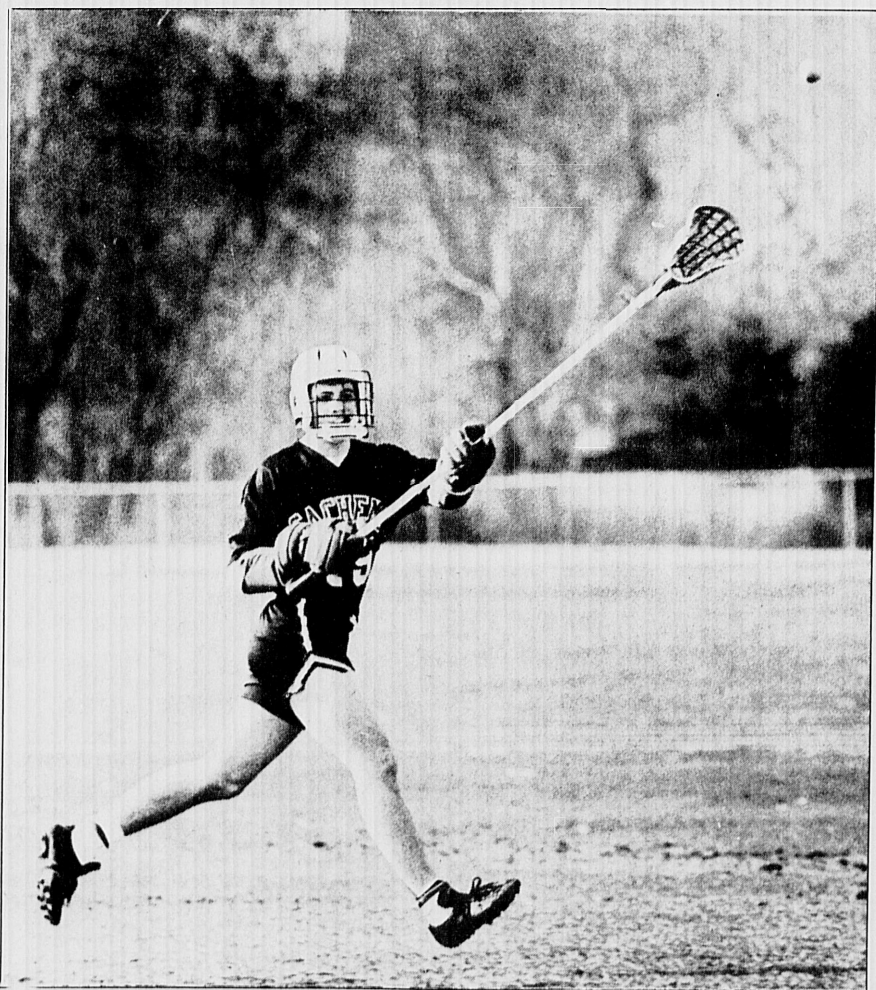

Despite having lost a lot of last year's seniors, the Sachems have a larger number of experienced seniors on this year's team, and Bouley thinks that it was one reason the Sachems were able to play well after not having as much time to organize this spring.

The Sachems are scheduled to play at Burlington this Thursday, but don't be surprised if it is postponed because of field conditions due to the recent week of rain.

The Sachems were scheduled to play Newton South April 1, but the game, and two make-ups, was postponed due to rain.

Library variety lends lease on life

Winchester Community Services Librarian Chris Rust stands by a table with some of the books and materials an average library patron uses in a single year. (Paul Drake Photo)

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Where can you study town records of the 1800's, hear the newest pop music on compact disc, attend a lecture, be read a story, read a magazine, or get help with homework?

A super store? A fancy University? A fictitious land of learning and culture?

Winchester Public Library. The library is not just a silent vault of dusty old books. It's keeping up with high technology and moving right into the information age, says Chris Rust, Community Services Librarian.

"The library is here to be taken advantage of, it's not just little old ladies saying, 'shhh,'" she says. The library is celebrating its new image as part of National Library Week, this week.

With increased computerization, libraries are increasing their services by tying into more information sources.

"The patrons really have access to a lot more than ever before," says Rust.

In July, Winchester Public Library will hook up to an even greater source of information with the purchase of "Dialogue," a commercial database system. The system will allow patrons to tap into vast stores of information on very specific subjects, says Rust.

"If someone wanted to find feminist criticism of Ralph Waldo Emerson, for example, things like that are hard to do in a library like this," she says.

But with the new system, such specialized information will be fairly readily available.

The new system will also provide information on subjects such as patents, medical procedures and businesses. More common information will continue to be available through the library, though.

"You can just call the library and say, 'what is the capital of Mexico.' There is a perception that people asking questions are bothering us. That is not true, that's why we're here," says Rust.

New forms of entertainment are also becoming available through the library. The library's collection of 100 compact discs and 200 video cassettes have been very popular since they began circulating in August, says Rust.

Although the library purchases books and most other materials in large volumes and receives discounts, for newer items like CD's, they shop like most everyone else.

"We look for sales," says Rust. "We just got Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band."

Even some older forms of entertainment have taken on a new twist. Traditionally popular story hours have expanded to include a story-line by which a child can call the library when it is closed and hear a story over the phone.

This service has been very popular except with one Winchester family that vacationed on Cape Cod, and received a phone bill with many unexplained calls back to Winchester.

Their daughter had been calling for stories each night, explains Rust.

"It is a very popular program," she says.

"We could probably run story hours non-stop if we had the staff," says library director G. Matthew Sperber of that program's popularity.

One of the challenges facing Winchester Public Library and all libraries will be meeting the demand for newer services while maintaining traditional library services.

"How do you balance all of the different needs for all of the different people in town," is a question libraries are trying to answer says Rust.

Sperber agrees.

"The real challenge is 'what is the public library going to be?'" Sperber asks.

"How can we keep up with those interests and still maintain a good, first quality book collection?" he asks.

Adding to the challenge, of course, is the cost of the many services, new and old.

The cost of all materials used by the library has increased 70 percent in the past five years, while funding for the library has only increased by 28 percent, he says.

Compounding the problem is the sheer age of the building. Built in the 1930's, Winchester's

Low budget bargain: library is a classic

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

The library has always been a bargain for the low budget literary set. Best sellers, classics, poetry, prose, you name it. It's there for the reading, free of charge.

But for the average resident how much of a bargain is the local library. Winchester Public Library had a budget of $574,015 in fiscal 1987. That breaks down to about $22.33 per resident or $82 per household.

There are 10,178 library card holders in town and they checked out 223,485 items over the past year, according to Winchester Community Services Librarian Chris Rust.

This, says Rust, represents a circulation of 10 items per resident per year, 22 items per card holder, per year, or 30 items per household, per year. These 30 items, if purchased or rented would cost an average of $402.52, says Rust.

In addition the reference librarians answered 13,587 questions last year, and anyone who's had a tricky question answered by a librarian knows the value of that service.

There is no measurement of the number of times a family uses the resources of the library to look up information, read a newspaper or magazine, get tax forms, attend a program, or borrow an art print or museum pass, says Rust.

The real value of the library, says Winchester Public Library Director G. Matthew Sperber, is that it is available to everyone.

"The library is one of the few services in town that people can actively use. Here you can actively get your money's worth," says Sperber.

library has very old electrical and heating systems, no air conditioning and no humidity control, says Rust. The lack of humidity control can also speed the decay of some materials, she says.

"The library is the last building in town to need serious renovation," says Rust.

Sperber says the library will be hiring a consultant during the next year to conduct a feasibility study, to "come up with options" for the library.

The study will also look to make better use of existing space at the library.

Although a volunteer group, Friends of the Winchester Public Library, helps with maintenance, repair and general well-being of the library, Sperber says the library will need town increased town help in the future.

"We've done the best we can over the last couple of years. We're looking to the town to help us. The library is one of the few institutions in town that serves absolutely everybody," he says.

Wine auction ok with 3-2 margin

Town counsel Douglas Randall told the board last week that the wine auction constituted a sale of liquor and required a liquor license. The board does not have authority to issue such a license, he said.

"Technically speaking it does require a license. That is still my opinion," Randall said Monday.

Selectman Robert Deering, who supported issuing the permit, said the board's job was to issue an auctioneer's license not to question what was being auctioned off.

"As far as I know, looking at this form (the permit application), they could be auctioning off books," Deering said.

Ignoring what is being auctioned, simply to raise funds for a good cause would be ignoring the law, Lombardi said.

"We could just have an auction and go auction off pot and they could make a ton of money — I just cannot possibly vote for it," Lombardi said.

Because the auction is being conducted in Winchester and no one is being paid for their role in the auction, the need for a liquor license is unclear, chairman of selectmen Judie Muggia said.

"This is where some argument comes in as to the appropriateness of the license," Muggia said.

Following approval of the permit, Library Friends Chairman Ron Hertel said he was pleased with the decision but surprised by the controversy.

"The issue as to the legality of it rests with the ABC (Alcoholic Beverage Commission). The issue is decided in the state," Hertel said.

He said wine auctions for charitable causes are conducted regularly without liquor licenses.

"There is no such license that can be issued nor are they (the state) about to stop the many charitable wine auctions," he said.

"The sentiment of the town is that this is a very useful event benefitting the citizens of Winchester," Hertel said.

Lombardi asked that the board instruct Randall to forward a copy of his legal opinion to the police department.

"I think the police department has to enforce the law. I wonder what interpretation of the law the police are going to use," Lombardi said after the meeting.

Schmitt to the board and opened the floor to nominations for vice-chairman.

Schmitt nominated Robert Deering and Muggia seconded the move. Selectman Frank Soppe nominated Lombardi, who seconded the motion himself.

Adding his own vote to those of Muggia and Schmitt, Deering became vice-chairman of the board.

Muggia suggested that the board meet in the next two weeks to discuss further reorganization of the board.

At the close of the meeting the new chairman expressed a few of her goals for her coming term.

"I am interested in seeing the major boards get together. We can make real progress," she said.

She noted that selectmen, zoning board of appeals, the housing authority and planning board should work together on issues of town-wide concern.

Muggia also said the board should communicate better with the public, especially applicants for appointed boards.

"Anyone who comes before the board to apply for a committee, deserves the respect of a reply," she said.

In other action: The board received two communications from Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh (R-Winchester).

Selectman Judith Muggia

The first notified the board of a meeting with the MDC Commissioner at 3 p.m. April 23 to present the Ginn Field Playground proposal.

The second concerned a tour of MDC and town property with Saltmarsh and an MDC representative Friday.

The board granted a staging permit to Fells True Hardware, 654 Main St.

The board reappointed Douglas Randall as town counsel.

The board discussed parking lines and crosswalks in the downtown area which are peeling off the street. The lines were painted by a private contractor in the fall and were expected to last for four or five years, Maurer said.

The board asked Maurer to look into any recourse the town may have.

Principal claims discrimination in tenure denial

When asked why Baker was given no notice that she was not doing her job well enough by school committee standards to be granted tenure, committee member Donna Brandt Landry said, "The school committee does not deal directly with employees."

Baker is responsible for disciplining ninth and eleventh grade students. She also organized extracurricular activities, an adult education program and a study program for students having academic problems.

The school committee voted unanimously against Baker's tenure without any discussion. Both Jervey and Landry said the six members made their decisions independently and for their own reasons. Neither would disclose those reasons.

"The evaluations are only a part of what goes in the decision-making process," Jervey said. "Input from the school community is also taken into consideration."

Baker believes the tenure denial could be the end of her career. "I have applied for other positions, but I always have to answer the same question: 'Why didn't you get tenure?' and I don't have an answer," Baker said shaking her head.

Tiffany said: "Being denied tenure is such a blot on your professional record. You can do that after the first or second year, but after the third year it's a real repudiation of your talent."

A teacher who asked that her name not be used said, "I think they've destroyed her career. I used to like working here. There's a sense of security that's gone. I have tenure, but I feel that my job could be taken away."

Both the school's principal Vincent LaRocco and Superintendent of Schools Charles Mitsakos recommended tenure for Baker.

She worked as a teacher for 18 years in three different school systems before coming to Winchester three years ago for her first administrative position, assistant principal.

"An assistant principal's job is very complex and difficult. The person in that job is primarily a disciplinarian who deals mostly with problems and negative behavior," Tiffany said. "An assistant principal who performs the job as it should be performed is bound to displease some people, it is the nature of the job."

Baker has a file full of support letters from faculty members, but she doesn't think they will help her get her job back. A quickly circulated petition in Baker's favor has about 60 signatures on it and Tiffany said not all the 100 faculty members had a chance to sign.

Teachers also held a candlelight vigil for Baker before the school committee meeting Tuesday night.

Baker said she has sent registered letters to the six members who comprised the committee at the time of the vote (March 24). She says she has received no reply.

Landry said the committee has not had a chance to discuss the letter and how to respond if at all.

Baker is working toward her doctorate in leadership in schooling at Harvard, but said she has doubts about continuing her career after the tenure denial.

Jervey unanimous choice as school committee chair

By SUE SHOR

The Winchester School Committee unanimously elected William Jervey chairman in an organizational meeting Tuesday night. Superintendent of Schools Charles Mitsakos opened the meeting as is tradition when there is no chairman.

Mitsakos opened the floor to nominations. Committee member Donna Brandt Landry named William Jervey saying his financial experience would be of help during capital planning issues at town meeting.

"I hope I can chair the school committee meetings as well as Dr. Ronayne did during our last joint meeting on Racial, Cultural and Ethnic Awareness. I hope all the meetings will start promptly at 7:30 and move smoothly," Jervey said.

Committee member Edward O'Connell nominated Landry for the position of vice chairman. She was also unanimously elected.

Landry volunteered to sign the Winchester Public School payrolls and committee member Alice McCart said she would serve as alternate.

Landry distributed committee assignment sheets to be discussed at the next meeting on April 14.

Before the meeting adjourned, Director of Physical Education and Health Jan Dolan asked to read a statement she didn't read at the March 24 school committee meeting in which Winchester High School Assistant Principal Karen Baker was denied tenure.

"Winchester High School is a better school today than in 1985, when she came," Dolan read from her statement. "She made some very, very strong and very unpopular decisions. I'm sure parents found it an unpleasant experience, also, but more kids are in school today and participating because of her decisions."

Dolan thanked Baker for the work she's done to improve the school.

The committee had no comment, but Jervey said the next meeting will consist of a full agenda.

Residents say dog has bitten others which I think is a good characteristic," Suvak said.

Selectman Robert Deering suggested muzzling and confining the animal as an alternative to having it destroyed. Suvak said he would do this, if the board ordered it.

Members of the board and audience indicated this would not be sufficient to protect the neighborhood.

"If the dog has not been restrained through all of this time and all of this history it is going to be difficult to explain to the Gerreins... that the dog will be restrained now," chairman of selectmen Judie Muggia said.

Selectmen Mark Lombardi initiated the motion to order Molea to seek a court order to impound and possibly destroy the dog.

"I also am a dog lover, but I think much more of my grandchildren than I do of my dog," Lombardi said.

The board voted 4-1 in favor of the motion. Deering voted against the motion.

The Suvaks have 10 days to appeal the decision in Woburn Court.

"I think it is the only decision that makes sense. The neighborhood needs to be free of fear. It is difficult for me to recommend destroying an animal but human life has to take a higher priority," John Gerrein said of the decision.

What To Do

Bowling booms pin bashing can

Bowling has been the sport of

After a long day battling the Red Scare and other menaces to the American way, President Harry Truman often retreated to the White House basement where he would unwind by bowling a few strings. A lefty bowler, Truman had two bowling lanes installed below the Oval Office in the late 1940s.

Truman's successor, Dwight Eisenhower, an avid golfer, moved the lanes across the street to the Executive Mansion. They remained silent until President Lyndon Johnson's wife, Lady Bird, and her two children took up the sport nearly 10 years later.

The most active White House bowler of all, however, was Richard Nixon. He reportedly held a respectable 160 average, according to Bruce Pluckhahn, the curator of the Bowling Hall of Fame in St. Louis, Mo.

Since Nixon left office, the lanes on Pennsylvania Avenue—like scores of bowling alleys across the country—have fallen on hard times.

The National Kegler, which once featured Truman on its cover, has gone out of business. Even President Ronald Reagan who once appeared on the cover of Bowler's Journal has forsaken the game for the more prestigious world of horses.

When bowling was hot, such TV shows as "Championship Bowling," "Bowling Stars," "Pin Point," "Make That Spare" and Milton Berle's "Jackpot Bowling" brought bowling into the homes of millions. Presidential keggers and movie personalities like Bob Hope, Mickey Rooney, Harold Lloyd, and Ronald Reagan's first wife, Jane Wyman, appeared, ball in hand, on the cover of bowling magazines.

The popularity of the sport may be waning but interest in bowling collectibles is running high. Earlier this year the first book on the subject, "Bowl-O-Rama," was published by Abbeville Press. In it H. Thomas Steele, an L.A. based graphics designer who owns more than 350 pieces of bowling memorabilia, provides often humorous examples of bowling shirts, matchbook covers, patches and labels, postcards and pinups popular in the sport's heyday.

Once called the sport of kings, bowling is becoming passe in the fast-paced world of the 80s.

The spacious bowling centers of the 30s, 40s and 50s have become victims of rising real estate prices, expanding industrial parks and astronomical insurance bills.

"I've seen literally hundreds of lanes close since I came into business in 1962," says Bob Parella of Paramount Bowling Supply in Medway. "The place that has lost the most is the Northeast where they have had enormous building booms. We've lost, in the last 10 years, 70 to 80 bowling centers in the New England area," he adds.

Ironically, bowling has roots in New England. After all, it was a Worcester resident and pool hall bouncer by the name of Justin still, relax presidents

What To Do

"Pop" White who, in 1880, invented candlepin bowling, according to Florence Greenleaf's "The Game of Candlepin Bowling." A bear of a man, White, owner of a billiards and bowling establishment on Pearl Street in Worcester, found the game of 10 pin, with its pregnant pins 10 to 11 inches apart, too easy.

With enough practice, you could obtain perfection: the 300 game. So "Pop" set out to make a simple game more challenging by making the ball smaller and the pin thinner.

The challenge of the new game couldn't overcome its unsavory connection with barrooms. In those days, bowling alleys could only be found in small, dimly lit, drinking establishments where you could get a beer for a nickel and a fight for free.

"If you were a woman and went to bowling alleys then, you were considered a tramp. And guys who went to bowling alleys were bums," says Wilber Blair, a former pin boy.

When "Pop" took the bowling alley out of the bar, the sport won some respect. Candlepin bowling, with the impossibility of a perfect score, caught on in New England while the rest of the country clung to 10 pin. As Wayne Brierley, part-owner of MetroAlleys in Framingham put it, "Candlepin bowlers come out for fun. Ten pin bowlers are absolute fanatics."

As more fraternal organizations organized bowling leagues, the respectability of bowling moved up another notch.

Soon alleys were sprouting up everywhere.

It was in the Odd Fellows halls and other small bowling centers that a kid could make 2 cents a string crouching in a pit no bigger than a batter's box and setting pins. "It was backbreaking work," says Blair. "You worked from 7 p.m. to midnight during the week, and 7 a.m. to 2 a.m. on the weekends. You had to be able to hold three pins in each hand. Some nights you'd get a total of 10 strings. If you had a good guy you'd put the pins close together so he'd have the advantage," he adds, "and if he was a bum, you'd set the pins apart."

The world record for setting pins was established by Zip Lachepelle, who set up 103 strings in 9 hours and 50 minutes in 1913 in Worcester, according to "The Game of Candlepin Bowling." At 2 cents a string, Zip took home a princely $2.06 for a day's work.

As American industry became automated, so did the bowling business. In 1949 two men from Everett, Howard Dowd and Lionel Barrow, invented a machine which could reset bowling pins.

Three years later, the moans and groans from the neighborhood kids setting and dodging pins had been replaced by the squeaks and whir of automatic pin setting machines.

"Pin boys never regretted the day when machines replaced them," says former pin boy Blair. "It was dangerous work sitting between the lanes. I remember walking home in the evening with bruises all over me from getting hit by the flying pins," he says.

Bowling alley owners, too, were glad to see automatic machines replace pin boys. Not only could the machines set the pin faster but proprietors no longer had to worry about filling the unglamorous jobs.

Bowling fans try new life

"When my father started his business, he had four duck-pin alleys in downtown Franklin and he used pin boys," says Paul Ficco of Ficco's Bowladrome in Franklin. "Then they changed the law raising the age of pin boys to 18 so it was easier to switch to machines," he says.

With the new machines, proprietors could offer faster service and thus attract more customers. Bowling alleys became clean, spacious, well-lit establishments that provided inexpensive entertainment for the entire family. For 25 cents, you could get a pair of shoes and a chance to be the envy of your bowling partners. Leagues grew and they were no longer limited to fraternal organizations. Now there were women's, mixed couple's, children's, and even senior citizen's leagues.

During the 50s and 60s, new bowling centers were sprouting up faster than prefabricated houses. Proprietors were touting air-conditioned cocktail lounges and the latest pinball machines and even promising bowlers better scores.

"It was dog eat dog for years," says Blair. "They (the proprietors) would do anything to bring in bowlers. They would advertise that if you bowled in my house your scores would be better, but they would fix it so as to make you think you were better."

Houses would make the gutters smaller so that the balls would bounce out and go back into play. Blair says another trick would be to put the pins at an angle so they would roll into each other and give the bowler a higher score.

Competing with the wide variety of recreational choices in the 80s.

"I used to open on a Saturday morning and I wouldn't get out for dinner," says Ernest Sawyer of Sawyer's Bowlerdome in Northboro, one of the last small houses still in operation. "Now, I open on a Saturday and I wonder why I got here. It's not as popular as it once was. Kids have soccer, hockey, and all kinds of sports in school they can do for free. So naturally, there's no kind of carryover."

There are, however, a small group of bowling aficionados who are trying to revitalize the sport. At the recently renovated Metro Alleys in Framingham, owners Wayne Brierley and Steve Gulino are hoping the surefire formula of the 50s—offering wholesome entertainment for the entire family in an attractive setting—will spell success for them.

Once a dark and dingy bowling center filled with more pool players than bowlers, the Mt. Wayte Avenue establishment's pool tables and video games have been replaced with a new restaurant, a pro shop, and a baby-sitting center in the hope of attracting a clean-cut crowd. With land hungry developers breathing down their necks, the pair admit they face a formidable challenge.

Despite the difficulties the sport faces, it's still not time to throw in the towel. Most bowling fans will be keeping a close eye on the 1988 summer Olympics, where bowling will be an exhibition sport for the first time.

The games in Seoul, Korea, won't put a lid on real estate prices but at least bowling will win the respect it deserves for one brief moment.

What To Do

Don Gillis is perennial TV bowling face

By Neil Weinberg

As every true TV sports fan knows, baseball and football come and go with the seasons, but "Candlepin Bowling" is forever.

For the past 28 years, "Candlepin Bowling," an hour-long show featuring host Don Gillis every Saturday at noon on Channel 5, has attracted consistently higher ratings than other weekend sporting events.

Other shows, like "The Wide World of Sports," may go to exotic locations around the world, but "Candlepin Bowling" has always stayed close to home. The show originated at Boylston Bowladrome in Boston's Kenmore Square, then moved to Wollaston Beach and later to Sammy White's in Brighton. When Sammy White's was replaced by a car dealer this year, the show moved to the Fairway Lanes in Natick.

Other shows, like professional golf or tennis, may offer the winners prizes of $100,000 or more. "Candlepin Bowling" pays its champs $700.

Other shows, like college football, try to pump up their ratings with shots of cheerleaders or attractive female fans in the stands. The cheerleaders for "Candlepin Bowling" are a group of devoted middle-aged men wearing "Gillis' Gang" T-shirts.

And let's face it, candlepin bowling is not hip. Doctors play golf, young execs play squash or racquetball, and country clubbers play tennis. Archie Bunker bowls.

So what keeps large numbers of viewers coming back every week? According to Gillis, "It's a thing that most people can identify with. Somewhere along the way, if they've grown up in the area, they tried candlepin bowling." Candlepin bowling is not as intimidating as 10-pin bowling because the small ball is easier to handle, especially for children and the elderly.

Another reason for the show's success, Gillis says, is "chauvinistic pride" among New Englanders in a sport that exists nowhere else. "It's a test of skill that people are fiercely proud of," he adds. Gillis, a native of Nova Scotia, grew up in New Bedford, where he bowled duckpins as a youngster.

Other sports fads may come and go, but bowling "hasn't ever diminished in popularity," Gillis says. The show, originally titled, "Fun for All Ages/Candlepin Bowling," went on the air on October 1958 at the behest of the first sponsors. Station executives at WHDH decided to air the show on Saturday a noon because at the hour "we would be least vulnerable to being knocked out by something else," Gillis recalls.

Jim Britt, the former voice of the Boston Red Sox, was the original host, but Britt lived in Cohasset and Gillis was tabbed at his backup in case inclement winter weather kept Britt on the South Shore. The show was aired live in those days.

Gillis was then 36 and had been working at WHDH as a sportscaster for seven years. He did his first bowling show in December.

For a while, Britt did the play-by-play announcing and Gillis interviewed the bowlers and did commercials. Eventually Britt retired and Gillis took over the show in the mid-60s.

Now 64 and retired from WCVB, which he joined as a sportscaster in 1972, Gillis lives in Falmouth and drives to Natick every few weeks to tape a few shows.

Looking back, he says, Lynn resident Joe Cawlina, who was on the show in the late 50s and early 60s, and Tom Olszta, of Sturbridge, a current champ, are the best he's ever seen.

Olszta, according to Gillis, is "truly a phenomenal bowler. He gets that glazed look in his eye and shuts everything out. It's a look of utter total concentration. He commands the pins to fall."

As for women bowlers, Gillis says Stasia Czernicki is the all-time best. Her son, Ed, holds the show record for high single string, a 197 that featured a mark in every box.

Gillis says the show's ratings are holding strong and the program is being carried in Springfield as well as Rhode Island and Maine.

"The future seems to be good. I'm basically retired. Once in a great while, I'll do a special, for all intents and purpose, I'll do the show as long as they want me to do it."

Neal Weinberg, a reporter for the Middlesex News, has been a candlepin bowler since he was old enough to hold the ball.

A.R.T.'s The Day Room loses much of its magic

REVIEW

Last April, when the American Repertory Theatre mounted the world premiere of American novelist Don DeLillo's first play, The Day Room, I made the following observation: The Day Room is a wild, wacky, wonderful comedy! For all pretense, it takes place in the recreation room of...what? A hospital ward? A psychiatric clinic? A sleazy motel? Or a theatre of the absurd?

By the show's end, you're not quite sure what is real and what is illusion, whether the characters on stage are sane or insane, or whether it is really those in the audience that are a bit cuckoo! Whatever it is, it's fun, fun, fun!

A.R.T. has lavished DeLillo's script with a memorable mounting, briskly directed with perfect lunacy by Michael Bloom and performed with brilliance by the A.R.T. company.

The result is a House of Mirrors as conceived by The Marx Brothers...DeLillo illuminates new planes and dimensions with unexpected twists and turns of action and the result is an evening of dynamic entertainment that continually regenerates ideas, images, and laughter!

However, a strange thing happened to The Day Room on its move across the Avenue to the Loeb mainstage; it lost much of its wit, zip and sparkle, its humor, charm and buoyancy.

It is possible that the comedy lends itself more readily to the seedy but comfy confines of the Hasty Pudding rather than the more plush, more expansive Loeb?

Or it is that original director Michael Bloom's diamond-in-the-rough approach adapts itself better to the script than current director David Wheeler's more polished and introspective version? (Maybe you can't transform a sow's ear into a silk purse?)

Is it that the actors have been requested to flesh out their characters, and in doing so, take themselves far too seriously for zany comedy? Or are they too finely honed? Is the current disappointment due in part to the absence of Diane D'Aquila, who was so strong in the original mounting? Or that The Day Room simply doesn't wear well the second time around?

Whatever it is, the freshness has left the blossom!

The play opens in what appears to be a semi-private hospital room occupied by older, bespectacled, pajama-clad and voluble ("Talk keeps the world turning!") Budge (Jeremy Geidt) and the younger, johnny-frocked, reticent Wyatt (Thomas Derrah). Reflects Budge, "He doesn't know what to say...I find that attractive in a man!"

Budge has been readmitted, while Wyatt has checked himself in to be reassured. As they discuss the advantages of talking, a hospital room, interacting, the language of friends, and the politeness of talk, another patient, Grass (John Bottoms) enters, led by his mobile intravenous unit... "Some (of the blood) is mine...some is mass produced in the Republic of Korea!"

Grass is afflicted with heavy water and is being nourished by polyester blood, derived by melting down discarded polyester suits. When Budge observes, "You look worse than ever!" Grass counters, "I've got Dutch Elm disease!" Grass questions, "When you blink, do you have trouble opening up your eyes?" And before being escorted back to the psychiatric ward Grass notes, "Some are generically created for greatness...Some are foreign born!"

Other intruders include dictatorial Nurse Walker (Harriet Harris) who plunges into a treatise on corpses and the evolution of the word straight-jacket to camisole to posey; Dr. Phelps (Nestor Serrano); and Dr. Baselon (Harry S. Murphy), who interned in the Amazon after being refused by 55 American medical schools.

Bazonel plunges into a hilarious turn, questioning Wyatt's intimacy with his bowels. He plans to bombard Wyatt's body with sound waves of screaming baby mice!

Kooky Nurse Baker (Isabell Monk) explains how uniforms translate into authority before informing Wyatt, "They're taking you down now..."

The second act concerns locating the mysterious, elusive Arno Klein theatre troupe. The locale is a motel room (or its it?).

Gary (Serrano) and Lynette (Harris) have just checked in after chasing the group from Cairo to Amsterdam to London. Derrah (in a straight jacket) plays the part of a remote control TV set, a brilliant turn! A contact to a contact to Arno Klein arrives, Freddie (Bottoms), who reflects "Insanity is so personal!" (Bottoms is also wonderful all evening!)

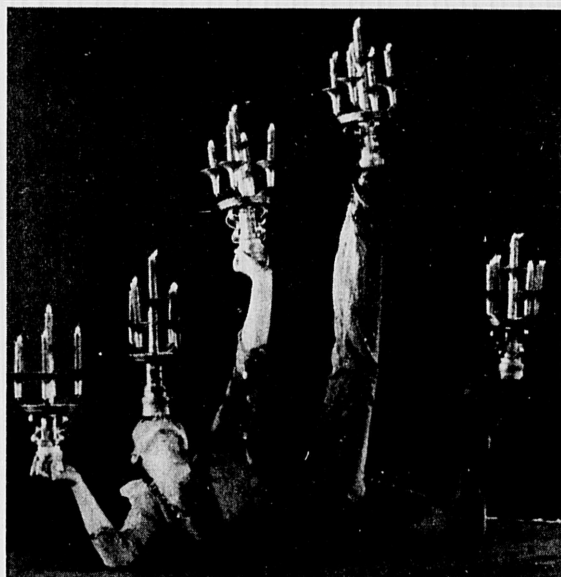

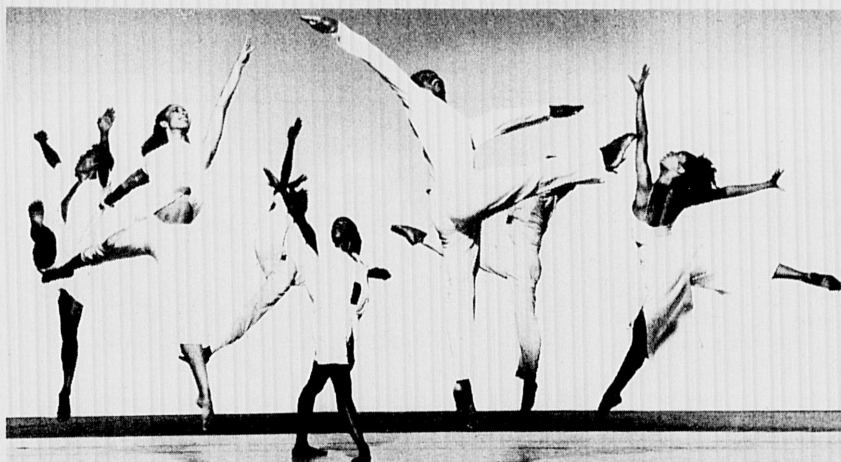

Slimy, sun-glassed Manville (Murphy) is the second contact. His suggestion that Lynette vividly describe her physical and sexual attributes is memorable. And straight-faced Manville breads up the house with "I love to hear a woman say 'Theatre is my life!'...I believe women like that!"

Arts/Boston offers discounts

"There is nothing so useless as an empty seat," says Larry Murray, Executive Director of Arts/Boston, one of the oldest and most successful non-profit audience development agencies in the country, helps to insure that.

"At a time when many critics complain of a lack of product in area theatres, we're offering through the April Arts/Mail mail order program, the largest number of advanced ticket discounts in our history," Murray exclaimed.

By Dann Kosow

Clockwise: The Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre comes to the Wang Center April 21-26; Emanuel Ax, piano, and Yo-Yo Ma, cello, perform at 8 p.m., April 9, in Symphony Hall; the Peking Acrobats perform at 7 p.m. April 9 the Collings Center, Andover.

Throughout the months of April and May subscribers can save as much as $341 by purchasing discount tickets from 26 different performances in theatre, music, dance and opera.

"We're offering discount tickets to performances ranging from a new Irish play at Boston Shakespeare Company to the Houston Grand Opera's production of Porgy and Bess at the Wang Center," said Murray. "You can go to everything from an evening with the Boston Ballet to cruise on the Provincetown II, all at a terrific discount. And it means that otherwise empty seats will be filled."

In April, for the first time, Arts/Mail offers a Year of India excursion. Larry Murray, who has led trips across the globe for the program is particularly excited about the India voyage.

"From the sultans of the 12th century to the British Raj of a century ago, travelers will experience it all, the people, the gardens and palaces, the mosques and markets."

India is just one of the many exciting, affordably priced trips planned for 1987-88.

Other destinations include excursions to Helsinki, Leningrad and Stockholm; an exotic Safari to Kenya; a visit to the magical Soviet Union; and a deluxe tour of Rome and Egypt (with a cruise down the Nile).

Nearly one thousand people have participated over that last two years in these very special and successful excursions.

Becoming an Arts/mail subscriber is as simple as mailing a postcard with a name and address to: Arts/Boston, 59 Temple Place, Boston, MA 02111. For additional information call Arts/Boston at 423-4454.

FEEDING YOUR OLD BOILER!

Old, inefficient hot water and steam boilers can be a problem. They waste expensive fuel. Cost a lot to maintain. Don't deliver the comfort they should.

If this sounds like your old boiler, let us look at it. We'll inspect it free and show you what a new Weil-McLain high-efficiency boiler could do for your fuel bills.

Most boilers (even ones that are relatively new) operate at around 60% efficiency, compared to 80%-plus efficiency for a new Weil-McLain boiler. With Weil-McLain, you get more heat for your energy dollar.

Fed up with your old boiler? Call us today. You'll be surprised how little it costs to get the best: a high-efficiency boiler from Weil-McLain, America's leading manufacturer of cast iron boilers for over a century.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

Period pieces in Wayland

Arts-Wayland has assembled at its Loker Gallery, 47 Loker St., an exhibition of Art Nouveau and Art Deco that spans the years ending "La Belle Epoch," beginning the 20th century, through the start of the second World War. Objects more contemporary, their design influenced by these lively and eclectic styles, are also exhibited and include oriental rugs and an Electrolux vacuum cleaner.

Henry Augustine Tate, art historian and museum educator and lecturer in the humanities spoke at the exhibition's opening last week. Tate gave an overview of the international scope of the movements and the wealth of their sources.

The flowing lines and contemplative attitude of Japanese prints were strikingly compared in slides shown by Tate to both European and American art of the late 1800s and early 1900s, making clear their contribution to Art Nouveau. The speaker cited, as well, Prince Albert's 1851 Crystal Palace, the 1852 banding together of Pre-Raphaelite painters and the discovery in the 1890s of richly embellished 8th and 9th century Celtic art as influential to the movement.

The unearthing of King Tutankhamen's tomb in 1922, Tate pointed out, had enormous impact on visual style during the period between the wars when the movement known as Art Deco flourished.

Of the several highlights in the exhibition are large and elegant Art Deco pieces of furniture, including three handsome geometric Frank Lloyd Wright chairs and a 1933 French "Skyscraper Style" laquered wardrobe flanked by two "Machine Age Modern" stainless steel floor lamps, c. 1935.

Also on exhibit are an original Erte gown, headpiece and cape, a fluid, airy Maxfield Parish Jr. sculpture and two sinuous, weighty bronze figures by sculptor Donald DeLue. An original sketch by Stuyvesant Van Veen for his Hall of Pharmacy mural in the 1939 New York World's Fair is displayed next to a photograph of the completed mural. A Feure enameled vase, an M.C. Escher print and a flower-like Tiffany compote are among the many and varied representations of decorative arts from the periods.

The exhibition was curated by Arts-Wayland members Kay Patterson and Allen Barker and may be seen through April 12 from 2 to 6 p.m. Docents are hand for tours and information. Call 358-4304, 653-9061 or 358-4240.

By Dan Hogan,
Service Manager

Driving can be uncomfortable and dangerous when the turn signals don't function. Although hand signals are still legal in many areas, the man in the car behind you is usually not watching for them—he's on the alert for a flashing light. Besides, putting your hand out the window in the rain or the cold is both awkward and unpleasant. If the filament in one bulb burns out, the flasher is unable to flash any of the signal bulbs on that side of the car. This condition is usually indicated by a steady glow from the turn-signal indicator light on one side of the dashboard and the absence of a clicking noise from the flasher.

The technicians at PETER FULLER OLDS are ASE certified. We keep a computerized history of all cars serviced here to notify you of preventative maintenance. Open 8-5. Tel. 924-8100. M/C, Visa & A/E accepted. We are located within walking distance to public transportation. Come to PETER FULLER OLDS, Watertown Sq. "Olds National Service Award Winner."

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

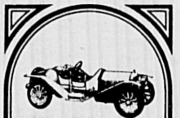

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department.

Just squeeze, please, says prisoner

By SUE SHOR

When police arrived on the scene, they also noticed a plastic bag containing a green, leafy substance believed to be marijuana.

McCauley was charged with possession of a class "D" substance.

McCauley was also charged with leaving the site of property damage. Police called to a hit and run accident said they found fragments from a car McCauley was believed to be driving.

Smile, candid camera may be filming for selectmen

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

The media was the message, or at least the subject of considerable debate, at Monday's selectmen's meeting.

The board discussed whether people appearing before the board, or even selectmen themselves, will be allowed to show video tapes at the meeting.

The tapes will be allowed at future meetings but that decision was only reached after some discussion and considerable opposition.

"In fairness to everyone, I'd just as soon not see any video presentations," selectman Robert Deering said.

Selectman Mark Lombardi said the board would have to allow video presentations in the future as it is fast becoming the most popular method of documentation and communication.

"Everybody should be treated the same. The video is the coming thing. Five or six years from now every single presentation will be on video," Lombardi said.

Tapes will be allowed at future meetings but that decision was only reached after some discussion and considerable opposition.

Town council Douglas Randall noted that the board would not encounter legal problems as long as videos shown at meetings did not feature people. If they did, the board could risk violating an individual's right to privacy, Randall said.

"The right of privacy is extremely narrow. You want to be careful, as a matter of common courtesy, not to hold innocent people up to ridicule," Randall said.

Although the board voted to operate under existing rules and regulations of the board, which allow video presentations, selectmen Frank Sopper and Thomas Schmitt were appointed to work on new rules relating to video presentations.

The board also accepted rules by which it will send a letter of recognition to all applicants for town committees, and a letter to residents when they leave a town committee for any reason.

Selectman Robert Deering will serve as the board's delegate to the Middlesex County Selectman's Association and selectman Thomas Schmitt will serve as delegate to the Middlesex County Advisory Board.

School committee edges past 10 year record of tie votes

By SUE SHOR

For the first time since 1977 the school committee does not have to worry about tie votes.

That's the year the number of members was raised from five to six by town meeting. The resignation of Stephen Powers to run for selectman brought the number back down to five this year.

"The most convincing argument for raising the number of members was the workload deserving of six people," Cathy Alexander, a former member of the committee said.

Alexander served on the committee from 1977-1985 and is now executive director of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce.

The suggestion to revert to five members was first brought up two-and-a-half years ago at town meeting.

"We often found ourselves in a 3-3 tie. We have no tie-breaking mechanism, so a lot of votes were falling in favor of the negative," committee member Donna Brandt Landry said.

"The tie vote over chairman prompted the Community School Association representatives to begin the process to change the number of members," Alexander said.

In her nine years on the committee, Alexander said she only remembers about a dozen tie votes besides those for chairman.

In 1985 the committee only voted in a chairman when Cathy Gatto missed a meeting. That turned the three-three split into a three-two majority for Edward O'Connell.

Last session, the committee did not have a chairman, because of a tie vote. After several futile tries to elect a chairman, the committee agreed to have Michael Ronayne act as pro-tem chairman.

Landry, Alice McCarter and William Jervy all cast their ballots for Jervy. Ronayne, Stephen Powers and Edward O'Connell voted alternately for each other until Powers withdrew from the race.

This year's five-man committee voted unanimously for William Jervy.

Kniffen rides winner in 811 mile yacht race

Robert S. Kniffen of Winchester was on the first yacht across the finish line on the 811 mile Miami-Montego Bay Johnnie Walker Cup Race that kicked off Friday from Miami.

Kniffen is part of a 10-man crew on the Scaramouche of Warwick, R.I., out of the New York Yacht Club. Kniffen is the founder and marketing director of Pilot Software.

The first Johnnie Walker Cup Race was in 1961. The Scaramouche arrived in Montego Bay 4 days, 21 hours, 17 minutes and 1 second after leaving Miami.

Youth Center workshop addresses sadness

The Winchester Youth Center held its first Discussion Workshop April 2. The program, held for the high school students, addressed the topic "When a Friend is Unhappy."

Beginning with a pizza lunch for participants, the format included an initial presentation on teenage sadness, depression, and suicide, by licensed social workers, Howard Sherman and David Margolis. This presentation was then followed by role-playing skits and small group discussions led by the youth center staff. The afternoon was a success and was the first of many workshops to come.

For more information or suggestions call the youth center at 721-7129.

Speaker to address peace on earth

"Peace on Earth: Utopia or Possibility?" This question of universal concern is the topic of a free hour-long lecture by visiting lecturer Arno Preller at 8 p.m. Friday, April 24 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 114 Church St.

Mr. Preller is a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship and is active in the Christian healing ministry as a Christian Science practitioner and teacher. He will be introduced by Rebecca Andrews of Olde Lyme Road.

Joan Friberg of Penn Road chairs the church's lecture committee.

As a child in Germany, Preller recalls being shouted at for wishing a neighbor "good morning" instead of "Heil Hitler!" His father was arrested for his religious beliefs and he himself was assigned to work in a factory where most of the manpower was supplied by forced laborers.

Despite the hostility and persecution, Preller credits this period of his life as a turning point in his understanding of God. He says that he began to learn "that real safety and peace could only be found in God."

In his lecture Preller doesn't offer simplistic solutions to conflict. But he does explore some of the Bible's teachings on peace, examining what he considers to be the practical effect that "a better understanding of God" has had in his own life and the lives of others he knows.

The lecturer says that when people pray as Jesus taught—"seeing others as God sees them"—this prayer actually changes lives, "bringing an assurance of divine protection right in the midst of destruction and danger."

He tells how his own experience in the German factory turned from open hostility and fear into acceptance and brotherhood when he learned to view the other laborers as "the children of God." He also relates instances of physical healing and protection from assault as examples of "the peace that is found in God."

All are invited. Free child care will be provided, and anyone needing transportation may call the Christian Science Reading Room weekdays between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. or Saturday between 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Summer camp preparing for 11 week program

Winchester Summer Day Camp, a full eleven week summer program for students currently in grades K-6, is preparing for a summer of fun and friends for young campers.

Winchester Summer Day Camp, sponsored by Winchester Child Care,

Inc., will be held at the Crawford Methodist Church, corner of Dix and Main Streets, weekdays 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The summer program will include daily swimming at the Melrose YMCA outdoor pool, rainy day activities at the Melrose YMCA gym, arts and crafts, nature walks, sports, playground games, movies, field trips and quiet time for happy and tired campers.

Winchester Summer Day Camp, under the direction of Sally Breckenridge, is staffed by counselors and aides trained and experienced in child development and recreation. The camp was started in the summer of 1986.

Campers will attend the weekday camp in two week consecutive sessions. Students need not attend camp for the full 11 weeks of summer; a minimum of two consecutive weeks any time during the summer season is required, up to and including the full 11 weeks. Tuition for this program is $110 per week.

Transportation to and from activities will be by van, driven by the counselors. Parents are required to drop off their child at the beginning of the camp day and pick up the child at the end of the day. Campers are to bring lunch, bathing suits and towels. Nutritious snacks will be provided by the camp.

Secretary celebrates 25 years in field she calls 'rewarding'

By SUE SHOR

Times have changed. Women have more career choices than they ever did. They are not expected to automatically become nurses, teachers and secretaries.

Despite new choices for women, Mary O'Brien of Winchester says being a secretary is still a fine career for women.

O'Brien has been a secretary for 25 years. She is currently working for the president and chief executive officer, and the chief financial officer at Computervision, Inc. in Bedford.

The week of April 20 is National Secretary's Week and is a good time to speak about the pluses of being a secretary, says O'Brien.

"People don't realize how important secretaries are. They are the glue that holds the office together," she says.

"Secretaries are becoming a rarity," she added. "It is a field that has to be boosted up."

O'Brien said secretaries get far more respect than is generally believed. She has never been asked to buy a birthday gift for the boss' wife or run errands outside the office.

"The benefits far outweigh the bad parts," O'Brien says. "Every day is a challenge. It's not easy, but it's rewarding."

The job of a secretary has changed with the many advances in office technology, she says.

"Secretaries today have it easy compared to when I started," she says. "I had to use carbon paper and a mimeo machine to make copies, now you just put everything on the word processor."

While cultivating her career, O'Brien has also raised five children with only a short break from work. Their support, she says, was a great help to her especially when she had to work late.

"I get frustrated at times because I can proof something over and over and there are still mistakes," O'Brien says, "but that happens to everybody. It's not a big deal."

Mary O'Brien

The work day is 7:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. but "you never really leave totally caught up," she says.

O'Brien recommends attending secretarial training school before tackling the secretarial job market. A lot of the job, she says, is learned while working but school is a good start.

O'Brien says she does not want flowers or gifts on Secretary's Day, just the knowledge that her work is appreciated.

"A 'thank you, you've done a good job' is the only gift I need," she says.

Many people start out as secretaries to learn about the company and then move on to other positions.

O'Brien says there is nothing wrong with this, but wishes people would realize that being a secretary is a valid career choice as well.

"The secretarial profession has gotten bad publicity," O'Brien said. "People think of us as 'gophers' or something and it's not true. We need to show people that secretaries are treated as professionals."

O'Brien began her career after graduating from the Berkley School of Secretarial Training. She worked at an advertising agency in New York City and moved to New England when her husband's company transferred him.

After working in Lexington, O'Brien took a five year hiatus to have her children, but became restless and took a part-time job as a recording secretary for the Appropriations Committee for the Town of Lexington.

She has been with Computervision for four years.

poetry and stories all revolving around the theme of rainbows and dreams.

Seeds of Love finds needy, hungry families to help

By SUE SHOR

Once a week Tina Gonzalez goes on the road.

She packs her car with food and clothes to give to families in the Winchester area who can't make ends meet.

Gonzalez is a member of the Seeds of Love outreach ministry. Saturday she helped out in Winchester where the group has its warehouse.

The group has been helping people in the Winchester area for about six years.

Faith Fellowship is about to become a member of the U.S. Department of Agriculture free food program, and now receives some of the food they distribute from that organization.

They distribute dry milk, butter, cheese, rice and corn meal to 40 Winchester, Woburn and Medford families each week, according to Gonzalez.

Last Saturday she said she gave away 20 bags of food and 10 bags of clothing. Gonzalez said she gets to know some people who need help on a regular basis, but Saturday she also saw many new faces.

"Just about any city you go to you will find people who are hungry," Gonzalez said. "Cheese costs a lot of money these days. We try to help families who are not eligible for other programs."

Gonzalez said the program is open to the public the second and fourth Saturdays of every month.

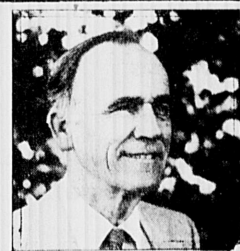

At Thanksgiving and Christmas time, Gonzalez, who organizes a group of about 10 people in the ministry, is especially busy finding turkeys and gifts for the families, but the work keeps her busy all year.

"Everybody has my number by now," she said. "They call me if they need a wheelchair or refrigerator or something and I find them one. One woman I work with is very good at remembering things. If she sees a barefoot kid, she remembers his size and buys him shoes."

In the winter Seeds of Love on Wheels goes to Boston Common to bring warm clothes and food to the homeless there.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Dick Murphy
The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors

THE WALK-THROUGH

The second to last step of your new home purchase is the "walk-through." This is your opportunity to inspect the property before finalizing the sale at the settlement attorney's office. You can make sure the house is in the same basic condition as it was when you wrote the offer to buy it, and you can check on any repairs that were to be made by the sellers.

In some cases, the purchase agreement allows the appliances and all major systems (electrical, plumbing, heating, and air conditioning) to be in "as is" condition. As a rule, however, these must be operating properly at settlement. It all depends on what you've negotiated with the sellers. At the walk-through, you check the appliances, turning each one on and running it through its cycle. If the sellers were to make any repairs, you can examine the work order and inspect the items that needed fixing. Any problems will be much easier for you to work out before or during settlement than after you have finalized the purchase of the home.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at The Bixby & Porter Company Realtors are ready to serve you. Call us at 729-7000 or drop by our offices at 33 Thompson Street in Winchester.

BEACON HILL

New Position (S 1658)- Senate 24-6, House 104-38, gave final approval and sent to the Governor the bill creating the new position of assistant vice chair of the Senate Ways and Means Committee along with a $7500 pay hike.

Supporters said the new position is necessary to help the committee particularly during budget deliberations.

Opponents said the position is unnecessary and is simply being created to help Senator Michael Barrett, the only one of 32 Democrats without a leadership position and higher salary. They noted filling the position may be in violation of the state constitution.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Senator Richard Kraus did not vote.

Emergency Law (S 1658)- House 93-47, favored but failed to gain the two-thirds vote necessary to attach an emergency preamble making the proposed creation of the position of assistant vice chair of Ways and Means effective immediately and waiving the regular 90 day waiting period.

Supporters said the position is needed immediately in order for the person to work on the budget.

Opponents said it is an outrage to waive the 90 days for this patronage bill and rejected the section describing an emergency law as one "necessary for the immediate preservation of the public convenience."

A Yea vote is for making the bill effective immediately. A Nay vote is for waiting 90 days.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Seat Belts (H 5217)- House 80-59, gave near final approval and sent to the Senate the bill requiring children from ages 5 to 12 to wear seat belts and fining the driver $25 if a violation occurs in his or her vehicle.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no.

Jaiks (H 5215)- House 111-34, refused to recommend to the Ways and Means Committee the $80 million bill providing assistance to cities and towns which are sited for prison expansion or new construction. The bill establishes a grant program under which the state may grant communities up to 25 percent of the prison expansion or construction costs.

Bill supporters said this helps communities which accept prisons by giving them money to use to finance increased demands placed on them.

Opponents said the bill does not guarantee money to communities and claimed it offers no help to those that resist prisons.

A Yea vote is for recommending the bill to Ways and Means. A Nay vote is for the bill.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Fight Prisons (H 5215)- House 101-40, rejected a prison bill amendment prohibiting the state from penalizing any community which opposes the siting of a prison.

Amendment supporters said without the amendment, towns like New Braintree which oppose a prison will never receive money even if the prison eventually is located there.

Opponents said there is not enough money to help out communities which fight prisons.

A Yea vote is for the amendment. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

More Prisons (H 5215)- House first approved 75-70, then rejected, 92-52, an amendment requiring the Secretary of Human Services to give communities up to 25 percent of the prison construction or expansion costs. Without the amendment, the bill states the Secretary "may" grant the money.

A Yea vote is for the amendment. A Nay vote is against it. Both roll calls are listed.

Saltmarsh voted yes on both roll calls.

Balanced Budget (H 3468)- House 94-53, rejected resolutions urging the U.S. Congress to call a convention to propose an amendment to the U.S. Constitution requiring that the federal budget be balanced.

Supporters said this requirement is the only long-term answer to fiscal irresponsibility and federal deficits.

Opponents said Congress currently has the power to balance the budget and claimed a convention would open up the door to tampering with the constitution.

A Yea vote is for resolutions. A Nay vote is against them.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Lockups (H 2193)- House 110-32, rejected a bill modifying the current law which requires each prison cell to be checked every 15 minutes. The bill would allow cells to be checked as soon as possible beyond 15 minutes if other immediate responsibilities prevent personnel from conducting 15 minute checks.

Supporters said the bill provides some flexibility so an officer can attend to emergencies without being held liable for a suicide.

Opponents said the bill weakens the current law and will leave the door open to more suicides.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted no.

High School alumni question tenure vote

TO THE EDITOR:

We are writing to express our extreme dismay at the recent tenure denial of Assistant Principal, Ms. Karen Baker. As recent graduates of Winchester High School we wish to convey to the school committee and to the citizens of Winchester our belief that not only was a terrible mistake committed on March 24, but also a very dangerous precedent.

Ms. Baker is in a position that, unfortunately, does not win "the most popular" award. The position of Assistant Principal is a demanding, and thankless post that Ms. Baker has served faithfully over the past three years. One of the few ways in which she can be thanked is by the offer of tenure, a position that should not be given lightly we agree, yet when her colleagues and superiors recommend her for tenure and the school committee, for no apparent reason, or at least not apparent to the public or us, denies tenure, one must ask why? If such a dangerous trend is to be set, that is a capable and deserving administrator being denied tenure, we fear for the future pool of qualified teachers seeking jobs here in Winchester.

But beyond this, we must question the motives of the school committee in their desire to remain silent on their reasons for the denial of tenure. We feel Edward O'Connell's remark of "hearing things around town" is woefully weak for one who is supposedly a very responsible and dependable town official. We further question Mr. O'Connell's handling of his letter to Mrs. Linda Cicciariello in which he wrote, "I don't believe you, a non-resident, of Winchester would be so audacious as to sit in judgement of my political career." Well Mr. O'Connell, we are residents of Winchester and, audacious or not, would be pleased to sit in judgement of your political career, especially the part in which

Gondola ride like a miracle

By TERRY MAROTTA

I crossed a part of the Palm Springs desert one week last month in two far different ways: on horseback, at blinding mid-day; and in a hot-air balloon at the rosy crest of dawn.

On horseback, we picked our way across rocks and chalky cliffs. We saw mesquite and sagebrush at close range; we inhaled dry dusty air whose temperature a few months hence would soar to 120. We moved slowly when our horses walked; slowly too, it seemed, even when they cantered, so great were the spaces yet to be crossed.

The silk purse of my own horse's pointed ears turned this way and that. His large intelligent eyes held fast to the horizon. His shoulders shifted beneath his glossy hide like the vast tectonic plates of the San Andreas Fault that broods, that waits, within the earth here.

To cross the desert on horseback is to ask yourself from what possible storehouse of faith or inspiration those early settlers could have drawn to take up its challenge.

To cross it in a balloon is to begin to grasp the answer.

When an Easterner visits the West, he experiences the odd and naked sensation that someone has lifted the roof from his world. In the East, we live tented by trees and near horizons. The sky arches close above us, like the domed inverted teacup firmament that sheltered the Biblical patriarchs.

In the West, though, there is no sheltering dome. The sky looms vast, not just above but all around one. This sense of limitless horizon, is inseparable, I guess, from an understanding of the restless American character.

In a hot-air balloon high above the Palm Springs Desert at dawn, we saw the sweep of American space: rich corduroyed rows of earth newly irrigated and planted; furrows of asparagus and orchards of grapefruit with tiny stooping figures moving among them.

Our balloon was a gaudy blown blossom rising noiselessly over the whole, a kind of bright and silent galleon breasting the waves of clean morning air. It rose like a miracle above the earth. It rose like a prayer, with its cargo of tiny humans, ascending in its picnic-basket gondola like lucky enchanted children.

The city of Palm Springs itself is gorgeous, of course, an opulent, high-ent oasis fed by springs of water hauled up by man from deep beneath the earth. It is a mirage nearly, an Oz you might say, almost a trick of the imagination. The grounds of its resorts and golf courses are a great green wig set down upon the bald and chalky pate of the desert floor.

The hotel we stayed at had landscapes rioting in blossoms, all imported. Its palm trees were imported too, tall piano-legged things with spikey fronds standing out from their heads like tassels on a party favor.

The grass was imported. It unraveled like a king's carpet to the edge of the artificial stream. I saw another guest at the hotel approach a boulder there, ponder it a moment and then knock on it to test its reality. I knew how he felt. So much of the beauty of the place is contrived that it does seem almost illusory.

The real beauty, of course, the beauty that abides, and does not rest upon illusion, lies out there in the desert.

I read last week that Sonny Bono was considering a run for Mayor of Palm Springs, and had consulted about the prospect with his friend Clint Eastwood, himself a California Mayor.

Cher's Ex could run the town of Palm Springs, I suppose, as could Frank Sinatra or Bob Hope or any one of its other glittering celebrity residents.

None of them could run the desert that surrounds it though. Out there, God is in charge; God and the wind.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

you have been a member of the school committee, but refrain from doing so in a public forum such as this. If we may be so bold as to continue, we believe strongly that when you question the quality of Cicciariello's work in the classroom, you should first sit in on her classes, as we did for many years during Latin class. She is a superior teacher whom we have been able to appreciate even more since we have entered college. Yet not only do her students recognize this but so do her peers who elected her President of the Massachusetts Junior Classical League. Moreover, may we reverse your suggestion, Mr. O'Connell, that she reassess personal career objectives and instead suggest that you, yourself, reassess your own personal career objectives. Mrs. Cicciariello has proved herself time and again to be an asset to Winchester High School and the community at large, and what of you Mr. O'Connell? We were present at many a school committee meeting where some of your ideas of how to better Winchester High School were put forth and we were never quite sure whether or not you had confused Winchester's superb educational system with the penal system.

TO THE EDITOR:

May we conclude by saying that, until recently, we were extremely proud of saying that we were Winchester High School graduates, but by recent actions of the school committee we are not so sure. We offer our support to Ms. Karen Baker and only hope that she will once again occupy her office next fall, this time as a tenured administrator.

Sincerely,
Christopher L. Flynn

Staff members add names to support Baker

TO THE EDITOR:

An advertisement protesting the School Committee action denying tenure to Assistant Principal Karen Baker appeared last week in The Star, signed by 67 staff members. Four names were inadvertently left off: Irene Michelson, Paul J. Lynch, Elizabeth Billings and Pamela Beauchamp.

In addition, five staff members who had no opportunity to sign the ad have asked to be included. They are William Colella, Thomas P. Budrewicz, Paul T. Mulloy, Margaret Mulkerin and David Miller.

The statement these faculty members wish to endorse is as follows:

Open letter to citizens of Winchester: "We are writing to tell you about an action taken against a colleague that has shocked, saddened and demoralized us. Karen Baker, Assistant Principal at the High School, was denied tenure at the March 24 school committee meeting, in a 0-6 vote. There was no discussion. The school administrators who have supervised and evaluated her over a three year period unanimously recommended her for tenure. The tenure review committee approved. No school official had indicated to Mrs. Baker that there was dissatisfaction with her performance.

The established evaluation procedures developed over the years provide a method by which a school employee is supervised, evaluated and helped to grow as a professional. The manner in which this process has been discarded destroys our assumptions that we will be treated fairly. We are demoralized. We are upset with the way a member of the faculty has been treated.

Just and fair treatment are the foundations of a democratic society. We teach this in our schools. School systems should be models of democracy and should be especially sensitive to safeguarding our basic values. The treatment afforded Mrs. Baker is not only an affront to her, but also an affront to all of us in the teaching profession who believe in the basic doctrines of a democratic society and who had assumed we could expect the observance of the doctrines in Winchester. We hope the school committee understands the long-term effects its action will have, not only on one person's life and career, but also on our spirit as professional staff of the Winchester schools."

The addition of the above nine names to the original 67 brings the number of endorses to 76.

Kay Tiffany and Alice Murray
Ad Hoc Committee

Principal's group asks committee to reconsider

TO THE EDITOR:

The school committee's decision not to grant tenure to Karen Baker, an assistant principal at Winchester High School, is of concern to the administrators of the Winchester Public School System. We, the members of the Administrative Team, wish to address this issue.

We have a process of job-performance evaluation in place for all staff members including administrators. That process provides for an on-going written system of communication regarding progress and recommendations for improvement. The administrators are entrusted with the implementation of this system as part of their role. Recommendations which are based upon a summary of one's ability to perform a job over a period of time are then made to the school committee.

Karen Baker received a positive recommendation from her direct superiors. The two and a half years preceding her recommendation for tenure provided the school committee with ample time to express any concerns regarding Karen's performance. Despite the central administration's positive recommendation for tenure, the school committee voted unanimously not to grant tenure to Karen in her position as assistant principal.

Our concern is that despite an organized and stated process, its effectiveness was denied by the action of the committee. The fact that Mrs. Baker was not made aware of a problem in her performance for the duration of her three years of employment is troublesome. The integrity and reliability of the process appears to have failed.

More effective communication should have taken place in order to have corrected problems and salvaged Karen Baker's reputation and personal feelings. This action not only has damaged Mrs. Baker personally, but also seriously weakened the credibility of the system's leadership. We respectfully request that the school committee reconsider its vote regarding the tenure of Karen Baker.

Girl Scout 75th bash

TO THE EDITOR:

The Winchester Girl Scouts would like to thank the many people in the community who helped make our 75th Anniversary Girl Scout Week a memorable one. In particular we would like to thank Selectman Judith Muggia, and the entire Board of Selectmen, who presented us with a congratulatory plaque. Selectman Muggia came to Winchester Common on a very cold March afternoon to present the plaque and accept our gift of service to the community, and we very much appreciate her graciousness.

We would also like to thank the Auxiliary Fire Department, who provided the sound system and power for our Kick-off Balloon Launch and our Promise Circle on the Common.

Ruane Warford of the Beehive of Knots organized the Window Decorating Contest for us, and we would like to thank her and the local businesses who offered us their win-

Schmitt worker

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to publicly thank the core committee who worked with Tom Schmitt and me during the race for selectmen as well as the intrepid voters who did not let the miserable day keep them from the polls.

The candidate and I get our names known, but the real credit goes to those tireless workers who for many weeks do all the numerous tasks which anyone who has worked on a campaign is aware of. To the following, I give my heartfelt thanks for not only doing a superb job, but for making it a growing, rewarding experience: Bruce Brown, Gez Ebbert, Marge Estridge, Pat Gilpatrick, Karen Holt, Sally Kincaid, Cynthia Krumme, Alice Madio, David Mortensen, Marianne O'Brien, Kevin O'Malley, Maureen Raymond, and Connie Skahan. In addition their families, Tom's, and mine were all part of our team, and deserve a public thank-you.

Saltmarsh a winner in Winchester Town's representative knows his heritage

The fact that many of the industries in this area lie in Woburn but create traffic problems in Winchester, highlight the need for regional planning, he says.

"This is a good example of one town planning something within its own government and ignoring the results in a neighboring town, which frankly, does not receive the revenue but gets all the headaches," Saltmarsh says.

"Woburn gets all the revenue and these residents get all that traffic," he says.

A zoning change to facilitate condominiums in the area, proposed by developer Angelo Marotta, would benefit residents, Saltmarsh says.

"This is a change from industrial to residential and I hope the town will support it. It will be a vast improvement to the area," he says.

Many of the condominiums already in town have been additions to the community he says.

"The town gets much better income. The sites are maintained by the people who own them. It improves the town physically but it also gives people a chance to live in Winchester and have a nice home," he says.

Saltmarsh has brought more than $30 million in aid into Winchester and Stoneham (he represents two-thirds of Stoneham as a result of re-districting) during his terms of office. The project of which he is proudest, is the revitalization of downtown, says Saltmarsh.

"The revitalization of downtown Winchester has been one of the most important. If we hadn't done it we'd have a dormant downtown with many vacancies," Saltmarsh says.

Prior to revitalization, the area had a 20 percent vacancy rate, he points out. Now, the area bustles with activity.

"There is a vibrancy to Winchester's downtown which did not exist before we did this," he says.

Beyond town borders, Saltmarsh has been working to depress Boston's central artery and build a third harbor tunnel in Boston. Saltmarsh wrote the state bill which proved instrumental in getting Washington to approve the project.

The artery was designed to carry 75,000 cars per day, says Saltmarsh, and now handles more than 180,000.

"There is not another road in the country like that," he says.

Although some estimates say the $3.3 billion project will take 20 years

"Whip" Saltmarsh looks out over the town he has lived in all of his life and represented for 13 years.

to complete, Saltmarsh believes it can proceed more quickly.

"I think we can cut it down to 10 to 12 years," he says.

Although a Republican, Saltmarsh over the years has found himself supported by Democrats and at odds with members of his own party. Speaker of the House George Keverian and other Democrats have supported Saltmarsh in campaigns, he points out.

He opposed the Republican minority leader recently when he called for the house ethics committee to investigate allegations of im-

Names on buildings, parks and streets have special meaning to Saltmarsh. They trigger pride in the work that went into building them and memories of the family or friend whose name they bear.

'Whip' took up tail of ice skating chain

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

He is Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh (R-Winchester), but most people know him as "Whip."

It is fitting that Saltmarsh, an avid skier, runner, former Boston College hockey player, and all-around athlete, earned his nick-name through his early sports endeavors.

He recalls skating with a group of friends on Long Pond at age 7. The group used to form a human chain and cut sharp curves around the ice. "I was always on the end, so they called me Whip," he recalls with a laugh.

The name was particularly appropriate as his middle name is actually Whipple, Saltmarsh says.

"I was called 'Whip' long before anyone knew it," he says.

proprieties in Keverian's office.

"I got up and defended the speaker, not because he was the speaker, I felt it was wrong for the Republican party to take that position. I felt they were really on a witch hunt," says Saltmarsh.

"The party drives a wedge between itself and its own membership which we did not need, and it drives a wedge between the Republican party and the Democratic leadership," says Saltmarsh.

In his 13 years representing Winchester, Saltmarsh has rolled up a 99.6 percent roll call vote record. He was voted "Man of the Year" by the Winchester Chamber of Commerce in 1981 and "Legislator of the year" by the Massachusetts Municipal Association in 1982.

He loves the job and says he'll run again, but he is not complacent.

"I take one term at a time, I try to do what I can within a term," says Saltmarsh.

For the future, Saltmarsh is concerned with working to maintain the town's commuter rail facilities and is encouraged by the town's commitment to upgrading recreational facilities.

"The demand for commuter rail and public transportation is going to increase," he says.

"I'm glad to see the town is going to spend the money to reconstruct their athletic fields and parks," he says.

"I've enjoyed living here. It is a nice town to live in, is a good town to be brought up in."

Before you rest in peace, die in peace.

"You're going to die." Spoken softly, the words scream. They pierce. And they hurt. At first, you deny them. You get angry. You become desperate. Hopeful. Depressed. Weary. The New England Telephone fund will provide a $2,000 stipend to Brown and a $1,000 stipend to biology professor Dr. Daniel Bean for their cooperative research on the effect of water quality and altitude distribution of benthic invertebrate organisms.

In addition to the stipend, St. Michael's College will provide Brown with campus housing during the eight to 10 week project.

One of two such awards made to St. Michael's by New England Telephone, the grant provides support to research projects in which both the student and faculty member play an important role, thereby providing opportunities for the development of both.

Brown and Bean will be taking samples at six field stations, ranging in altitude from 2,100 feet to 800 feet in Stevensville Brook in Underhill.

Cefali is one of 12 college students from across the United States who have been chosen as regional winners and are now semifinalists in the NEA Student Teacher Competition.

Applicants were judged on the quality of their teaching skills and understanding of their subject matter.

Now in its fifth year, the NEA Student Teacher Competition focuses on rewarding and encouraging the best and brightest students entering the teaching profession. The top two student teachers in the competition will receive $2,500 each, and the two runners-up will receive $1,250 each.

Along with the other 11 semifinalists, Cefali will be flown to Washington, D.C. April 30 to give a demonstration of her lesson plans to students from Prince George's County, Maryland.

SENIOR NEWS

Appreciation to Church Women United

The luncheons for seniors sponsored by the women of the churches of the town have been highlights for seniors on the first Tuesday of the month of October, November, February, March, April and one more is still to come at Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church May 5.

To make reservations for the last luncheon of the season, please contact Sally Templeton, 729-4809, or Priscilla Morse, 729-5991, between April 27 and May 2.

The Church Women United provides many services for Winchester residents, not the least of which is offering warm hospitality at the luncheons served by women from the churches.

Where the halls have not accommodated a large number of people, women from two churches have worked together in preparing the meal, which is then served in the larger area.

Although cooking and serving the meals is a chore for the ladies involved, the sociability and the nutritious meals are a fulfillment of some of the purposes established by Church Women United.

Other areas of concentration are the Meditation Room at the Winchester Hospital, Ecumenical Development, Meals on Wheels, and Share-a-Meal during holiday observances.

The Council on Aging members, the Winchester Seniors Association Executive Board, and the large number of seniors who have been feted at luncheons extend their gratitude to a philanthropic, thoughtful and generous group of women. A sincere "Thank you" is extended by seniors to Marjorie Berger, outgoing president after two years of leadership, and her untiring board, and a warm welcome is given to Carole Beals and the new slate for 1987-1988.

Medications workshop

The second Medications workshop is scheduled for April 16 at the Keep Well Clinic.

The pharmacist of the Winchester Hospital will be at the Clinic 9 to 11:30 a.m. to review with seniors the medicines they may be taking, their possible side effects, time and food intake indications, and any possible reaction and interaction.

The Jenks Senior Center Health Committee has arranged for this special service so bring all medicines in the original bottles.

Call the Jenks Senior Center Receptionist (721-7136) for an appointment.

Trip to King Philip Ballroom in Wrentham

A day trip to King Philip Ballroom in Wrentham is scheduled for May 20, but Randy Kazanian who is in charge of the arrangements must notify the King Philip Ballroom of the number in the Winchester group by May 4.

There are approximately eight openings remaining.

Contact the Jenks Senior Receptionist (721-7136) to make a reservation.

More drivers urgently needed

With the approach of warmer weather and some resident drivers departing for summer homes, it is important to add people to the transportation program to enable it to continue without gaps.

This service is sponsored by the Winchester Council on Aging and has increased significantly since its inception.

sun-blocking agents labeled SPF-15. The letters signify "Sun-Protective-Factor."

With this type of sunblock, you can remain in the sun about 20 minutes before you begin to burn.

With beach weather on the way and people basking under the sun's hot rays, Dr. Capek advised applying sunscreens 45 minutes before exposure and reapplications frequently, at least every hour.

Remember there is reflected sunlight from snow or sand. Wear clothes with tighter weaves, wear a broad-brimmed hat, long sleeved shirt or blouse, and long pants during the peak hours.

The audience was advised to use moisture creams daily in any weather as a protection against dryness and the development of lesions.

This lecture sponsored by the Health Committee, chaired by Dr. Robert Moors Smith, is one of a series of presentations designed to inform seniors about how they can maintain good health.

Ways and Means committee meeting

Angelo Giannetti, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Winchester Seniors Association, is calling the second meeting of the committee Thursday, April 16, as a pre-planning session for fund-raising activities, including the annual Fall Fiesta Fair on October 7 and 8.

With the increased costs of operating a greatly expanded center, this committee has accepted some extremely important responsibilities in providing for financial obligations.

State tenure law insufficient for needs as schools pursue excellence, says board excellent. Sometimes two and a half years is not enough time to develop that certainty."

The committee gave no other reason for its action.

Good Buys In The Classifieds

Committee member Edward O'Connell said a teacher or administrator denied tenure is not necessarily incompetent, but just may not have enough to tip the scales towards tenure.

Jervey indicated that communication between the committee and Superintendent of Schools Charles Mitsakos may have been lacking. "The superintendent has worked to improve the management process, including communication, evaluations and reviews. In support of those objectives, we will make a commitment to participate more effectively in that communication process."

"Two and a half years is an almost impossible time (to decide a tenure issue). School committees are under pressure to make the right decision," committee member Michael Ronayne said. "It is almost impossible to remove a tenured person."

Making the process fairer, according to Ronayne, would mean changing the state-mandated tenure procedure.

Jervey motioned that the committee write a letter to state representatives and senators in the education committees to express the need for change.

"If we have a law we're not comfortable with, we have a responsibility to say something," Jervey said. Ronayne agreed to write the statement, but said he doesn't believe it will have any impact. "It will do absolutely no good. There's no way the system is going to be changed."

engineer on this article. Article nine: Postponed indefinitely.

Article 10: To raise and appropriate funds for engineering, design specifications, and bid documents for the renovation of the Lincoln School site.

Article 11: To vote to raise and appropriate funds for an engineering study of the Ambrose School site, in relation to safety and traffic problems with a driveway there.

Article 12: To see if the town will vote to abandon and or discontinue as a public right of way and to transfer rights in a portion of Forest Street described in the article.

Article 13: This article would amend the zoning bylaws to rezone property off of Cross Street to facilitate a condominium development proposed by Angelo Marotta.

Article 14: This article would grant an easement to Marotta to allow construction of the same development.

The board of selectmen delayed making a decision on articles 13 and 14 pending a report from the planning board.

Article 15: To vote to amend the zoning bylaw by rezoning a portion of land off Cross Street and Conant road, partly on River Street from a General Resident District to a Multi Family District A. The exact boundaries of the land are listed in the article.

Article 16: To release covenants pertaining to land mentioned in the previous article.

Selectmen are waiting to see details of a linkage agreement with the developer and a report from the planning board before voting on the article.

Article 17: To amend zoning bylaws with respect to illumination of parking lots.

Article 18: An article concerning the dimensional requirements of "cul de sacs."

Article 19: This article would increase the density requirements of a multiple family residential district A to 5500 square feet of lot area per dwelling unit.

Selectmen noted that this article may be postponed indefinitely.

Article 20: To extend the life of the special study committee on low to moderate income housing until fall 1987 town meeting.

Article 21: An article to accept Belknap Terrace as a public right of way. A public hearing has been held and selectmen support this article.

Article 22: A "standard article" to hear and act upon reports of town committees. It is under this article that a committee to organize a celebration for the 350th anniversary of the founding of the town may be formed.

Article 23: A "standard" article whereby the finance committee agrees to stay within the limits of Proposition 2½.

Article 24: To authorize the board of assessors to take money from available funds to reduce the tax levy for the current fiscal term.

Two articles on the special town meeting warrant are:

Article one: To fund the contract between the Winchester Police Association and the town.

Article two: To add money to the fund for supplemental insurance.

Lacrosse team loses first game of year

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

The Winchester High School lacrosse team lost its first game of the season Tuesday to Concord Carlisle, 13-8, after taking complete control of Needham last Friday for a 9-4 win to give the team a 2-1 record so far this spring.

Concord/Carlisle was the clearly dominant team in the first half of Tuesday's game. After scoring the first goal of the game, Concord/Carlisle allowed the Sachems to tie things up at one all before going on a five goal run.

By halftime the Sachems were down 10-4 and, despite a good effort, could not make a comeback in the second half.

"We couldn't stay with them in the first half," Winchester coach Gene Bouley said. "We were getting beat with the man-to-man defense."

The Sachems switched to a zone defense in the second half and were more successful at controlling Concord/Carlisle. The Sachems scored the first four goals of the second half to make the score 10-8, but Concord/Carlisle then scored three times to seal the victory.

Mike Murray led the Sachems with four goals and Rob McDonough added two more for the Sachems. Also scoring goals for Winchester were Kent McCord and John Ward. Winchester had a much easier time with Needham last Friday. The Sachems never fell behind in what was the best of their first three games this spring.

George Nowell scored the first two goals of the game on Murray assists to put the Sachems ahead of Needham for the rest of the afternoon.

The Sachem defense had an excellent first half while Louie Frate, who is playing his first season as a goalie, allowed only one Needham shot to get by him.

With a 4-1 lead behind them, the Sachems came back from the first half to put Needham further out of reach. Winchester's defense stayed strong and the offense scored four more goals to finish the third period with an 8-2 lead.

Needham made a better showing in the fourth quarter, outscoring the Sachems 2-1, but could still not come near Winchester's lead.

Nowell ended up with three goals for the afternoon and Murray had two goals to add to his two assists. Also scoring for the Sachems were Ward and Rob Arcardi with a goal and two assists each and McCord and Billy Coppins with a goal each.

Winchester was scheduled to play at Burlington last Thursday but the game was postponed due to weather. The Sachems are scheduled to play Newton North at 3:30 this afternoon at Skillings Road Field.

Picture looks bright for the softball team

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

After three games last year, the Winchester High School softball team looked like it might have been a powerful Middlesex League team.

The Sachemettes lost their opener in a close contest, but came back to score 45 runs their next two games to prove the could put a lot of runs on the scoreboard.

Soon after that, however, they slowly fell toward the bottom of the league, only winning four of their next 17 games.

This year could be different, however, and coach Linda Silvestri is very optimistic the Sachemettes will be more successful.

"They're looking good. I feel positive about our team doing well this season," said Silvestri, who will coach varsity softball for her first season after coaching junior varsity at Winchester High School for four years.

They team may not go straight to the top of the league, but Silvestri hopes it will stay at around .500 for most of the season.

The Sachemettes did not lose to many players to graduation. Several of last year's top players will be on the field again this spring, including pitcher Heidi MacDonald and this year's captains Allysa Park and Robyn Rodgers.

Last year the Sachemettes had some problems on defense, but Silvestri thinks that "will be improving."

"They're ready. I think we have great infield, the outfield may be a problem, but I feel that we'll be strong," Silvestri said.

Silvestri said she thinks the pitching and hitting will also be good this year and that the team will be well rounded.

The Sachemettes had their season opener against Belmont postponed due to rain last Monday. The game had originally been scheduled May 1 and will be made up at a later date.

Winchester was scheduled to play Wakefield yesterday before taking on Melrose at 10 a.m. Monday at Girardin Field.

Sachemettes runners lose opening meet

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

The Winchester High School girls track team lost a close match to Wakefield Tuesday to open up its spring season.

The scoring went back and forth throughout the match with Winchester leading before the relays. The Sachemettes had to win only one of two relays to secure a victory, but Wakefield came through for the win.

Michelle Sweeney (50.6) and Shalagh Murdock (52.9) took first and second in the 330 hurdles for Winchester to open up the meet. Debbie Nowell placed second in the mile with a time of 5:54.7 and Mary Simpson placed third at 6:06.4 for Winchester.

Terri Donaghey placed second in the Javelin with a throw of 75'-11". Sweeney (14'-3") and Denise Chabot (13'-13") took first and second in the long jump. Debbie Skahan (29'-3") took third in the triple jump. Cindy Whitehead placed first in the high jump at 4'-7".

Sachemette Katie Dagget placed second in the discus with a throw of 70'-11". Whitehead (27'-6") and Lisa Sweeney (26'-9") took second and third place in the shot put.

Winchester placed first and second in the 100 meter dash with Michelle Sweeney's and Murdock's times of 16.4 and 18.8 seconds.

In the 100 yard dash, Melissa Skehan (12.8) and Kelly Meehan (13.2) took first and third for Winchester. In the 800, Kate O'Neill placed second for the Sachemettes with a time of 2:33.9. Alexis Wiedwald took third for Winchester with a time of 29.8 seconds.

Laura Rutherford's time of 1:04.1 won the 440 for Winchester and Chabot won the 2-mile with a time of 12:38.4.

A new Weil-McLain high-efficiency boiler will save fuel. It operates at over 80% efficiency! That means you could reduce your annual fuel usage by 20%, 30% or even more.

Call us today! Find out how much a new high-efficiency boiler from Weil-McLain, America's leading manufacturer of quality cast iron boilers, could save you.

"We do all the basics drycleaners do, we just do them better."

For more than 38 years Faulkner's Cleaning has served the cleaning needs of Winchester residents and has built up a reputation for quality workmanship that has made them a trusted name in drycleaning and has made many Winchester residents lifelong customers.

Faulkner's not only drycleans all the usual items including pants suits, dresses, and coats, and cleans and presses shirts, but they also go one step further — Faulkner's inspects every article of clothing and replaces buttons or sews seams at no charge.

"We do all the basics that other drycleaners do, we just do them better," explains owner/proprietor Francis Hardy.

As far as service is concerned Faulkner's Cleaning offers something we tend to associate with past decades — door to door service. At no extra charge Faulkner's will pick up and deliver your drycleaning to your home.

Every Tuesday and Thursday their truck goes through Winchester for convenient door to door service. There is no extra charge for this convenience and customers can arrange for free pick-up and delivery by calling Faulkner's Cleaning at 665-6300.

In addition to cleaning all the usual items, Faulkner's also cleans various household items including slipcovers, draperies, and bedspreads. They are also experts at cleaning both suede and leather garments.

And, if you don't have the space around your home or apartment to store seasonal garb, Faulkner's offers storage for anything from furs to wools. Box storage is available in which you receive a large box to store your clothes which are cleaned and pressed just prior to pickup, and ready to wear when you retrieve them by calling Faulkner's Cleaning several days in advance.

For quality workmanship and the customer satisfaction which has been the trademark of Faulkner's for more than 38 years, or for convenient door to door service at no extra charge, come into Faulkner's at 437 Franklin St., Melrose, or just pick up the phone and call them at 665-6300.

Faulkner's Cleaning is open Monday through Friday, 7-5, Saturdays, 8-5.

350th birthday in party planning

 The upcoming town meeting is "broad enough" to allow for the formation of the new town committee. This article would also allow for funding of the committee, he said.

That makes us feel legal, to say the least," Santos said of the board's decision.

Funding of the celebration will become more of an issue next year, although the committee may need some appropriation at this year's special town meeting.

"At the town meeting you would definitely need some seed money," Lombardi said. He said the group should be direct about seeking funds for the celebration.

To appropriate funds for the celebration at upcoming special town meeting, a citizen must have a special motion accepted from the floor by the moderator.

Members of the board of selectmen will meet with citizens at a later date to nominate and appoint members to the 350th anniversary celebration committee.

In other actions:

The board approved Boston Edison petitions for conduits on Edwards Drive and Hutchinsons Road.

The board interviewed Jerome P. Fitzer for a position on the yet to be formed Playground/Playfield committee.

The board approved a request for the use of Skillings Field for Joseph DiSarcina to conduct a baseball instructional school, July 27 - Aug. 7.

The board also agreed to investigate methods of charging for such field uses.

The board also agreed to make downtown parking a docket item at an upcoming meeting to prepare for the planning board parking study, expected to be completed soon.

Town manager W. Chadwick Maurer told the board that the firm which painted parking lines and crosswalks in the downtown had issued a one year guarantee and would visit to look over the lines with the DPW director soon. The lines, painted in the fall, are starting to fade already, Maurer reported at a previous meeting.

tee in 1946 and again in 1979. In 1970 the water and sewer committee roster contained his name.

Chefalo says he never took any money during a political campaign. He does not believe in it.

He was Winchester's first Italian-American selectman. "I never gave it (running for office) a thought," Chefalo said. "I thought I had about as much chance back then of becoming a selectman as I do now of becoming president."

Today Chefalo is on the town hall rebuilding committee and the finance committee. He keeps thick binders containing the committees' work notes at hand.

Chefalo has been retired for 10 years, but it hasn't slowed him down.

Three times a week he golfs at the Winchester Country Club where he has been a member for 40 years. He and his wife Betty spend their weekends in North Conway, N.H.

Chefalo is a licensed plumber who practiced his trade for 47 years. "There are very few older houses that I haven't been in, in this town," Chefalo said.

Chefalo remembers when the Main Street Purity Supreme was a lumber yard and the Texaco Station

'It was a lot easier to be a selectman then (1946) than it is today. The town used to run its own affairs, but now it has to answer to the state and federal governments.'

Harry Chefalo

Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year: Harry Chefalo.

coln School building.

Chefalo and his wife raised their two daughters, Marilyn Preston and Alice Perkins, in Winchester. Both chose to stay in town. Chefalo also has four grandchildren and one great grandson. He's very proud of his family.

Chefalo won the Rotarian of the Year award twice, in 1973 and again in 1986. He is the only member to have done so.

Town, MDC agree to guard reservoir watershed land more actively in the areas of resource planning, management and protection and visitor services in the coming months, Van Wart said.

O'Malley agreed that the MDC will become a stronger "management presence" in the land around the reservoirs which will encourage use of the property but also protect and preserve it in the long run.

Soppor asked those present to address the problem now as well as in a long range plan.

"We just cannot sit back and take five years and say, 'let's work on the master plan,'" Soppor said.

Those in attendance agreed that the South Border Road parking lots are the center of much of the litter and contamination threat to the area.

Saltmarsh and O'Malley agreed to have the MDC limit access to the two parking lots which have direct access to the water.

This, said O'Malley, will be done by erecting a gate to the lots which will be closed in the evening.

If a gate cannot be erected quickly, the area will be closed off temporarily with boulders, she said.

"The most important thing is to get the plan implemented and get the money to do this. This is not going to happen overnight but I think we all feel the sooner (it happens) the better," Saltmarsh said of the plan.

Saltmarsh also said he has worked to get an extra $60,000 into the MDC budget to fund increased summer patrols in the area and will continue to push for extra patrols.

Town Engineer John Garcia, suggested that a network of trails which have a view of the water but do not touch the water's edge be developed. This, he said, would allow visitors to enjoy the area and the view without affording the opportunity to pollute the water supply.

Also present at the meeting were: town manager W. Chadwick Maurer, DPW Director Domenic Serratore, Debora Hoffman from Sen. Richard Kraus' office, selectman Thomas Schmitt, and Ed Grant, operations manager of Winchester Water and Sewer Department.

$192K question faces school, finance talks

Mitsakos listed several possible budget cuts including cutting the athletics budget by $30,000, cancelling plans for a second full-day kindergarten class, postponing the hiring a supervisor for the custodial staff, delaying hiring more guidance counselors, and reducing the elementary school adjustment counselor staff.

"This is a problem that will only get worse next year," school committee chairman William Jervy said. "The possibilities for revenue growth are not very great."

"Do we want to fight with other interest groups on the floor of town meeting?" Jervy asked. "Everybody's got the same problem."

The committee called an executive session to discuss strategies for handling the budget. It hopes to resolve the issue at its next meeting, April 28.

Finance committee members Anna Frattaroli and Larry Ladd said their group did not approve of the contract settlement agreed to by the school committee and the custodial staff. Nor were they happy with the principal's contracts, they said.

The finance committee makes budget recommendations to town meeting. Ladd said he was concerned that town revenues are not keeping up with inflation while the contracts exceed the inflation rate.

Jervy was scheduled to meet with the finance committee Wednesday night to try to resolve the problems.

Town fares well after rain, snow

We lucked out.

Seventy-five percent of the winter's snow fell in January. Snow accumulation after the 10-inch downfall of Jan. 30-31 was minimal, he says.

The first storm hit on Nov. 11, followed by a second storm on Nov. 19. Winchester still saw some wet snow this week, but the last storm large enough to need DPW attention occurred on March 2 and 3.

Serratore says he, for one, is ready to say goodbye to the rough winter. "I'm going to put my snow blower away," he said.

Schools held up through storms

By SUE SHOR

School committee chairman William Jervy told Winchester High School students attendance was up in the school, but declined to discuss with them specific reasons for Karen Baker's tenure denial.

In other business Tuesday night, superintendent of schools Charles Mitsakos said the school buildings held up well in the face of last week's storm.

The Lynch School and McCall Junior High School experienced some leaking but there was no significant damage, Mitsakos said.

Mitsakos outlined designated smoking areas in the schools. High school students have an outdoor area for smoking. The faculty can smoke in the dining rooms at WHS and McCall Junior High any time except during lunch. In the elementary schools teachers are allowed to smoke in their lounges except during lunch hours. The Ambrose School has banned smoking from the building.

The school department will cooperate with the state by appointing assistant registrars to get eligible students to register to vote, Mitsakos said in his report.

He commended the high school's math club. "We are as proud of them as we are of our athletic teams," Mitsakos said.

The club was named middle size high school math team state champion.

Instructional specialist Maura Albert was praised for guiding her fifth grade problem solving team to a spot at the State Bowl Competition. There they will propose solutions to the problems of illiteracy.

The committee unanimously appointed Thomas Kilian and Stephen Powers to the Playground/Playfield Development Committee. The committee will also send one of its members to the playground development group.

Members of the finance committee addressed the committee with questions about article 6 on the town meeting warrant, negotiated wage settlements for custodians and principals.

Jervy was scheduled to meet with the finance committee last night to try to work out their differences.

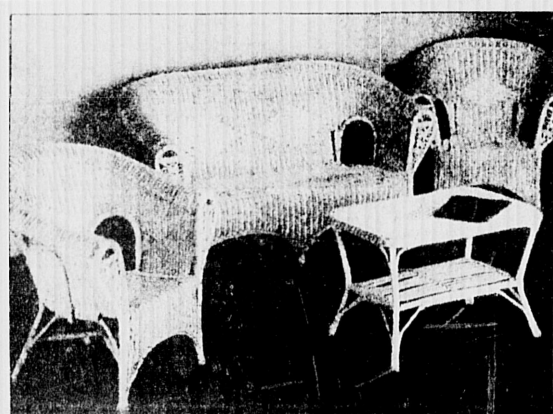

Discussion about town meeting warrant articles 10 and 11 regarding the Lincoln and Ambrose School sites was postponed until traffic studies are completed.

The committee unanimously approved the open enrollment policy for 1987-88. Last school year 19 students applied under the policy and 13 were accepted.

The committee renewed its current rubbish removal contract for another year and awarded contracts for custodial supplies and instructional and computer supplies on the basis of an open bid.

The committee entered executive session to decide whether or not to accept the smaller budget recommended by town manager W. Chadwick Maurer and the finance committee.

Doing the bunny

Boston goes bananas over Easter

Easter is coming and one of the first signs is the appearance of that winsome creature, the bunny, in store windows. Whether he's made of mouth-watering chocolate or velvet plush, the bunny is one of the most familiar Easter symbols.

Although we always associate the rabbit with Easter, he is, in fact, unrelated to the Easter story. But because he symbolizes the fertility of spring, people everywhere accept him as an important part of the Easter celebration.

If there's a bunny in your future, you'll have fun seeking him out. Boston has many premium chocolate shops full of rabbits in many shapes and sizes.

Toy stores, too, seem to have an abundance of cuddly cottontails at prices for every pocketbook.

Listed below are some of the bunny's favorite haunts. Have a Happy Easter!

White, dark, and milk chocolate bunnies are offered at Bailey's, 392 Boylston St., Boston as well as bunny lollipops for $1.25 and $2.95. A solid chocolate rabbit weighing 2 ounces costs $1.25 and $2.95; 6 ounces, $2.75; 8 ounces, $3.95; and 14 and 15 ounces, $6.75. If you want to bring home a life-size bunny, then reserve the 20 pound, 6 foot, hollow rabbit for $1.49. Wrapped in cellophane, this fellow carries a chocolate backpack filled with eggs and wears a bow around his neck. He's a Bailey's original. They also offer fancy baskets decorated with ribbons from $5.95 — $50. Each basket contains a plush or chocolate bunny. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 7:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.; Sat., 8:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m.; and Sun., noon-5:00 p.m. For more information, call 266-7373. (NOTE: Bailey's is also sponsoring a Name The Bunny Contest. To enter, visit any candy department at Bailey's. Deadline is Apr. 15. Winner receives the 6 foot rabbit.

Located at 200 State St., The Chocolate Dipper has been open about one year. They make their own chocolate and specialize in chocolate-covered fruit. However, they wouldn't forget the Easter bunny so you can pick him up in white, dark, or milk chocolate. A dark or milk rabbit costs $3.50 for 4 ounces and $5.75 for 7 ounces. White chocolate bunnies cost $5 for 6 ounces and $12 for 15 ounces. Baskets come in two sizes, medium ($12.50) and large ($16.50), and each contains at least one bunny. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10:00 a.m.-7:00 p.m., and Sun., noon-6:00 p.m. For more information, call 439-0190.

FED UP WITH HIGH HEATING BILLS?

THEN STOP FEEDING YOUR OLD BOILER!

Old, inefficient hot water and steam boilers can be a problem. They waste expensive fuel. Cost a lot to maintain. Don't deliver the comfort they should.

If this sounds like your old boiler, let us look at it. We'll inspect it free and show you what a new Weil-McLain high-efficiency boiler could do for your fuel bills. Most boilers (even ones that are relatively new) operate at around 60% efficiency, compared to 80%-plus efficiency for a new Weil-McLain boiler. With Weil-McLain, you get more heat for your energy dollar.

Fed up with your old boiler? Call us today. You'll be surprised how little it costs to get the best: a high-efficiency boiler from Weil-McLain, America's leading manufacturer of cast iron boilers for over a century.

New Stages premieres plays by Ribman and Durang

The American Repertory Theatre opens its New Stages series with two American plays—Ronald Ribman's The Cannibal Masque and Christopher Durang's Mrs. Sorkin Presents... (Ubu Lear And Other Peerless Classics) — opening this week and running through May 2 at 12 Holyoke St., Cambridge.

Ronald Ribman's The Cannibal Masque is an evening of two one-act plays, A Serpent's Egg and The Cannibal Masque. Originally written as a trilogy with his Sweet Table At The Richelieu (premiered as part of the Mainstage series this year), the plays share certain thematic patterns with the longer work. Directed by A.R.T. Resident Director, David Wheeler, A Serpent's Egg features Jeremy Geidt and Harry S. Murphy; The Cannibal Masque is performed by John Bottoms, Richard Grusin, Jane Loranger, and Ed Schloth.

Mrs. Sorkin Presents... directed by R. J. Cutler and Wesley Savick, is an evening of outrageous comedy and satire in which playwright Christopher Durang parodies the works of Shakespeare and Jarry (Ubu Lear), Tennessee Williams (Desire, Desire, Desire...), The Further Adventures Of Blanche And Stanley, and Sam Shepard (A Style Of The Eye).

A Late Night Cabaret, will be performed at 10:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings April 17 through May 2.

The two works chosen for the Cabaret are Mmes Kingdon's The Case Of The Danish Prince, in which Sherlock Holmes is brought to Elsinore to discover who killed Hamlet's father; and Richard Curtis's The Skinhead Hamlet, where Shakespeare is again shorn to the scalp.

For reservations, please call 547-8300. Performances are Wed. through Sunday evenings at 8 p.m., with the Late Night Cabaret beginning at 10:30. Tickets are $12 for Sunday, Wednesday, and Thursday, evenings, and $16 for Friday and Saturday. Cabaret tickets are $5.

Following a Benefactors' Reception, celebrants will attend the 8 p.m. opening night performance of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater.

The performance features the Boston premieres of two new works by Mr. Ailey entitled Gavarna Magica, and Witness.

At 10:30 patrons and benefactors will join with the Ailey company for a gala reception featuring music (and dancing) by the Back Bay Jazz Ensemble, Champagne, cognac, wines and a buffet will be provided through the generosity of restaurants in the Greater Boston area.

Alvin Ailey dances
at Wang Center

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, will feature three new works in its week-long engagement at The Wang Center for the Performing Arts, April 21-26.

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater expands and changes the definition of modern dance while tapping the Afro-American experience and translating it into forms of dance that have universal appeal.

The Ailey Company will perform three new pieces, all choreographed by Alvin Ailey: Caverna Magica, a full company work set to the music of Andreas Vollenweider; Witness, danced to traditional music; and Survivors, dedicated to Nelson and Winnie Mandela.

Another premiere work, Bad Blood, choreographed by former Ailey company member Glynnes Dove and set to music of Laurie Anderson, will also be performed.

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, founded in 1958 by Mr. Ailey, distinguishes itself not as a choreographer's personal instrument but rather, according to Ailey, as a repertory company aimed at providing art and entertainment, as well as institutionalizing modern dance, by presenting important works of the past and commissioning new ones.

The original company consisted of seven dancers including Mr. Ailey; today the troupe numbers 30, many of whom are products of his school, The Alvin Ailey American Dance Center.

In addition to works created by Mr. Ailey, the Company's varied repertory includes works by such noted choreographers as Hans Van Manen, Talley Beatty, Bill T. Jones, Billy Wilson, Jennifer Muller and Artie Zane.

Tickets are $28.50, $25.50, $20.50, and $15.50, and are on sale at The Wang Center box office and at all Ticket Master outlets. To order by phone, call Ticket Master at 1-800-682-8080.

What About Art? By Meredith Fife Day

Color and light energize the still life in Joseph Ablow's oil, Studio Table III — Amherst Series. Ablow's works are on exhibit at the Fitchburg Art Museum.

Take a look at Fitchburg!

The Fitchburg Art Museum is housed in an ivy-covered brick estate barn built in the 1880s. A fine and noble barn it is, renovated in French Provincial style and transformed in 1925 into an exhibition and cultural center for the region through the vision and generosity of Fitchburg native Eleanor Norcross and help from area residents.

The need for eventual expansion beyond the 10,577 square feet in the two-story barn was inevitable. Up to 90 percent of the museum's collections remain in storage at any given time and an impressive growth in activity has yielded within a ten-year period increases of 300 percent in visitors, 600 percent in donations and 800 percent in participation in education and museum-related activities.

In an expansion campaign begun in 1984 the museum purchased the entire block of its Merriam Parkway location and raised, with the aid of a National Endowment for the Humanities challenge grant, $1.7 million toward the addition of 30,000 square feet to its existing space. The project, expected to begin later this month, will allow for the installation of the permanent collection in the present building and will include a sculpture garden, video room, photography gallery, lecture hall, education gallery, and significantly, two galleries devoted to the exhibition of contemporary New England artists on a regular continuing basis.

Museum director Peter Timms emphasizes the importance of the museum's commitment to exhibiting New England artists. Timms sees the galleries specifically for the exhibition of regional artists' work as "filling a need not adequately addressed by other institutions," and points out that the museum currently has an exhibition on view representative of the direction the galleries will take.

Boston Colorists

Joseph Ablow and Jason Berger are two respected Boston artists whose work states both its content and form largely through the use of color. Their dual exhibition, through April 26, at the Fitchburg Art Museum is entitled Boston Colorists and is installed in two galleries off opposite sides of the museum's main entrance hall.

It is appropriate that the artists have their own individual spaces, for the difference in gallery lighting and the physical unification of each painter's work give viewers a sense of the particular evocative power of color on two ends of the emotional spectrum.

Ablow paints still life with a fierce concentration that gives both objects and their intervals quiet, but hardly "still," intensity.

Speaking of still life objects as "a cast of characters," Ablow says he sets up an arrangement on a table and leaves it for awhile to "watch relationships" among the various visual components. What often happens is that the objects lose their identity as forms that readily lend themselves to literal description and become players in a drama of light and color where a wedge of the sun's rays caught between two tables can heat the pictorial stage and become protagonist, making the matter of how precisely a bowl is modelled a matter of little importance.

Ablow admits his fascination with games of visual ambiguity. Alert to the "hide and seek" qualities of what is before him, he turns his picture's field into a shimmering field of color and shape, leaving no moment unenergized by predictability or encumbrance.

The color-shapes in Berger's landscapes are more contained than those of Ablow's still lifes.

With their usually unmodulated surfaces and defined boundaries, what color is against another matters a great deal and Berger's finely-tuned eye for their orchestration lends his paintings an insouciance — free, buoyant and unfettered.

These sunny landscapes do not require the presence of figures for animation. A lemon yellow Sardine factory is introduced by deep green arching palms and refuses to sit still before the dancing blue sky beyond, and it is clear that the artist has responded to what he terms "a certain vibrancy in nature."

Berger's paintings have an immediacy unlike the layered time-involved implications of Ablow's works. What the painters have in common is an awareness of how careful observation results not in generic description, but fuels a transforming experience of surprise and discovery.

The exhibition may be viewed during museum hours, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, except major holidays. Take Route 2 west past Concord to Fitchburg. The 25 Merriam Parkway location is right off Main Street, immediately past the post office parking lot. Call 345-4207.

CAR CARE CORNER

By Dan Hogan, Service Manager

Excessive tire wear is minimized if you rotate the tires on your car every 6,000 miles... It's easy to rotate the tires, if you're interested in saving the money that new tires cost... If you don't rotate the tires, certain problems may arise... Uneven tread wear on either side of a tire may indicate that the camber (tilt or angle) of the wheel is not set properly... Or the problem could be a weak spring... Wear at the center of the tread or on both sides of the tread indicates that the tire may not be inflated properly.

The technicians at PETER FULLER OLDS are ASE certified. We keep a computerized history of all cars serviced here to notify you of preventative maintenance. Open 8-5, Tel. 924-8100. M/C, Visa & A/E accepted. We are located within walking distance to public transportation. Come to PETER FULLER OLDS, Watertown Sq. "Olds National Service Award Winner."

Zoning issues, budget issues face Town Meeting

By SUE SHOR

Winchester's Town Meeting begins Monday with a 22-article warrant.

Article 1 is on the warrant every year. It calls for the meeting to hear and act on the reports of the town's officers and the Finance Committee.

The second article is also on the warrant annually. It is a vote for short-term borrowing in anticipation of revenue from the new fiscal year which begins in July.

Article 3, if passed, would allow the town to borrow money from banks and pay the interest on those loans.

Article 4 is the town budget. The finance committee recommends a budget to the town meeting which it may or may not approve.

Next, in article 5, the meeting will decide whether or not to purchase new computer equipment. The equipment will cost $170,000.

Article 6 requires the meeting to hear and act on reports from the town manager and personnel board on all personnel issues.

Article 7 calls for the meeting to decide if the town will raise money for its roads to be used in conjunction with highway funds from the county and state.

Article 9 has been postponed indefinitely.

Articles 10 and 11 both call for money to renovate schools. The Lincoln School is the subject of article 10 and the Ambrose School, 11.

Article 12 has been deferred.

Zoning bylaws are the issue in Article 13. The article calls for changing certain parcels of land in Winchester from limited light industrial or conservancy-institutional to multiple family residential zoning.

Citizens' petition put article 14 on the warrant. Angelo Marotta is asking for an easement for about eight acres of property.

Article 15 is also a zoning issue. The land in question is off Cross Street and Conant Road, partly on River Street. The warrant calls for the land to be rezoned from general residential and light industrial districts to multi-family residential.

The town will decide whether or not to release the covenants contained in an agreement with John Lane concerning property off Cross Street.

Article 17 would change the wording of section 7.13 (f) of the town charter relating to shielding lights in parking lots so residents are not disturbed.

Article 18, if passed, would lessen the frontage necessary for a building in a cul de sac.

Article 19 would raise the minimum size of a lot to build a home in a multiple family residential district A.

Article 20 calls for an extension for the Special Study Committee on Low and Moderate Income Housing until the fall 1987 town meeting.

With article 21 the town will decide whether or not to allow Belknap Terrace as a town way. The road would begin at Canal Street and extend about 477 feet south.

Article 22 is standard on the warrant. This article, which deals with committee reports and appointments, would allow the town to establish a centennial committee.

Proposition 2½ is the subject of Article 23. The town will vote whether or not to stay within the limits of the law.

Article 24 would allow the Board of Assessors to reduce the tax levy by taking money from available funds.

Sullivan's secret: just look at issues

By SUE SHOR

"I try to make sure nobody takes themselves too seriously, they just have to take the issues seriously."

That is John Sullivan's secret formula to keep order in Winchester's town meeting.

Sullivan has been town moderator for 10 years. "It's a fun job," he said. "I wanted to contribute my time and expertise to the town. It's a great place to do it."

Sullivan has a vote, but only casts it in case of a tie. His job is to remain impartial and keep the meeting running smoothly.

"There are two ways to moderate a town meeting," he says. "One is to let everybody speak ad infinitum and the other is to move the meeting toward a vote. I try to do the second."

Even though the number of people in town has been stable, the makeup of its population has shifted, says Sullivan.

"There's been an influx of new people in town," Sullivan said. "I think we have a good balance between long-time residents and new people now. It's healthy to have new ideas at town meeting."

"Town meeting basically is a conflict. Everybody has the same goal — to make the town a better place — but there are a lot of ways to do that," Sullivan says.

Zoning articles are the toughest to Town to consider $31 million budget

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Much of the upcoming town meeting will consist of distributing the town's $31 million budget, prepared by town manager W. Chadwick Maurer.

Although Maurer has made his recommendations as to how the cash should be distributed, these recommendations are subject to the ultimate fine tuning of town meeting.

At town meeting, Maurer's recommendations, and the recommendations of the finance committee will be voted on.

One area expected to be challenged is the finance committee's recommendation to trim $192,000 from the school's $12 million budget.

School committee members have indicated they may try to have that money put back into the budget at town meeting.

In his budget report, Maurer said the budget is indeed a lean one.

"In terms of Winchester programs for both municipal and educational purposes, it [the budget] is static and in some instances regressive in that we will not be able to provide everything that everyone wants," Maurer said in his report.

A few town meeting articles will be seeking funds not already allocated at town meeting.

Article five asks for the appropriation of $170,000 to purchase and Winchester to feel 2 1/2's bite: Polcari

By SUE SHOR

Winchester will feel the effects of Proposition 2½ in fiscal year 1988, finance committee chairman Gerard Polcari says.

"We are working to try to nail down the town's future goals," he said. "There are a couple of basic problems that have to be resolved."

Those problems, he says, are underfunding of the capital budget and the rising cost of the operating budget.

The capital budget consists of any money used to buy assets for the town or improve existing assets such as paving roads or renovating town hall.

"The operating budget is competing with the capital budget," Polcari said. "To keep within 2½ we have been shortchanging the capital budget."

This could hurt the town in the long run, as upkeep suffers, he says.

But if the town takes money out of the operating budget for capital projects, it will have to cut back on existing services.

The dilemma is rising operating costs. To maintain the services Winchester offers now, the town has to spend more and more money every year, but revenues are not rising at the same rate, Polcari said.

"We are living in the margins. There is not much excess fat to cut," Polcari said.

The fiscal 1988 budget has been balanced and is about $600,000 under

Town's choices: charge, cut or tax

By SUE SHOR

The Winchester Finance Committee will recommend a very lean fiscal year 1988 budget at town meeting opening Monday, according to committee chairman Gerard Polcari.

The committee's job, as Polcari sees it, is to evaluate and analyze the town budget.

"Are the requests for valid programs? Do the numbers fit our financial goals?" are two questions Polcari asks himself when making budget decisions.

Once the committee has finalized its recommendations, they are brought to town meeting. The meeting has the final vote on the budget. Meeting members have the right to reject part or all of the committee's budget.

This year, Polcari said, the job of balancing the budget was very difficult. The effects of Proposition 2½ are beginning to hit Winchester.

"It's very touchy. It's very hard to convince people we're running out of room. We can't keep giving 4 or 5 percent salary increases and only raising taxes two and a half percent and remain within the budget. It's simple mathematics."

Polcari said the town will have to start long-term planning this year.

Operational budget costs are increasing more rapidly than revenues, said Polcari. This means there is less money for capital projects like new playgrounds and road resurfacing.

"We (the finance committee) want the tax payers to begin to understand the process and problems of the budget and, we hope, come to grips with a situation that won't go away," Polcari said.

"We want to educate the tax-payers," he said. "We are just plain running out of money."

"It's an extremely difficult situation. Proposition 2½ is coming home."

Novice, vet run marathon

Man, woman conquer runner's big dream

By SUE SHOR

For a little while at least, veterans and novices run side-by-side in the Boston Marathon. This year, Winchester had runners in both categories.

Ten official runners came from Winchester: Gregory W. Barger, Saul Beaumont, Patrice Comita, Lawrence DeGeorge, Edward Doerr, William Law, Clifford P. Letty, John A. Morin, Laurie Redmond and Catherine Saltalamacchia.

Of those, Patrice Comita faced the challenge for the first time and Lawrence DeGeorge ran his 14th marathon.

Comita trained with her cousin, who ran his fifth marathon Monday. They ran six days a week.

Comita said the longest distance she had run before the race was 16 miles, but she was confident.

"I know I'm going to do it, as far as time goes I think I will do pretty good. I know I'm going to finish," Comita said.

Comita convinced her family to change their traditional Easter dinner from ham to lasagna, in preparation for the race. She increased her consumption of carbohydrates to build energy, she said.

"It's something I wanted to do," said Comita. "It's an accomplishment. It takes guts whether you finish or not."

Comita did finish, in a little more than five hours. Her family met her at the finish line. Her mother said the family was very proud.

Comita has been running for a couple of years and has run in several 10-kilometer races. "The crowd will carry you," she said. "They get you going."

While Patrice was planning to conquer her first marathon, Lawrence DeGeorge was contemplating his 14th. This was his fourth Boston run.

"Boston is the most difficult," DeGeorge said. "The hill is at the end and there are so many runners, it's hard to get into your rhythm."

Patrice Comita convinced her family to change their traditional Easter dinner from ham to lasagna.

But he said Boston has its good points, too. "New York City and Boston stand out because the people along the way are so supportive," he said. "In some races the people just watch, but in Boston they are more vocal."

He trained with William Law and his coach at the Waltham Track Club. He and Law ran long distances on weekends, including a 30-mile run from Hudson, N.H., to Winchester.

Why does he keep doing it? "I'm looking for the fountain of youth," he said. "I guess it's working because I'm 48 and I can still do it."

DeGeorge's best time to date is three hours and five minutes. He wanted to finish in under three hours this time. Unfortunately, he ran into trouble and finished in three hours and 15 minutes.

"There are a lot of hills in Boston. When you run down hills your natural reaction is to try to stop. That tenses up your quadriceps (the front thigh muscles). That's what devastates you," DeGeorge said.

"I'm not super, super happy with

Grille's business suffering 'Sparkling' basement on DEQE list

By STEPHEN R. HOWE

Dover Grille's business is suffering after being listed as a possible hazardous waste site by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE).

Even though experts and the restaurant management agree no real hazard exists, business is down.

Dover Grille, 12 Thompson St., was listed as one of 260 possible hazardous waste sites by the DEQE.

The list was published in the April 15 Boston Globe and other publications.

"We have really seen a decrease in business. After the paper came out Wednesday, Thursday business dropped off," said Jane Russell, manager of the restaurant.

The restaurant made the list because a leaking gasoline tank spilled gasoline into the basement of the restaurant on Nov. 24, 1986, according to John Creed, spokesman for the DEQE.

A pump then sent the gasoline and water into the nearby catch basin and into the river. This caused Winchester Fire Department to notify the DEQE, Creed said.

Myles Brown, public affairs officer at DEQE, said the listing does not mean the owners of the restaurant have created the problem or erred in any way.

Chaffe wins Megabucks million $$

By ROGER KAY

A 33-year resident of Winchester has hit it big in Megabucks.

Marion Chaffe won a quarter of the $4,555,460 pot April 15. She says she doesn't know what she will do with the $1,138,865 she will get over 20 years.

From her $56,943 yearly earnings, $42,707 will be left for her after state and federal taxes are withheld. She received her first check for that amount April 16.

Chaffe, whose father was a native of Winchester but was herself born in Stoneham, has been playing the state lottery ever since it opened in 1972. She says she has been buying a $1 ticket every Wednesday and every Saturday since Megabucks began in November of 1982. This is her first win.

Her lucky number was 4-7-12-13-23-25.

She picked up the winning ticket at the News Shop at 600 Main St. The shop has sold a winning ticket once before, about a year-and-a-half ago.

How does Chaffe feel about her sudden riches?

"Overwhelmed," she says, but also "very pleased."

She doesn't know what she is going to do with the money.

"I haven't even thought about it yet. I'm just going to stay as I am for the time being," she says. "I read about other people who have all these great plans, but I really don't have any. I really haven't recognized the fact that this is true yet. I haven't absorbed it."

Chaffe calls herself a "senior citizen." Her husband is deceased and she has no children. Her closest relatives are nieces and nephews.

She has received lots of calls from friends and well-wishers, but not so many that they have become a nuisance yet, she says.

Library wins 3 awards

Creativity, sophistication and hard work have won the Winchester Public Library three awards in the Massachusetts Library Association's Public Relations contest.

The library submitted entries in five different categories, winning one and receiving honorable mention in two others.

The two honorable mentions were for efforts of the Junior Library—last summer's "Dinomite Dinosaur" Reading Program, and the "Bear With Us" campaign used to acquaint Junior Library patrons with library automation.

The library's circulation policies brochure won the prize in its category, winning praise for its sophistication and low cost.

The Public Relations contest is held every year, and libraries from across the state enter. This is the first time the Winchester Public Library has entered. The awards will be presented at the Massachusetts Library Association's annual conference in Framingham on May 5.

League looks at school improvement act

The League of Women Voters of Massachusetts has focused effort this year on looking at how local communities are responding to the evaluation provisions of The School Improvement Act of 1985.

Winchester League members have interviewed a variety of educational personnel and have determined that the standards in use in Winchester exceed those set by the state.

In order to better inform the general public of the process and criteria used by the Winchester School Department, the league will be hosting a public forum at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 5 in the professional development room at the Lynch Administrative Center.

A presentation of evaluation rationale and criteria will be presented by Superintendent Charles Mitsakos, School committee Member Donna Brandt and Assistant Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald.

A short video presenting different teaching situations will be shown and critiqued by the panel and audience, followed by a discussion period. All interested citizens are invited to attend.

ABOUT TOWN

Students build city to study urban planning

Students in Issues of the '80's classes are concluding an urban studies unit - Investigating the City - in which they studied the problems of city management and urban living. As part of the unit students worked on special projects and presented their findings to the class.

Some made slide presentations about Boston neighborhoods; other built model cities.

David Carter, Rob Arcari, Dean Costantino, Jim Machnonochie, and Mike Haggerty choose to build model city. Their goal was to design a city without traffic problems for easy access and mobility; therefore, the first and most important factor of their ideal city was a comprehensive underground train system.

In addition, their model city included an airport, a prison, a business district, an industrial district, a sports stadium, a recreation center on the ocean (or lake), and a variety of housing, including low income through expensive dwelling options.

William Colella, the Issues' teacher, stated that many students in the past have built model cities for this unit but this project was the most complex and complete that he had ever received. They did a great deal of planning in class on what facilities should be included in the model and what the size and location of each should be.

They transferred their ideas into model form during shop classes, under the supervision of teacher Ron D'Addario.

Building the model took about a month-and-a-half, it was at this stage that the boys really began to understand the complexity of urban planning.

Dave Carter, Rob Arcari and Dean Costantino point out areas of interest in a tour of a model city they created for their class at Winchester High School.

Ron Arcari said "that whenever we put something in place it created another problem."

The students all agreed the designing and building of the model was a useful project. They learned a lot about the complexity, the responsibility, and the difficulty of making urban planning decisions.

League of Women Voters previews upcoming TM

Before town meeting, the Winchester League of Women Voters prepares a guide to the articles on the warrant. The following is the league's guide to the upcoming Spring town meeting.

Special town meeting

Article One: Article one asks for an appropriation of $40,000 to fund this year's contract with the Winchester Police Association.

The contract between the town and the police was not approved until December 16, after the end of last fall's town meeting.

Article Two: This article asks for an appropriation of $125,000 to fund the town's group insurance fund to cover costs incurred during the current fiscal year. Last year, instead of accepting rate increases from Blue Cross/Blue Shield for employee health insurance, the town began a limited type of self-insurance in conjunction with Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

Costs to the plan have exceeded projections, necessitating the additional appropriation, but have still been lower than if the town had accepted the increased premiums sought by Blue Cross/Blue Shield last year.

Spring town meeting

Article One: A general procedural article to hear reports from the town officers and finance committee.

Article Two and Three: These articles must be passed each year to give the town treasurer authority to borrow money in anticipation of revenue and to contract compensating balance agreements with banks.

Article Four: The town's budget will be voted on in article 4. The Town Manager has recommended a budget of $31,175,742. Because the town is close to the Proposition 2½ cap, there may be a great deal of discussion of the budget this year, with presentations from departments which say they need more money than was provided in the proposed budget.

Article Five: The town is asking for an appropriation of $170,000 to purchase a Digital Equipment Vax 8250 computer for the town. The town's current computer is used by many departments and handles such things as tax information, the town payroll, school department records, DPW billing records, etc. It is handling many functions which were not expected when it was purchased, and is no longer able to efficiently handle the load.

Article Six: This article approves wage scales for town employees, revisions in the Personnel Policy Guide, and the implementation of changes in job classifications and definitions based on the ongoing study of town management.

Article Seven: A procedural article which gives the town authority to spend Chapter 90 state highway funds.

Article Eight: This article would appropriate $20,000 for materials for a pipeline to fill the North Reservoir. Currently water flows above ground, making it vulnerable to pollution and evaporation. The DPW would perform the work.

Article Nine: This article would allow the town to assess fines for violations of local bylaws. The board of selectmen has decided to withdraw this article, study its implications further, and possibly resubmit it in the fall.

Article 10: This asks for the appropriation of $14,500 for engineering, design specification, and bid documents for the renovation of the Lincoln School site.

Article 11: This asks for $29,500 for engineering, design specification, and bid documents for the renovation of the Ambrose School site.

Article 12: Article 12 would transfer an abandoned street and a parcel of town land off Forest St. to Sam Rotondi in exchange for a unit in his proposed development which would be used for low and moderate housing. This article may be withdrawn.

Article 13: This article seeks the rezoning of about eight acres near Leonard Beach from Limited Light Industrial (IL-1.0) to Multiple Family Residential and about 1.27 acres from Conservancy-Institutional to Multiple Family Residential.

Angelo Marotta is seeking to develop this site, formerly the location of Hudson Industries, for 72 residential units.

The planning board has deferred giving final approval to the plans until the Department of Environmental Quality and Engineering and the Winchester Board of Health have responded to the developer's proposal for containing potentially dangerous waste on the site.

Article 14: This article would permit Marotta to build an access road to "Winchester Woods" to avoid creating a traffic problem on Cross Street near the railroad underpass.

Article 15: This article seeks the rezoning of about 7.44 acres near Cross St. and Conant Road from General Residential (RG-6.5) and Light Industrial (IL-1.0) to Multi Family Residential (RA-120).

This site, formerly the location of the U.S.A. Skating Rink, has been the subject of several meetings between the developer and the planning board. They have come to a tentative agreement on 70 units for the development, to be known as "The Willows."

Article 16: This article seeks the town's permission to release part of the land that is the subject of Article 15 from a covenant entered into with a prior developer who planned a medical complex. The planning board expects to negotiate a new covenant with the current developer before town meeting acts on this article.

Article 17: This article would broaden the zoning bylaw on illumination so that it governs sites other than parking lots. It is designed to address the problem of illumination that interferes with the visibility of traffic lights and that adversely affects the vision of drivers.

Article 18: This article adds a provision to the dimensional requirements of the zoning bylaw 6.23 which would require that the minimum lot width be maintained at the front yard setback line. This article should have the effect of decreasing the number of driveways on a cul de sac, thus increasing safety and easing snow removal. This article should also result in lots with more regular shapes.

Article 19: This article seeks to change the density in Multiple Family Residential Districts (RTA-120), by changing the standard to 5500 square feet per unit rather than a range from 3000 to 4000 square feet per unit depending on the number of bedrooms. This article would effect a change in density from about 12 units per acre to about 8.

Article 20: This would extend the working life of the special study committee on low and moderate income housing until the fall of 1987 to give the committee a chance to complete its study and make a final report.

Article 21: This article would accept Belknap Terrace, which was constructed in accordance with planning board rules and regulations, as a public street. It is now a private way.

Article 22: This is a procedural article which establishes, abolishes, and appropriates money for committees.

Article 23: This is also a procedural article. It authorizes town meeting to reopen any articles already voted on if necessary to bring the town budget in line with the requirements of Proposition 2½.

Article 24: An article which specifies how much money the town may take from "Free Cash" to reduce the tax levy.

resolve, according to Sullivan. The housing in the last couple of years has been emotionally frustrating," Sullivan said. "It's very confusing."

This year he thinks the school budget will be hotly debated. The Finance Committee, whose job it is to make budget recommendations to town meeting, wants the school committee to trim the school budget by $191,000.

Winchester's 1988 budget will reflect the effects of Proposition 2½. The only way to work within 2½, according to Sullivan is continued fiscal restraint.

He says he doesn't think residents will choose to override the law, or to go outside it for any capital projects.

"Two and a half is going to have more important implications for us in the next couple of years," says Sullivan. "Winchester is unique in that regard. There is no tremendous room for growth. Increased revenues will come from the real estate tax base or not at all."

The problem awaiting the town is "we'll have to try to provide more services for less money," Sullivan says.

Maintaining the services the town offers residents is becoming more expensive every year, however the town has less money to pay for the services. "We're going to have to dig our heels in," he says.

FITNESS FIRST

Nautilus/Aerobics Center—Growing Strong

Success has come early and continually to Fitness First, a local health club, since it opened in Arlington Center three years ago. What started out as a modest sized club featuring Nautilus equipment, has now grown to be one of the largest Nautilus and Aerobics centers in New England. "The demand in this area for a high quality, well equipped, and comprehensive fitness center accounts for our continued growth," explained Larry Cronin, one of the owners. "Most of our members have shopped around looking for a club they recognize quality and value, and they love our facility when they see what we have," added Cronin.

What Fitness First does have is a clean, spacious and attractive facility spread out over a newly-renovated 10,000 sq. ft. area. While the physical plant itself is very impressive, there is something more subtle that makes Fitness First unique. It's the people that are here that make this club different. The staff is terrific, they're highly qualified and interested in the welfare of the members. And the members themselves are a nice mixture of people, half men and women, of different ages and interests.

Together both staff and members blend to create a relaxed, friendly atmosphere where everyone can feel comfortable," stated the owner. "We also constantly try to improve the quality of our programs," mentioned the owner. "We have carefully chosen and trained our Nautilus Staff, have recently renovated the facility, and added more equipment."

This would be in addition to the most complete equipment line-up in the area including 34 Nautilus machines, Women's Nautilus, Physical Therapy Clinic, and a beautiful 1200 sq. ft. Dance Studio with 46 Aerobics classes per week—all free to members. One special point of pride for Fitness First is the Aerobics Staff, a group of 12 highly-skilled professionals chosen from over 100 applicants. "As a group, they're the best Aerobics instructors we've ever seen," stated the owner proudly.

These reasons may explain why Fitness First has become the most popular athletic club in the area. "We have become truly a regional facility with most of our members from a 7 town area around Arlington," stated Mr. Cronin.

Several hundred satisfied customers attest to the continued local support of Fitness First.

Dentist uses implants to help toothless patients

By ELIZABETH AARON

Winchester dentist Steven Richter is helping toothless people eat better and with greater ease.

Richter, an oral and maxillofacial surgeon, has been practicing in Winchester since 1978. He is qualified to practice implantology — a form of surgery which gives toothless patients and denture wearers a chance to have teeth again with fixed prostheses.

This type of surgery, according to the American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons, specializes in mouth, teeth, jaw, and facial-structure disorders. He cares for people with wisdom tooth problems, facial pain, denture problems, facial injury, children born with poorly shaped jaws, and cancer patients.

"Implantology is a two-stage surgical operation," Richter said. He explained that in the first stage, small peg-like structures of titanium metal are imbedded upright into the jaw bone.

Bone grows around it during a period of 3-6 months, making the pegs adhere permanently. After the healing of bone, bridges are hitched to the pegs, and consequently prostheses, similar to permanent teeth, are hitched to the bridges. The care required is little more than that of permanent teeth, he says.

"Implantology has a 96 percent success rate," Richter said. "It's a boom to dentistry," because it treats dental patients who cannot wear dentures, he added.

One of Richter's patients, Ida Donadio, did not wear dentures because her jaw bone was deteriorating. She has had the implant operation recently and says, "It's no problem. I have great confidence."

Donadio said she is looking forward to a terrific outcome and improvement.

The prosthetic teeth are made of plastic or porcelain, Richter said. "It's a fixed bridge and there's no plastic all over [like dentures]. It's giving people back their own teeth," he said.

Implantology can also replace a small group of missing teeth, a single tooth, or facial parts following an accident.

He said it is a breakthrough with trauma victims. A metal framework can be implanted surgically so bone can grow, allowing cancer and burn patients to have facial features restored.

Richter said even an eye can be replaced with implantology.

It's better for head healing because there's more blood flow," he said.

John Hourihan, another patient of Richter's, had his back bottom teeth replaced. "I've got one side completed. So far it's fine," he said.

Richter said the idea for implantology has been around for 30 or 40 years, but is only in the past 20 years that a new method was introduced into the dental field by Professor Branemark of Sweden.

Branemark was doing research on long bones. He put titanium metal cylinders into the bones of animals to see how the bone healed. He discovered that bone was growing and attaching itself to the metal.

"He looked at what field this applied to," Richter said. It was the dental field where patients could have a manufactured fixture implanted in the jaw. Eventually bone would grow around the fixture to stay permanently.

Richter said there are three kinds of titanium fixtures made now, and he is qualified to use them all. This allows him to help a wider range of patients.

Richter said advantages to implantology are its affordability, high success rate, and easy care compared with other forms of tooth replacement.

Some disadvantages are that anyone in radiation therapy cannot have it done because of low blood supply to the jaw, nor can uncontrolled diabetics. He also said the surgery cannot be performed when infection is a risk.

The surgical procedure is performed in the doctor's office with the patient under local anesthesia or sedation.

Minimal post-operative care is necessary. After two to three weeks denture wearers can wear their false teeth before bridges are implanted, he said.

"The success rate is so high that it will become commonplace instead of experimental," he said. In California and even New York it is very popular, but it is still relatively new to this area, he said.

Richter, originally from New York City, received his Bachelor of Science degree at Marietta College in Ohio, studied dentistry at St. Louis University, and studied surgery at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine at Yeshiva University. He is board-certified and an assistant clinical professor at Tufts Dental School.

He became certified to practice implantology after attending a workshop on osseointegration, the process of implantology, at UCLA. He has also appeared twice on "Evening Magazine."

Richter said he prefers this kind of surgery over other, more traditional, operations.

"This is more constructive as opposed to destructive like the simple removal of teeth. It's a special interest of mine," he said.

It is important to go to oral and maxillofacial surgeons for this procedure because implantology should be done only by trained surgeons, said Richter.

Steven Richter, DDS, in his Winchester office. Richter is one of the few dentists in the area practicing implantology.

ABOUT TOWN

German students visit homes, schools in town

Every two years German teenagers and their teachers from Bremen, Germany visit Winchester High School students and learn about American studies and American ways of life.

During April 17 teenagers from Bremen visited Winchester students and stayed in Winchester homes for three weeks.

They learned first-hand what it's like to live and study in Winchester, and what it's like to be a teenager in the United States.

Another part of their visit to Winchester was to be a tourist and learn more about American history through the sights in the greater Boston area, and to visit Winchester elementary and junior high classrooms to share information with our younger students about their lives in Germany.

Over a three-day period in April they visited 10 classrooms to tell folk tales, talk of their country and customs, and to create a curiosity and interest in their country.

After three weeks in Winchester the German students made many friends and shared their customs and culture with many people. Winchester students became more aware of the global nature of our world, and the universal similarities of youth.

This German exchange program was coordinated by Sue Austin, a German teacher at Winchester High School, Paul Mulloy, the director of the Global Studies Program and Diane Munini of the LAWW Partnership Program.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Dick Murphy
The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors

"FOR SALE" SIGNS ARE GREAT ADVERTISING

"I'd like to list my house with your company, but I don't want one of those signs in my front yard!" This is how many of our sellers feel when they first discuss listing their homes. They may not want neighbors to know they're moving, or they may be concerned about privacy, fearing that complete strangers will appear on their doorstep asking to see the house. There are, however, some strong advantages to having that For Sale sign.

First, it's a good idea to let your neighbors know you plan to move as soon as possible. They may have a friend or colleague they'd like to have on the block, and neighbors often help our listings sell quickly. In addition, most Realtors find that signs make the phones ring even more than newspaper ads, and when people do call about a sign, they already like what they see on the outside! Finally, almost all buyers will be considerate enough to contact the Realtor to see a home that interests them. Having a sign is not an absolute necessity, but after you discuss it with your agent, you'll probably agree that the advantages do outweigh the possible drawbacks.

COMMENT

THE DUKE CROWNS SEKO. GETS HEAD START ON FOREIGN POLICY.

Refrigerator art tells average age of household

by TERRY MAROTTA

On the morning of December 31, a little more than ten years ago, the average age in our family was 29.

The next morning it was 19. Somewhere in the dwindling hours of the old year, between the puffs and blowings of modern-day labor, my husband David and I were delivered of our first child, and the average age of the family dropped by a decade.

Two years after that, we had another child and it sank to 16.

And five years after that, though we parents were packing on years the way the fat lady packs on cellulite, we had yet another, and saw it settle there, at the green and meager age of sweet sixteen.

Our average family age didn't seem even that high. I remember thinking then, as I surveyed the scenes of domestic chaos just after the birth that marked the moment when the big ones were faded down and forever outnumbered by the small.

Thanks to our still-young average household age, we have in this house, at this very moment, a refrigerator whose actual surface has not been seen since Carter vs. Ford, an appliance literally shingled with the documents, artwork and papery emanations of our progeny: eight indecipherable messages done in smudged ink by our two-year-old and stuck there by the lingering kisses of Fisher Price's magnetized alphabet; a notice about the necessity for Brownies to appear in full-dress uniform; and a hand-lettered missing persons poster describing the habits and physical characteristics of Dobo the ladybug, late of this address.

We have too, by virtue of our low average age, smears and kiss-prints on all the mirrors, none of them deposited by the parents, for whom reflective surfaces no longer furnish much opportunity for self-congratulation.

Having a low average age in our household has meant carrying sticks of gum, matchbox cars and tiny snub-nosed pairs of scissors in your pocket-book at all times, just in case you're stranded together and desperate for entertainment.

It has meant being caught in a meeting of big shots, as the father of this antic brood was once, with the underpants of Baby Crawl-Away in your briefcase.

It has meant arbitrating fights about who looked at whom and in what arch and withering way for horribly chewing toast with his mouth open; fights about lost hairbrushes and found stickers; impassioned discussions over the mystery of who drew pictures of naked people in chalk on the side of the house.

Our low average age has meant crummy puns and slapstick humor; tickling fights and drooling contests; paper bags worn over the head; winter squash worn over the T-shirts.

I knew the pervading childish whimsy had really grown contagious around here when we all drove four hours one roaring hot day to combine my business with a family excursion.

We took my husband's car, then a vanilla-colored luxury model richly pushed in velvety vanilla-colored upholstery. I was discharged to see about business. David sped off to see about lunch.

When he picked me up 30 minutes later, each of the three children held in their sticky grips not one but two sweating and molten ice-cream sandwiches.

"I figured what the hell, keep 'em happy," grinned their father, leaning over to open the door for his wife. Happy they were. Happy they still are.

And in another decade, which is to say a full 20 years after we began this whole exercise, our average age will just have reached 29 again.

Then maybe we can get to work cleaning the upholstery.

BEACON HILL

The House, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on two roll calls from the week of April 13-17.

Firearms (H 2924) - House 72-70, rejected a bill tightening provisions of the state's gun laws.

Supporters said the bill is designed to impose a minimum one year mandatory jail sentence, without exception, for any person who is unlicensed and unlawfully possesses a firearm, rifle or shotgun away from his or her home or place of business. They noted the bill simply fine tunes legislation adopted several years ago.

Opponents said the bill poses a threat to law abiding citizens and could affect a veteran who carries arms in a parade. Some said mandatory sentences should only be for someone who has actually committed a crime with a weapon.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted no.

Reports - House 117-22, approved an extension giving all joint House-Senate committees an additional week to report on all matters referred to them.

Supporters said the extension from April 22 to April 29 is necessary to allow committees to finish their work.

Opponents said the committees have had adequate time and should meet the April 22 deadline.

A Yea vote is for the extension. A Nay vote is against it.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

The Senate, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on four roll calls from the week of April 13-17.

IRAs (S 1342) - Senate 18-5, rejected a bill providing that taxes on contributions to Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) and some other retirement plans be deferred under state law as they are currently deferred under federal law.

Supporters said this will help taxpayers by allowing them to contribute to these accounts and defer state taxes on the contributions until retirement age.

Opponents said the state simply cannot afford the revenue loss.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted no. Volunteers (S 1411) - Senate 23-4, refused to refer to the Senate Ways and Means Committee a bill providing for an income tax deduction for taxpayers who perform volunteer services. The measure allows deduction of 5 percent of the value of the services, up to $500, for anyone who volunteers at least 50 hours annually for various non-profit groups.

Supporters said citizens who perform these valuable services are entitled to some minor tax relief.

Opponents said supporters have not provided any cost estimates and claimed the state cannot afford revenue loss.

Supporters of the bill generally favored sending it to Ways and Means as a way to get revenue estimates and to keep the bill alive. Following this vote, the Senate defeated the measure on a voice vote.

A Yea vote is for sending the bill to Ways and Means. A Nay vote is against sending it to Ways and Means.

Kraus voted no.

Revaluations (S 1473) - Senate 22-3, refused to refer to the Senate Ways and Means Committee a bill providing that residential property be revalued at full fair market value only at the time of sale of the property. The measure provides that the property be valued at the amount for which it is sold and that annual revaluation be based on the yearly increases in the Consumer Price Index until and unless the property is sold again.

Supporters said the bill is aimed at developing a way to slow growth of property revaluation.

Opponents said the bill unfairly and randomly shifts tax increases to people who happen to be buying property and will violate guidelines of keeping property at 100 percent value.

Supporters of the bill generally favored sending it to Ways and Means to keep it alive. Following this vote, the Senate defeated the measure on a voice vote.

A Yea vote is for sending the bill to Ways and Means. A Nay vote is against sending it to Ways and Means.

Kraus voted no.

All are invited to plan 350th

TO THE EDITOR:

Next year, 1988, marks the 350th anniversary of our town. This is an occasion which will be marked by special community celebration. It will be an opportunity to honor Winchester's heritage, enjoy its present, and invest in its future.

Recently, an open meeting was held, attended primarily by Winchester organization leaders to discuss the 350th. Members of an extempore Steering Committee spoke also with the Board of Selectmen, who passed a motion to create an official 350th Committee.

Celebration of the 350th is envisioned as a year-long series of events, connected by a common theme and coordinated by the committee. Focal points of the celebration will be Town Day (June 4, 1988) and the reopening of Town Hall, to be celebrated in the fall of 1988.

All members of the community are invited to participate in the planning. An open meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 5, at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce meeting room, 25 Waterfield Place. All community members are invited to attend, to express interest in participating, and to share ideas and suggestions for events, theme, logo, and any other pertinent matters.

All organizations are encouraged to discuss possibilities for involvement among their boards and memberships and to prepare proposals for events or programs to be included in the 350th celebration schedule. Organizations are encouraged to designate a liaison (temporary or permanent) to attend the May 5 meeting, to represent their organization's interests and return progress reports to their organizations.

Anyone wishing to be involved but not able to attend the meeting is invited to contact Ellen Knight at the Recreation Dept., 458 Main Street.

Organization of the 1988 celebration will be a monumental undertaking and will be an opportunity for all local organizations, businesses, and individual residents to work together, to honor the town's diversity and talent, and foster the feeling of community. We encourage as many as want to participate to be involved.

Sincerely,
Ellen Knight,
Steering Committee for the 350th Celebration

School committee action embarrassing says reader

TO THE EDITOR:

Surely, the responsible members of the community must be embarrassed by the recent action of the school committee in refusing tenure to Karen Baker.

Comments by Mr. William Jervey published in the Winchester Star such as: "Evaluations are only a part of what goes on in the decision making process," and "Input from the school community is also taken into consideration," should be pursued and clarified.

These comments are ominous, suspicious, a denial of her expertise, and they question her integrity.

The comments suggest innuendoes, biases, rumors, gossip and parental anger are part of the "evaluation process" by members of the school committee.

Since the superintendent of schools, and the principal of Winchester High School recommended Mrs. Baker for tenure, it behooves them to challenge the school committee for usurping their administrative responsibilities, and for completely disregarding their recommendations.

Clearly, a delineation of roles appears to be in order.

They also should remind the school committee, individually and collectively, that they were not elected by the citizens of Winchester to evaluate staff, or to act as professional administrators.

If the administrators are ignored, it seems to me that they both have a decision to make about their future as educational leaders.

I hope that this unfortunate action will eventually benefit all: the community, school committee, administrators, and the tenured and non-tenured staff, so that the Winchester Public School will continue to attract talented young teachers and administrators, and continue to be recognized as a first class school system.

Parents group says thanks

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of the Parents' Association of the Belmont Day School, I would like to thank all the many area merchants, organizations, and individuals who so generously donated goods and services to the Belmont Day School Auction held on April 4.

The proceeds from this annual fundraising effort are being used to establish a Belmont Day School Faculty Endowment Fund which will directly benefit the students by supporting and promoting excellence in teaching.

It was gratifying to receive such a positive and enthusiastic endorsement of this endeavor from the local business community.

Doctor says baby M case illegal

TO THE EDITOR:

About the Baby M case in New Jersey, the general rule of modern civilization is that only an unrelated legally married woman and man, becoming a wife and husband, can engage in coitus and thus begin the process of fertilization, conception, or development of a new human being, the woman or wife contributing a gamete, or germ cell, called "ovum" or egg and the man contributing the male gamete or germ cell called spermatozoan.

"Surrogate" means substitution. In the absence of coitus, the wife's ovum can be fertilized by a male sperm by artificial insemination, the donor of such cell not necessarily the woman's husband or relative.

In the Baby M case the woman is still the real "mother" and the sperm donor the substitute or "surrogate" husband (or "father") of the conceived and gestated child M, probably a case of devious adultery, if not incest.

Proper training could save animal's life

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to comment on a recent article entitled "Biting Dog May Be Killed; Owners Plead for Mandy's Life." To anyone who knows dogs, the key to the situation leaps off the page with the dog owner's quoted remark, "The dog has always been extremely protective of my daughter, which I think is a good characteristic." Several common public misconceptions are behind this wrong and dangerous attitude.

Too many people do not take seriously the necessity to quash from puppyhood any signs of aggression in a pet. Dogs are not born vicious; they are taught, either by outright encouragement or by sensing secret approval (or occasionally even fear) behind the half-hearted discipline. The dog in question has clearly been so encouraged.

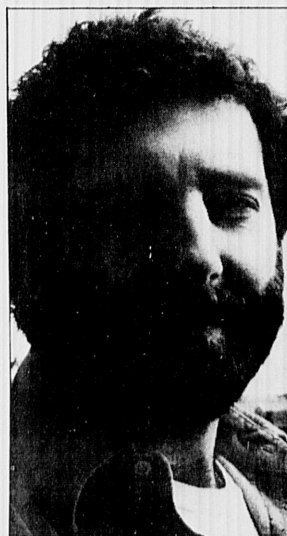

Dogs also cannot distinguish between appropriate and inappropriate occasions for attack. Even professionally-trained police dogs are considered dangerous, and only knowledgeable people are allowed to handle them. People who think they need protection should be aware that the mere presence of a large dog will deter most criminals, especially if the dog can be trained to bark on command. A well-brought-up dog with protective instincts may break his training and protect his owner in the rare, true emergency, but amateur attempts to train him beforehand to do so will only create a dangerous nuisance with no respect for human authority (his owner's included). The owner of such a dog must learn that he has only himself to blame for the resultant heartbreak, and he should change his attitude before he owns another dog.

LWV thanks participants in candidates forum

TO THE EDITOR:
The Winchester League of Women Voters would like to thank all the participants in last month's Meet the Candidates forum. The candidates who participated showed themselves to be articulate and concerned, and the questions from the audience were thoughtful and addressed most of the pressing issues facing the town.

Special thanks go to the Knights of Columbus who donated their hall as a public service, and to Continental Cable and the Winchester Star and Woburn Daily Times Chronicle for their coverage of the forum.

Almost 200 people attended Meet the Candidates, and countless others read about it or watched it on cable. The League of Women Voters is proud to be able to sponsor voter information programs such as this one. Thank you again to everyone who helped make it successful.

Lynch students tackle illiteracy

Lynch students qualify for state bowl competition

Lynch School announces that five fifth grade students who have been working together this year in the Future Problem Solving Program have qualified for the Massachusetts State Bowl Competition held May 2.

Members of the team are Dennis Phinney, Alec Duffy, Emily McDowell, Brett Rautenberg, and Mahrya Dakubu.

With the guidance of their coach, instructional specialist Maura Albert, the students had to work together as a team to come up with their best solutions to problems of the future such as water pollution, the changing family, and trash.

The complex process they must engage in involves research, brainstorming, criteria testing, and evaluating.

FROM THE BLACKBOARD

Everything must be submitted in written form.

The State Bowl topic they are now researching is illiteracy.

The Future Problem Solving Program is an international program which began in 1974 and was inspired by E. Paul Torrance, a professor of educational psychology. Torrance is an authority on creativity and gifted education.

Author visit

Bernice Myers, the author and illustrator of more than 40 books for children, visited the Lynch Library recently. She illustrated three stories composed by Lynch first and second graders during her visit. The students asked many questions about her work and about how to become an author. Mrs. Myers autographed copies of her books for the children. She donated an autographed copy of her book "Sidney Rella and the Glass Sneaker" to the Lynch Library. The Enrichment Committee of the Lynch Parents' Association sponsored Mrs. Myers' visit.

School reporters

Five sixth grade students at Ambrose School have been chosen to report on school activities for inclusion in The Winchester Star Blackboard Page.

Jeremy Huegel and Clifford Swap will cover news for the primary unit, and Liz Elliott, Katie Banks and Chris Murphy will cover events for the intermediate unit.

The students will be reporting for Ambrose School for the remainder of the school year.

Ambrose science projects

Each Tuesday April through June, Ambrose fifth and sixth grade students will be working on, observing, and completing science projects.

Before starting a project, students must submit their ideas and goals to Mrs. Whitney, the science teacher, for approval.

Ben and me

Fourth grade students at Ambrose are doing projects and studies based on the book "Ben and Me" by Robert Lawson.

This is the story of a mouse named Amos who comes to live with the famous American, Ben Franklin.

The children are making replicas of the kite Ben Franklin used, making models of Amos's room and learning old-fashioned vocabulary.

Sachems falter after solid start

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

After getting off to a good start this spring, the Winchester High School lacrosse team lost to Newton North, 9-7, April 16 and to Billerica, 5-4, Monday to build a three-game losing streak.

The Sachems lacked their usual offensive drive in their loss to Billerica. The Sachems only managed to score twice in the first half and were hurt by a penalty in the second quarter to fall behind 4-2.

With the score tied 2-2, Winchester had to play with one man less than Billerica because of a three minute penalty. In those three minutes, Billerica was able to score twice for the halftime advantage.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, but the Sachems came back in the fourth. The Sachems tied the game at 4-4 when Rob Arcardi scored with three seconds left in the game. The Sachems had three shots on goal during the overtime period, but Billerica scored first to win the game.

Also scoring for the Sachems were Bill Coppins with two goals on Mike Murray assists and George Nowell.

The Sachems seemed to have taken control of Newton North in the previous game, taking a strong lead in the first half, but the Tigers stunned Winchester with a second half comeback.

The Sachems jumped in front of Newton North on two goals by Murray and continued to build a 5-1 lead in the second quarter before the Tigers scored the final goal of the half.

The momentum swung in the second half as Newton North scored twice in the first minute of play. Newton North went on to tie the game at 5-5 with its next goal.

The two teams traded goals, with Winchester regaining the lead twice before Newton North went ahead for the rest of the game.

Also scoring for the Sachems were Scott Racek, Scott Nijssen, Emile Wolsky, Nowell, and Coppins.

The Sachems were scheduled to play at Weymouth North yesterday and will play at Brookline tomorrow.

Softball team drops season opener

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

The Winchester High School softball team got off to a bad start this spring, dropping the season opener to Wakefield, 11-6, April 15.

Wakefield took a big lead early in the game, scoring three runs in the first and two in the second, but the Sachettes came back in the last of the second in what may be the strangest rally of the spring.

The second inning lasted over three-quarters of an hour and in that time the Sachettes rallied to take the lead. Winchester scored six runs on one hit without the help of a Wakefield error.

It sounds impossible, but the Sachettes took advantage of six walks and a bases-loaded double by Robyn Rogers to go into the third with a 6-5 lead.

The Sachettes were quiet for the rest of the game as they managed only four hits after the second inning comeback.

Wakefield added two more runs in the sixth inning to seal the victory.

Winchester's game against Melrose last Monday was postponed due to rain.

Former resident and Winchester High assistant hockey coach Jim McElholm, shown here with two members of his championship Auburn High team, McElholm was recently inducted into the Mass. State Hockey Coaches Hall of Fame.

Former Winchester coach makes hockey Hall of Fame

Jim McElholm, former Winchester resident and high school hockey assistant coach, is now a member of the Massachusetts State Hockey Coaches' Hall of Fame.

McElholm was one of two members of the Massachusetts State Hockey Coaches' Association so honored at the 15th Annual Hall of Fame Dinner held at the Blades & Boards Club at Boston Garden March 10.

A native of Winchester, McElholm grew up at 22 Nathaniel Road and learned to play on the ponds in town. He says that two men in the neighborhood, Bill Cruwys and Jim Flynn, encouraged him and his friends to play.

"Sunday mornings we would get up at 1 a.m. to go all the way to Lynn Arena," says McElholm of the dedication of his early mentors.

He mentions the former Winchester High School athletic director, Henry Knowlton, now deceased, as an important early influence.

McElholm played varsity hockey and baseball at Winchester High School in the late '50s and graduated in 1957.

He also attributes much of his hockey enthusiasm to former Winchester hockey coach Frank Finegan, who was himself inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1975.

"He provided me with my first opportunity to coach at the high school level. I functioned as an assistant coach (at WHS) under his direction (1962-63), and it was such an exciting experience that I decided to pursue a teaching/coaching career," says McElholm.

At the time, he was studying business and playing hockey at Northeastern. He took a one-year masters program at Boston University that qualified him to teach and then became head coach at Brockton High School.

He liked the "feeling of being a counselor, guidance person to these young people, seeing them achieve, and passing on my values to them."

"The sense of dedication, perseverance, and hard work that leads to success," says McElholm. "And the sense of comradery, the deep sense of dependence on each other. Those two values have always stuck with me."

After Brockton, he became head coach at high schools in Natick and Auburn, where he taught until 1976.

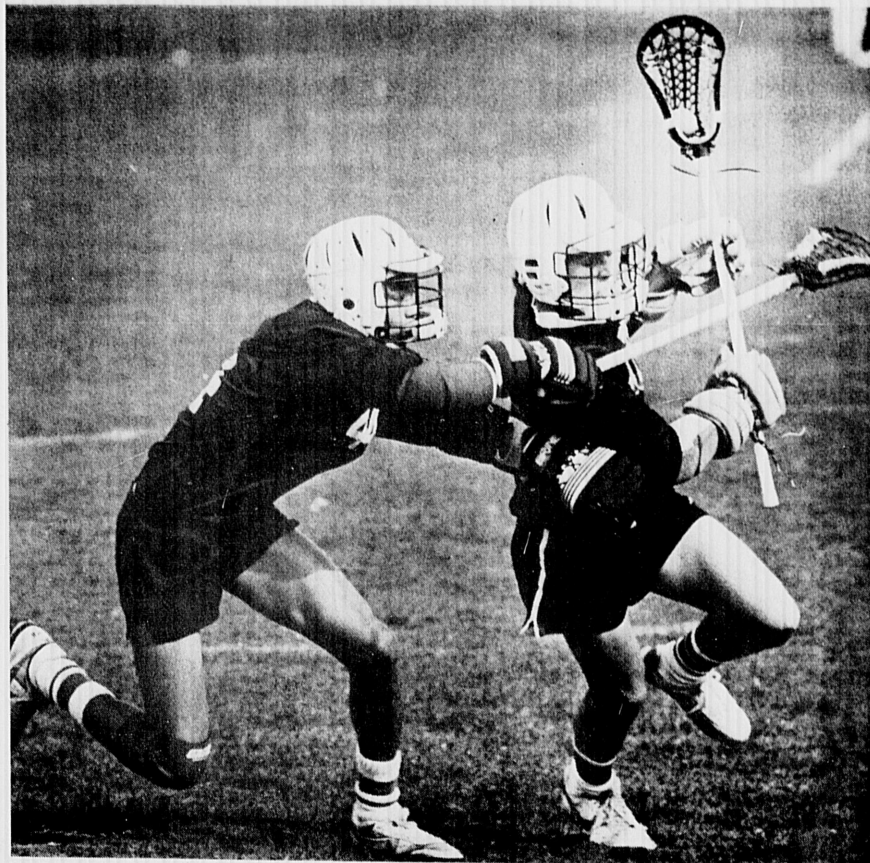

Between 1974-76 he was the president of the Massachusetts State Coaches' Association, which represents all sports in all regions.

He was also the Massachusetts representative to the National Convention of State Coaches' Association.

Since his retirement from coaching and teaching in 1976, McElholm has been running his own photography business in Oxford.

His daughters Lynn, 11, and Kim, 9 have taken up figure skating. Peter, 5, is a member of a "Squirt" hockey team.

Says McElholm of his involvement with his son and other youngsters: "Now I'm back on the ice helping with these little guys. They spend more time on their seats than their skates, but there's nothing more pleasant than being a surrogate parent, if you can use the word, and giving these kids an opportunity to have fun."

Wakefield spoils opener

By BRENDAN FARRINGTON

The Winchester High School baseball team fell behind early and was shut down by fine pitching to lose its season opener, 6-1, to Wakefield April 15.

Al Nasson, the Sachems' starting pitcher, had problems with Wakefield batters, allowing five runs in the first third of an inning.

Nasson gave up a single to the first batter he faced. The runner advanced to third on two wild pitches before scoring on a sacrifice fly.

That would be the only out Nasson would get. He was charged with four more runs and gave up two walks and two more hits, including a two-run homer, before being relieved by Sean McElhinney.

McElhinney managed to keep the Warriors in control for the next 5 1/2 innings, spreading out seven hits and allowing only one unearned run on two sixth inning errors.

Meanwhile Sachem batters were stopped by the excellent pitching of Wakefield's Sean Monahan. The Sachems could only come up with three hits in the game and six Winchester batters went down on strikes.

The only run the Sachems scored came in the seventh inning. Vandy French started the inning with an infield single, moved to third on two ground outs and scored on a wild pitch.

Winchester had one other opportunity to score in the fifth when Dan Costello hit a double with a man on first. Costello was thrown out trying to stretch the hit into a triple before the run could score.

Shawn Epps pitched the final inning for the Sachems, striking out two of the three batters he faced.

Winchester's game against Melrose last Monday was postponed due to rain. The Sachems were scheduled to play Watertown yesterday, Burlington tomorrow and at Reading on Monday.

Youth soccer team beats Westford

The Winchester U-10 boys spring soccer team showed a lot of potential by beating Westford, 4-1, in its first game of the season.

The game began as a back and forth battle between the 10-year-olds, but at the eight-minute mark, Darian DiPietro scored on a nice set from Rodrigo Serrano. Winchester kept Westford from scoring in the first half thanks to the defensive unit and timely covers by Sparky Brooks in goal.

Winchester opened up the scoring in the second half on a nice breakaway from DiPietro, who beat the goalie on a hard low shot.

At the 19-minute mark, the pressure tactics of Winchester paid off and DiPietro scored his third goal of the game. This seemed to take the heart out of the Westford and with five minutes to go, Tim Zue scored the final goal on a breakaway.

Westford kept heavy pressure on Winchester, but the play of Paul McGowan and Andrew Fuller and midfielders Paul McGeehan and Tommy Nath kept the game under control.

Public relations pamphlet

The preparation of a pamphlet describing programs and services at the Jenks Senior Center is in progress.

Jennie Lou Brockelman is doing some sketches of the building and Lily Yamamoto, a graphic designer, is laying out the pictures and the printed information.

This public relations activity has been made possible through a grant to the Winchester Council on Aging from the Office of Elder Affairs, part of which has been designated for dispensing information to the public.

Working on the pamphlet are Regina Karnilla, Robert Mulford from the Council on Aging, and Byron Peterson, Margaret Hodgson and Leonor Rich from the Winchester Seniors Association.

Byron Peterson and Regina Karnilla are coordinating the work with Barbara Ciampa, Administrator for the Council on Aging.

Diabetes screening clinic

At the Jenks Senior Center on Thursday, May 7, a diabetes screening clinic is scheduled. This service is sponsored by the Jenks Center Health Committee with the cooperation of Winchester Hospital and the Visiting Nurses.

Tests will be scheduled 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at five minute intervals. Prior appointments are required.

This is not for already known diabetics.

Please sign up at the reception desk for your time.

Breakfast should be eaten two hours before the actual screening and all of the following must be eaten: milk, cereal, 2 slices of toast with butter and jelly and only decaffeinated coffee.

Only water may be consumed after the meal.

Individual examples of appropriate meal patterns and eating habits will be discussed.

For men only

On Wednesday afternoons at 1 p.m., a group of men gather at the Jenks Senior Center to play cribbage. They enjoy both the game and the sociability of the afternoon hours together.

The players have continued their interest in this activity for at least seven years. New members will be welcomed.

Keep well clinic

The Keep Well Clinic at the Jenks Senior Center is one of the most valuable programs offered for the maintenance of good health.

Weight and blood pressure are monitored by volunteer nurses.

A member of the Visiting Nurse and Community Health Association is always present to assist.

Ann Ciampa, R.N., is the coordinator of the clinic.

She keeps progress records on each individual who utilizes this opportunity to be checked at regular intervals.

Recently, two other important services have been added on clinic day.

Dr. Solomon, podiatrist, has volunteered her time to advise people about foot care and the Jenks Center Health Committee's Health Benefits Counselors are present to give help with insurance forms that must be filled out and submitted to insurers.

During the 12 week externship experience, Volpe will prepare patients for examinations, assist during examinations, make appointments and gain experience in all aspects of medical office work.

The overnight camp includes four one-week sessions and is geared to boys and girls age 9 to 14.

Residents attend benefit for Emmanuel

The Honorable George O'Toole, and Attorney Lucy A. Flynn of Winchester were among the alumnae and guests who attended a gala evening organized by the Friends of Emmanuel to benefit Emmanuel College in Boston.

The event was held April 4, at the Hotel Meridien in Boston.

Safe Ride group donates funds to school

Leaders in the Safe Ride program have donated needed funds to the Winchester High School's Drug and Alcohol awareness program.

The Safe Ride program was started in spring of 1986 as a means of channeling funds from different sources into a central fund to better manage their use.

The central theme is to make people more aware of the dangers of mixing alcohol and/or drugs with driving.

Originally started by the Winchester Fire Fighters Local 1564 PFFM/IAFF, and the Winchester Municipal Federal Credit Union.

The Safe Ride program launched a poster campaign with the assistance of the Winchester Fire Department's Emergency Medical Services in the spring of 1986.

The target group was the high school students.

Since then, the Winchester Police Patrolman's Association I.B.P.O. has joined with the efforts of the fire fighters and the credit union, thus covering both areas of public safety.

It is the goal of Safe Ride to expand and encourage donations from citizens, groups, and businesses and thus helping other similar, but little known, programs to be funded.

Where programs do not exist, and there is a need the group hopes to assist in their development.

To donate to the Safe Ride program write to: Safe Ride, c/o Winchester Municipal Federal Credit Union, P.O. Box #22, Winchester or visit the Credit Union office, 10 Converse Place, across from the fire station, Mondays 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. or Tuesday and Thursdays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

First Sergeant John E. Ward Jr., of Winchester, was recently awarded the Army Achievement Medal while serving as a member of the 114th Medical Battalion, 26th (Yankee) Infantry Division, Massachusetts National Guard. The award was presented by Lieutenant Colonel Anthony P. Antico, Battalion Commander.

Parents visit Cadet Kennedy at academy

Cadet Matthew J. Kennedy, a 1985 graduate of Winchester High School, took part in the annual Plebe-Parent Weekend at the U.S. Military Academy March 11-15.

Bill and Jill Kennedy of 16 Mayflower Road visited their son for the event. The relatives and friends of plebes (freshmen) were invited to West Point for Plebe-Parent Weekend to tour the grounds, meet with staff and faculty members and learn about the regimen followed by the academy's newest cadets.

Cadet Kennedy, one of 1,100 plebes at West Point, plans to graduate in 1990 and be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

Dover Grill clean, but business down after DEQE listing

(From page 1)

"It was not the fault of the restaurant owner. The responsible party was actually somebody else. The responsible party was actually the owner of the property next to it," Brown said.

"Any inclusion of a place on this list does not imply release of a hazardous waste on that site," Brown said.

He said inclusion in the list designates "potential sites," the department "intends to investigate."

Because Dover Grille has been listed, the DEQE will send a team to investigate the site sometime in the next year, as required by law, Brown said.

"It is not one of the highest priorities in the department," Brown said.

Although the gasoline entered the basement in water, both the water and gas are now gone, Russell said.

"Our basement is sparkling clean. We are a clean restaurant," she said.

Dover Grille rents and does not own the building in which the restaurant is located.

Russell also said that the drinking water was never contaminated and the operation of the restaurant was not disrupted.

"They found traces of oil in the water downstairs, not in the drinking water," she said.

Creed said the property is owned by Locatelli Realty of Belmont, which also owns the adjacent lot.

He said DEQE sent Locatelli a notice of responsibility in January but has received no reply.

"We have not heard back from those people yet. The Dover Grille apparently didn't know anything about this," Creed said.

Publication of the list of possible contamination sites was mandated by question four on the state ballot this past November, Creed said.

"We have to make all of this stuff public," he said.

Town Meeting eyes $31 million budget upgrade the computer equipment for the town. This article is sponsored by the town manager.

Article eight will ask the town to raise and appropriate funds for the purchase materials for the installation of a water pipe to fill the North Reservoir. This article is sponsored by the board of selectmen who are expected to announce the cost of the project, based on engineering reports, at town meeting.

Articles 11 and 12 are seeking funds for engineering studies at the Lincoln and Ambrose School sites. Both these articles are sponsored by the school committee.

Article 23 is generally considered a standard "housekeeping" article in that it asks the town to promise to stay within the constraints of Proposition 2½. It is sponsored by the finance committee.

The town budget, as prepared by Maurer, breaks down the town's budget as follows:

General government ($1,219,860), undistributed ($4,941,710),

Culture/Recreation ($819,260), Health/Social services ($247,595), Public Safety ($3,607,283), Community Services ($5,362,653), Education ($12,147,865), Capital ($885,200), Wage adjustments ($900,000), Charges and Assessments ($1,044,316) for a total of $31,175,742.

This budget is subject to the recommendations of the finance committee and the ultimate vote of town meeting.

Club plans champagne lunch

The Winchester Home and Garden Club is planning champagne box lunch and fashion show on Wednesday, May 6.

The time is 12 p.m. and the place will be the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church.

The fashion coordinator will be Mary Knox and club members are Rachel Cook, Lillian Pearl, Martha Barry and Judy Peritz.

Included in the price of the ticket is a chance on a door prize.

Tickets are $10. Call Marjorie Berger at 729-4693 for reservations.

Finance group sees choices: tax, cut costs, charge fees

2½ restrictions, but Polcari says the budget will get harder and harder to balance.

One way to aid the budget-balancing process is planning. "If you plan for future decisions now, it's easier to deal with them," Polcari said.

As the finance committee sees it, there aren't very many choices where the budget is concerned. There is not a lot of room for growth in Winchester's tax base, so revenues will not be increasing much in the near future. The town can reduce services, raise taxes or charge fees for services that are now free to taxpayers, he says.

The committee recommends maintaining existing services, but charging for some of them and raising taxes. This can be done by exempting all or parts of the interest owed on loans for the capital budget from 2½.

"If we want to maintain fiscal responsibility for the town and maintain services, we will have to exempt the capital budget from 2½," Polcari said. "Exemption gives the town maneuverability."

"We are heading toward some lean years," Polcari said. "We have

If the town takes money out of the operating budget for capital projects, it will have to cut back on existing services. The dilemma is rising operating costs.

been living very well and borrowing a lot of money from the town's free cash reserves, but if you deplete that fund, the town cannot deal with an emergency."

Selectmen must begin the exemption process. Four of the five members must vote to put the exemption on a town election ballot.

The exemption would have to pass a town vote and then pass a town meeting vote by a majority.

"The town has to make some major policy decisions," Polcari said. "Something has to give."

Runners prepare, conquer marathon my time," he said. "I had a real good 22 miles, but in the last four I slowed down. I had been running sub-seventy-minute miles. The last four I ran were 9½ minutes."

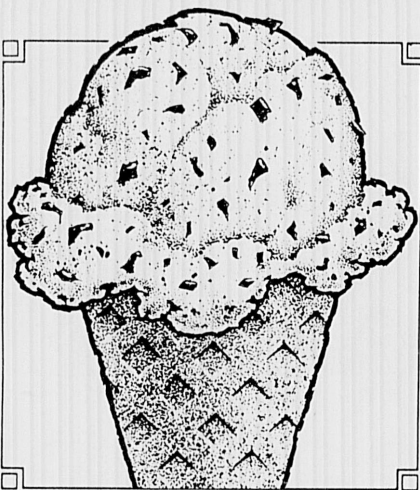

Crossing the finish line is fantastic, he says.

"The last couple of miles you keep saying to yourself 'This is the last time I will do this. This is crazy. Why am I doing this?' but when you cross the finish line you feel so fantastic, I start thinking about the next one."

DeGeorge will go back into training to work on his downhill running technique. He plans to run a marathon in the fall to qualify for Boston again next year.

Mushroom- Mycologists, start

Who ate the first mushroom, taking a bigger chance than he or she imagined?

Nobody knows.

But the Boston Mycological Society's several hundred members specialize in knowing minute and discrete differences among 200,000 species of the popular fungus.

Mushrooms are found from April until snow in New England.

Maria Maravigna of Winchester, a member of the society since 1950 and an avid mycologist, says most species aren't poisonous.

"But you have to know what you're doing," she cautions in her firmest tones. "There are some kinds of mushrooms you eat... well, you cannot survive if you do," she says.

At least the odds aren't with you. A species called "amanita virosa" is abundant in North American forests and looks a lot like mushrooms at the supermarket to an untrained eye.

It's fatal to 90 percent of those who eat it.

Although mushrooms have been around forever — perhaps a poisonous species killed the dinosaurs — serious study of them is barely 100 years old.

Julius A. Palmer of Boston met with 14 other adventurous souls in August 1895 to found the Boston Mycological Club.

Palmer learned which mushrooms are edible entirely by trial and error, society members say. That's not the best way.

"There's a controversy among mycological groups," Maravigna says. "The British Royal Mycological Society claims it was first. But members of the Boston Society know better," she grins.

Why study mushrooms? Maravigna says there's no good reason for most people but the government has taken a renewed interest in the past 20 years because "mushrooms are meat."

The fungi are never "psychedelic," as some members of the 1960s counterculture claimed.

About five common species do cause hallucinations, not unlike the pink elephants seen by those who ingest too much alcohol.

But anyone whose "mind was expanded" by eating mushrooms 20 years ago probably had an active imagination and an upset stomach, Maravigna says. Most of the hallucinogenic mushrooms also give eaters cramps, headache and fever.

"You can never know too much about mushrooms," she says. "That's why our group takes weekly forays every summer. We pick every mushroom, the big ones and the ones only the size of a pin head."

Forays, which attract experts, the merely curious and those learning which to avoid, are conducted from Cape Cod to Pemaquid Point, Maine.

Mycologists frequently get calls from people trying to identify a mushroom they've found. "But you can't tell much from a phone call. We don't encourage anyone to eat something they found in the woods.

"And nowadays, we never tell anyone a mushroom we haven't seen in person is OK to eat. People sue for anything now," Maravigna says.

Some people, however, have learned to rely on experts without their permission. For years, Maravigna picked edible mushrooms at a cemetery near her house.

Other folks watched. Since Maria's 87, they concluded, these must be good mushrooms.

"Now they're gone before I even get there," she says. "And I know who picks them."

Some mushrooms try to deceive the experts. Maravigna describes two species, one poisonous and one delicious, which look identical until a drop of water is placed on the spores. One resulting color indicates poison, another does not.

"The mycological society teaches people to the know the mushrooms," says Maravigna. "But there's a lot to learn."

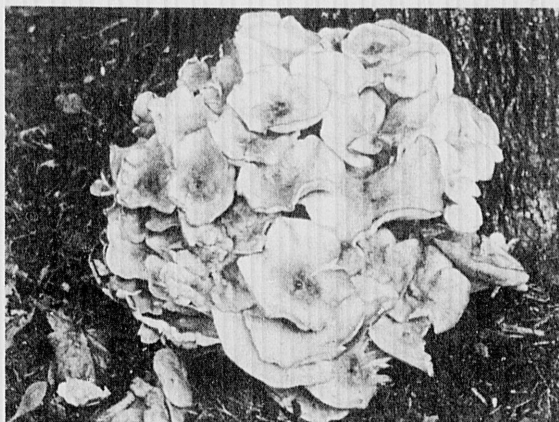

A great majority of mushrooms, around 80 percent, aren't edible either because they are poisonous or don't taste good to anyone. Only 5 to 10 percent are actually poisonous.

Maravigna, known widely as "The Mushroom Lady," has given her undivided attention to mushrooms since 1950, both in her career as artist and sculptor and in her avocation.

She's convinced mushroom research will prove beneficial to mankind in ways not yet imagined. "Remember, penicillin is also a mold, like the mushroom fungus. People are doing cancer research with mushrooms and also investigating them as a treatment for heart attack victims. Oh, yes," she says.

Some scientists agree. Mostly professors at several large universities, they publish quarterly "mushroom journals" to share findings.

The Boston society, however, stays busy year-round. The group meets every Monday night in a biology room at Harvard University to study and hear lectures about mushrooms.

Once a year, members gather for a "cooking meeting" and a banquet. The 1986 event in May featured 35 different recipes.

Mushrooms, though popular throughout history, are among the most unusual forms of plant life. They have no flowers or seeds.

They possess no chlorophyll and therefore cannot perform the vital function of photosynthesis. They must rely on other forms of life for nourishment.

"See this tree trunk," Maravigna says, pointing to a 10-foot trunk too large to hug. "It used to have mushrooms all down its side. But the mushrooms were slowly killing it."

Some species, frequently under pine trees, contribute to the life of their host but most mushrooms either live on dead organic matter

Mushroom facts

Please be gentle: Mushrooms don't like to be roughly handled, and bruise easily. They don't like water. And they don't like to be stored in plastic because they like to breathe.

Split personalities: Raw mushrooms hold their own against any vegetable. Cooked, they can be regally placed on steak or stand alone.

Take heart: Mushrooms are on the good guy lists from the American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society. They are fat and sodium free, low in calories and rich in fiber.

Equivalents: 1 pound of whole, raw mushrooms equals 6 cups sliced or 5 cups chopped. 1 pound sliced or chopped, cooked mushrooms equals about 2 cups. 1 pound equals 8 or 9 servings.

Boston salad in a cap

1/2 lb medium size fresh mushrooms
1/2 cup diced tomato
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped cucumber
1 tablespoon chopped radish
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/8 teaspoon instant garlic powder
2 tablespoons bottled local garlic salad dressing

Wipe mushrooms and remove stems. Mix all remaining ingredients thoroughly, then spoon mixture into mushroom caps. Keep chilled until ready to serve.

or kill their hosts.

Only a small part of the plant, the fruiting body, is visible. The rest is in the host.

Curiously, the fruiting body ("the mushroom") can appear overnight and disappear forever in a few hours.

Mushrooms are never to be taken lightly, Maravigna stresses. About 50 people die in Massachusetts each year as a result of eating the wrong species.

"It's a shame," she says. "Some of the prettiest species are also the most dangerous."

There's an analogy there somewhere.

Porgy and Bess to visit Boston

Houston Opera brings Porgy and Bess to Boston

George and Ira Gershwin's American opera classic Porgy and Bess will be performed Thursday through Sunday, April 30 - May 3 at the Wang Center.

The production will be directed by Jack O'Brien, with musical direction by John DeMain.

Created in the 1930s, Porgy and Bess affirms man's capacity to pursue dreams. From the primitive, tightly knit society of Catfish Row to the tantalizing presence of the city with its lure of sin, happy dust, and the high life, Porgy and Bess shows man in his innocence and power pitted in an internal struggle with nature and social forces.

The Houston Grand Opera production of Porgy and Bess was first performed in 1978 to national critical and popular acclaim.

Bass-baritone Donnie Ray Albert will reprise his powerful portrayal of Porgy. He has performed many roles with Houston Grand Opera, most recently the four evil geniuses in The Tales of Hoffman and Don Fernando in Fidelio. Albert alternates in the role with bass-baritone Mic Bell.

Bess is sung by soprano Carmen Balthrop, best known for her performance in the title role of the Houston Grand Opera production of Treemonisha. She alternates in the role with soprano Henrietta Davis, who sung Bess on Broadway and on tour.

The sets were designed by Douglas W. Schmidt, with costumes by Nancy Potts and lighting by John McLain.

Jack O'Brien has had a distinguished career as a director for opera and musical theatre and has been artistic director at San Diego's Old Globe Theatre since 1981.

John DeMain has been music director of Houston Grand Opera since 1979, where he conducted the world premiere of Carlisle Floyd's Willie Stark.

Performance schedule for Porgy and Bess is as follows: Thursday-Saturday evenings, April 30-May 2, at 8 p.m.; Saturday, May 2 at 2 p.m.; and Sunday, May 3 at 3 p.m. Tickets, priced at $35.50, $25.50, $20.50, and $15.50 are on sale at The Wang Center box office and through phone charge by calling 1-800-682-8080. Group discount are available by calling 482-2595.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

The Green Table, a 1930 oil by painter Niles Spencer is included in an exhibition of American still life painting at the Danforth Museum. (photo by Gretchen Harris)

Formalist still lifes on view

The Danforth Museum's exhibition, American Still Life, 1923-1936, Henry Lee McFee and Formalist Realism, is as serious and contained as its long title implies.

St. Louis native McFee studied painting in Pennsylvania and New York. He concentrated, after the revolutionary 1913 Armory Show, on still life subject matter, developing a particular version of cubism in which plasticity of objects co-existed with planar fragmentation toward figuration dense in pictorial activity and tense in form. As sober as was the pursuit and resultant paintings, there is much to be enjoyed in this show of more than 30 oils of interiors and still lifes by McFee and 11 of his contemporaries.

The physicality of almost all the works is striking. One has the sense that McFee and his fellow artists truly loved the objects equally to the painting of them. The attention lavished on a melon broken open to both reveal its palpable orange insides and to punctuate the deep blue cloth shaped beneath it, or a playing card carefully, descriptively painted then delicately broken and reflected in a faceted crystal vase, infuses the paintings with a purposeful and urgent sense of giving reality its due while maintaining the integrity of picture-making.

Many of the paintings — especially McFee's — are vertical, with exaggerated perspective giving credence to every tilt and angle contributing to its effective, if forced, dynamic. A canvas stretcher activates the space behind a table, no less a pictorial device than shadows breaking, then repeating planes, or cloth draped and deeply folded or pulled back tight against the picture's edges.

While comparisons of McFee to Cezanne are made by many gallery visitors, the underlying sensibility is less similar than it may appear. McFee's attention to objects and connecting forms as a means of structuring his paintings give the works a complicated configuration which by comparison makes Cezanne's still lifes look austere. It is, rather, the intensity and planar breaking of the brushmark and the structuring of color toward spatial tension that give density — a felt density — to Cezanne's works.

Perhaps more in the spirit of Cezanne is Roger Fry's 1919 small oil. A light-saturated tabletop tips determinedly toward the picture plane. Personable, colorful objects sit on its surface, flatly refusing to be still and eager to carry on a visual dialogue across the intervals between them.

Andrew Dusburg's apples, stark and energetic on an oblong white platter and Niles Spencer's substantial green table firmly planted in a room's corner defined by tall, shadowy planes are also notable among the works of McFee's contemporaries.

John Baker, Associate Professor of Art History at Massachusetts College of Art organized the exhibition and has written a catalogue available at the museum gift shop this month.

The Danforth Museum is located at 123 Union Ave. and is open noon to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and 1 to 4:30 p.m. weekends. Call 620-0050.

A.R.T. presents play reading series

A.R.T./Mondays, a series of events presented by the American Repertory Theatre is proud to announce its 2nd annual New American Play Reading Series, which will take place this April 27 and May 4 at 12 Holyoke St.

Featured in the sit-down reading will be four plays currently being developed by the A.R.T.'s literary department.

The purpose of the series is to give the playwrights and the theatre a greater understanding of the play's strengths and weaknesses, while enabling audience members to play an active part in the development of new works.

The schedule for A.R.T./Monday's New American Play Reading Series is as follows: Monday, April 27, Martin Night by Joshua Goldstein. The dark night of the soul is on the horizon for a goofy high school kid and his entire family in this version of "The Donna Reed Show" gone sour. Monday, May 4, Moon City by Paul Selig and Bill by Glenn Blumstein. The homeless and the homely are alive and well and living in a trailer park in Florida—where the soundtrack is Nancy Sinatra and the living is crazy, in Paul Selig's dark comedy. And in Glenn Blumstein's Bill, a comedian and his ailing straight man hit the road while the laughs get harsher and harsher. An evening of one-acts.

Admission to each of the readings is free and open to the public. And, while tickets will not be necessary, there is a suggested donation of $2. Watch for more readings in June as the New American Play Reading Series continues with a special ten-day festival.

Ashkenazy plays at Symphony Hall

The distinguished Soviet-born pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy will perform in recital at Symphony Hall on Friday, May 1 at 8 p.m. Mr. Ashkenazy will perform major keyboard works of Schubert and Schumann.

Born in the Russian city of Gorky in 1937, Ashkenazy was the son of two accomplished pianists, and as a result of their influence, he became proficient at the keyboard at an extremely early age.

Later in Moscow, he studied under Anaida Sumbatin at the Moscow Conservatory. Ashkenazy first achieved public renown in 1962 as the winner of the Tchaikovsky piano competition in Moscow.

One year later, Ashkenazy married an Icelandic pianist and emigrated to the West, though he retained his Soviet citizenship. In the intervening years, Ashkenazy—whose fame initially grew from performances of Chopin and of the Russian composers—became noted as an interpreter of Mozart, Beethoven, and the French impressionists.

In recent years, Ashkenazy has also emerged as a conductor for Britain's Philharmonia Orchestra, as well as a guest conductor for the Concertbouw, the Cleveland, and the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

In January 1987, Ashkenazy was named music director of the Royal Philharmonic.

Tickets for the Vladimir Ashkenazy recital are $16.50 and are on sale at the Symphony Hall box office 266-1492 and through Concertcharge., 497-1118.

North Shore Music Theater presents children's classic

TheatreVenture, the annual spring theater program for children at Beverly's North Shore Music Theater, will present three weeks of musical productions, featuring the children's classics The Adventures of Pinocchio and Mary Poppins, beginning Monday, April 27.

The delightful tale of a wooden puppet who wants to become a real boy, Pinocchio will be performed by New York's Gingerbread Players and Jack, the company that brought The Wizard of Oz to Beverly's arena-style stage last season.

With the primary aim of developing the appetite of children for theater, the company's productions emphasize human relationships and offer guidelines for growing up.

Mary Poppins, the enchanting story of a magical governess who brings a family together, will be performed by New Jersey's Yates Musical Theatre. Dedicated to providing young audiences with the best in live theater, the troupe has entertained and enlightened more than one million children and adults at schools, libraries and museums throughout the Northeast for more than 30 years.

Performance times for Pinocchio are 9:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. Monday through Friday, April 27 through May 1, and Tuesday through Saturday, May 26 through 30. An additional performance is slated for Saturday, May 30, at 1 p.m. Mary Poppins will be performed at 9:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. Monday through Friday, May 4 through May 8.

Ticket prices are $4 for all performances, and student groups receive one complimentary chaperone ticket for every 25 student tickets purchased. Call or write the North Shore Music Theatre box office at P.O. Box 62, Beverly 01915; 922-8500.

Merrimack Rep presents Wilde's Earnest

Oscar Wilde's comic masterpiece The Importance of Being Earnest will be presented by the Merrimack Repertory Theatre from April 24 through May 16. Considered by many to be one of the finest comedies ever written, Wilde's social comedy features rapier wit, mistaken identities, young lovers, and an incredible battle-axe of an aunt.

Playing Algernon Moncrieff, Wilde's paragon of idle gentlemen, will be Keven Black. Dee Nelson plays Cecily, Algernon's innocent love interest. Lady Bracknell, Algernon's aristocratic aunt, will be played by Alice White. Curzon Dobell will play Algernon's foil and friend Jack Worthing. Gwendolen Fairfax, a young lady exact and alluring in her affections, will be played by Stephanie Clayman.

Earnest will be directed by Richard Rose, who directed the award-winning A Little Night Music, and last season's smash hit Something's Afoot, and who recently assumed the post of Managing Director at American Stage Festival in Milford, New Hampshire.

The set for this production has been designed by Dale Jordan whose Off-Broadway credits include The Death of a Miner and Sea Marks. Costumes and lights will be designed by Amanda Aldridge and John Ambrosone respectively.

The theatre in Liberty Hall, part of Lowell's Memorial Auditorium complex, is in the historic downtown.

FOR HALF A CENTURY A NAME YOU CAN TRUST

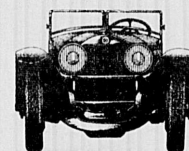

CAR CARE CORNER

By Dan Hogan,
Service Manager

The brake system on your car is designed to stop the car when it is in motion... Friction pads are applied under pressure to a metal brake drum or disc to slow the wheels... A fluid in this system transmits hydraulically the mechanical energy from your foot to a wheel cylinder... Because the brake system is vital to your car's safety, we highly recommend that you let a professional make any repairs to the system... It could very well be one of around six brake problems... All too complicated for you to tackle...

The technicians at PETER FULLER OLDS are ASE certified. We keep a computerized history of all cars serviced here to notify you of preventative maintenance. Open 8-5, Tel. 924-8100. M/C, Visa & A/E accepted. We are located within walking distance to public transportation. Come to PETER FULLER OLDS, Watertown Sq. "Olds National Service Award Winner."

Audi Remanufactured Parts.
Built Like New.
Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts. The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

Arlington was birthplace for 'Uncle Sam'

Arlington, these days a residential suburb of 50,000 people, claims deep and profound business roots: Arlington was the birthplace of 19th century businessman Samuel Wilson, better known as Uncle Sam.

In its early days, Arlington played host to card manufacturers, calico makers and a thriving ice shipping business. The ice came from Spy Pond.

Located six miles from Boston and four from Route 128, Arlington now serves mainly as a bedroom community for the surrounding industrial areas.

Five important employers in the town include Textet, the Town of Arlington, Symmes Hospital, Mirak Chevrolet, and Simpson, Gumpertz & Heger.

One of the newer businesses in town is Textet, a maker of electronic publishing systems located at 37 Broadway.

Textet supplies the software and hardware for systems that take in text, graphics and other input from standard composition machines, merges them all in a design file, displays the output on high-resolution screens for final editing, and then sends the final copy to high-quality typesetting equipment or laser printers.

The company employs 130 people. About a third work in software development and hardware modification, according to Jean Gard, director of marketing. There are 30 customer service people, who handle phone support, training and installation.

Sales and marketing utilize 20 people, and the rest work in finance and administration.

The town itself is a substantial employer, providing work for 460 people. The town's main offices are 730 Massachusetts Ave.

Some of its most visible employees are the community safety personnel, the police and firemen. They receive support from a staff of dispatchers, vehicle repair people, street light, fire alarm and traffic signal maintenance personnel as well as their own administrative staff.

In the public works department work truck drivers, snow equipment operators, trash collectors, sewer workers and an administrative staff.

The library has, of course, librarians, but also assistants and an administrative staff.

The department of properties and natural resources provides employment to building custodians, watchmen, carpenters, electricians, painters, helpers, laborers, equipment operators, tree climbers, park maintenance craftsmen and gardeners.

The legal department is small: a lawyer is supported by his small staff.

Symmes Hospital employs 700

The comptroller's office and data processing come under the same roof and cover programmers, accountants, bookkeepers and administrators.

In human resources are found social workers and counsellors as well as public health employees, a part-time doctor and an animal inspector.

The recreation department employs many part-timers to operate its programs. Program specialists on the staff develop the programs.

The four public offices, the selectmen, the treasurer, the assessor, and the town clerk, all have their own administrative staffs.

The town engineer has some staff support. Personnel employs personnel specialists and administrative support. The planning and community development department houses planning and development specialists.

The Symmes Hospital, a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services Inc., employs 700 people at the Arlington location on Hospital Road.

The facility is described as "an acute-care community hospital," by Fran Lipson, vice president of human resources.

Located six miles from Boston and four from Route 128, Arlington now serves mainly as a bedroom community for the surrounding industrial areas. In its early days, Arlington played host to a thriving ice shipping business.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

The professional staff consists of doctors, nurses, medical technologists, therapists, social workers, dietitians, pharmacists and educators.

Supporting them are food service personnel, housekeepers, maintenance personnel and nurses aides. The hospital's infrastructure is maintained by secretaries, clerks, data entry personnel and administrators.

Ted Haussman, vice president for community relations, indicates that the hospital is currently hiring registered nurses, x-ray technologists, physical therapists and pharmacists.

Mirak Chevrolet at 1125 Massachusetts Ave. sells and services Chevrolet cars and trucks and used vehicles.

President Charles Mirak says he employs 125 people. They work as salesmen, mechanics, body people, parts people, drivers, secretaries, clerks and managers.

Simpson, Gumpertz & Heger, based at 297 Broadway, is a structural consulting engineering firm. The firm employs a total of 130 people; approximately 100 of them work in the Arlington branch.

Bill Sovie, the general manager, describes his business as having two components: the design of unique new structures, and forensic engineering.

Under the heading of design, the company has put together the plans for the Epcot Center at Disneyworld in Florida, the Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, and other structures with special problems.

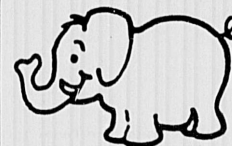

In the area of forensic engineering, analysts seek out the causes of building failures.

S.G & H studied the failure of the walkway at the Hyatt Hotel in Kansas City in which more than a hundred people were killed. They also looked into the problem of flying windows that the John Hancock building experienced in its early days.

Of the 100 employees in Arlington, about half are engineers with Ph.D.s.

They are assisted by about 20 design drafters on the design side, and six lab technicians on the forensic side. The rest of the staff is administrative (secretaries, accountants, etc.).

Belmont called town of homes

The town of Belmont, founded in 1859 out of pieces sheared off Cambridge, Watertown and Waltham, is today a quiet suburb of 26,100 souls.

Being 97 percent residential, the town does not offer a great number of large employers.

Among the biggest in town, however, are McLean Hospital, Belmont Springs Water Company, Wausau Insurance, Anacomp, and Cambridge Plating.

Without question the largest is McLean Hospital at 115 Mill St., a 328-bed center for psychiatric treatment, education and research.

The hospital employs 1,853 people. They care for its inpatients and large outpatient community, train 400 students per year in psychiatry, psychology, nursing and social work, and run its large psychiatric research program.

The hospital has 610 employees who work as psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, medical record keepers, pharmacists, managers, accountants and supervisors. Research occupies the time of 225.

A Bank Can't Serve Local Business If It Doesn't Understand The Environment.

At Shawmut, we realize that every business community is unique. And serving each community requires an understanding of just what makes it tick.

Shawmut has professional business bankers in local business centers throughout Massachusetts. So we understand exactly what makes each one different.

For example, because we are actually part of the local business community, we have a special knowledge of an area's property values and economic climate.

In addition, our local boards are comprised of business and civic leaders from the community. And each local Shawmut business banker has the power to make most loan decisions right there.

So if you're looking for a bank to handle the special needs of your business, see your local Shawmut banker, or call 1-800-SHAWMUT. Because no matter where your business is, we know what suits you.

McClean is biggest employer

The nursing department accounts for an additional 493 workers; 200 of them are registered nurses and 227 are mental health workers. There are 180 secretaries, 85 housekeepers, and 80 dietary personnel.

Security requires 40 employees. Rehabilitation, that is, counselors and physical and occupational therapists, is handled by 55 people. The physical plant is maintained by 85 tradesmen.

Belmont Springs Water Company on Country Club Lane, now a subsidiary of Coca Cola, is the oldest business still in existence in Belmont. Founded in 1877, the company sells bottled spring water and water dispensers.

The spring source comes from 212 feet down and was used by Indians before the settlers arrived. According to Dennis Davison, vice president of marketing, John L. Sullivan drank Belmont Springs water while he trained for his fights.

The company employs about 130 people. Half of those are engaged in "route sales," which entails driving the water trucks around to customer sites to sell and deliver.

Service technicians keep the dispensers functioning, and inside sales people man the phones. The rest of the employees are involved in administration as accountants, secretaries, bookkeepers and the like.

Wausau Insurance keeps its New England regional office at 385 Concord Ave. Wausau provides casualty and property insurance to commercial customers.

Joan Sullivan of Wausau's personnel department says that about 200 people report to the office. Many of the outside sales people work out of their homes. Branch offices in Worcester, West Springfield and North Haven, Conn., also report in to the Belmont office.

Sullivan gave an approximate breakdown of job functions as follows: three managers, 25 sales people (inside and outside), 10 underwriters (who decide how a policy should be written), eight technical auditors (who make sure companies are in compliance with safety regulations), and more than 100 clerical processors.

The processors process claims, premiums (credit and audit), operate computers, and write up policies.

Belmont's primarily residential nature means few major business. This Belmont fire truck reflects trees on a sunny day. (Paul Drake Photo)

Everyone in the company receives a half-day training course called Introduction to Insurance. Depending on the job, training may continue for several weeks.

The best educational background for a job at Wausau is business or insurance courses, according to Sullivan.

Anacomp Inc. at 15 Flanders Rd. is one of 60 branches of an Indianapolis-based company. Anacomp takes printed matter and converts it to microfiche, thus reducing it in size for more convenient storage.

The company employs 36 people in Belmont. The operations department requires 18 people to handle the paper, operate the photography equipment and computers, and cut and package the fiche.

There are nine courriers, who pick up the paper and deliver the paper and fiche back. Administration occupies three people, and there is one general manager.

Most of the operations people train on the job, but computer experience is helpful, says Terry Stewart, region administrator.

Cambridge Plating Co., Inc. at 39 Hittinger St. is a metal finishing plant that employs 105 people. Most of the workers are platers, rated according to their experience. Rackers and packers also work in the plant.

In addition, there are six people on the accounting staff, four lab researchers, 10 office employees, and six maintenance people.

Newton base is small retail

By ROGER L. KAY

The city of Newton boasts residential real estate tax receipts among the highest in Massachusetts. But most of Newton's 84,000 residents work elsewhere.

Newton does have a foot on the route 128 technology belt, but most of its employers are small, retail establishments that serve the local community.

There are, however, a number of large employers in widely varied sectors of the economy.

Among those are Newton-Wellesley Hospital, the City of Newton, Boston College, Cahners Publishing Company and the Newton Marriott.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital, located at 2014 Washington St., employs 926 full-time and 1,039 part-time staffers.

The hospital provides 351 beds for acute care patients and is a teaching facility for Tufts University School of Medicine.

According to the public relations department, the hospital is "one of the western suburbs' most comprehensive medical centers, offering inpatients and outpatients a wide variety of medical, surgical and subspecialty care, including 24-hour emergency service, obstetrics, pediatrics and psychiatry."

The hospital employs doctors, nurses (who make up more than half the staff), medical technicians, accountants, maintenance personnel, administrators, secretaries, marketing specialists, personnel specialists, nutritionists, food preparers, laundry workers, data processing specialists, switchboard personnel and social workers.

city offices are located at 1000 Commonwealth Ave.

According to the personnel department, 90 percent of the city's workers are unionized. The higher level jobs tend to be non-union, such as those in the law, personnel, executive and planning departments.

The unions include policemen, firemen, building inspectors, foremen, clerical workers, nurses, engineers, public works personnel, park and recreation workers and traffic supervisors.

The school department, a division of the city, employs an additional 1,215 people. Of those, 756 are professional staff.

Boston College, which has two campuses, one in Boston, the other at 140 Commonwealth Ave. in Newton, employs 2,145 people on its Newton campus. Of those, 27 percent are Newton residents, according to the college's public relations office.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

Watertown has dense growth

The city known as the Town of Watertown was one of the first inland communities settled in Massachusetts. Spacious enough in early days, the city today packs 32,000 residents into just 4.2 square miles, making it the 10th most dense community in the Commonwealth.

The city boasts a colorful mix of Italians, Greeks, Armenians and Irish, and, in keeping with its patchwork quality, a mix of residential and industrial areas.

Five important employers, the Army, Unitrode, the Arsenal Mall, the Perkins School, and United Electric Controls are among top employers.

One of the oldest employers in Watertown is the U.S. Army. Its Materials Technology Laboratory (MTL) on Arsenal Street, better known as the Watertown Arsenal, provides work for 616 civilians and 17 military personnel.

Susan Dreiband, public affairs specialist for the lab, calls it "the Army's lead laboratory in materials, materials testing technology, solid mechanics, light-weight armour, corrosion prevention and control, and manufacturing testing technology." The facility is broken down into three labs: a metals and ceramics lab, an organic materials lab and a mechanics and structural integrity lab.

In addition, the MTL houses the ballistic missile defense materials program office.

Of the civilian employees, 260 are various types of engineers and scientists, such as physicists, chemists, metallurgists and ceramists.

The rest fall under the broad category of administrative support.

Unitrode, a privately-held manufacturer, has a large plant at 478 Pleasant St., where diodes, transistors and semi-conductors are made.

The plant employs about 700 people, most of them assemblers. There are about 100 managers and supervisors that oversee production assisted by their administrative staffs. Quality is monitored by a small number of inspectors.

In addition, customer service representatives handle buyers' needs, purchasing agents buy raw materials, stock people manage inventories, accountants keep track of financial flows, personnel specialists keep track of people, and a small number of researchers and technicians work on new products.

The Arsenal Mall at 485 Arsenal St., while really a group of employers, can be thought of as a single entity.

The Arsenal Mall Office represents the real estate developer that built the mall. Run by General Manager Cynthia Hall, the office has seven clerical workers and 23 security and maintenance people.

The office acts like a municipal government and Arsenal Mall employs 1800 people during normal season, and 2500 during Christmas landlord to the tenants: it collects the trash, polices the premises, fixes the utilities, and takes in the rent.

It also coordinates commercial policies, like getting all the shops to agree to the same extended Christmas hours.

While the mall is classified as mixed use, most of the tenants are retailers or service establishments: Ann & Hope, Marshall's, Cherry, Webb, & Touraine, Tellos, Lords & Ladies, BayBanks, Koenig Art Emporium, Gingiss Formal Wear, Photo Time, and Doctor Pet Center.

There are also 11 restaurants in the "food court" at the center of the mall.

Among them all, these establishments employ more than 1,800 people during normal season. During the Christmas rush, the number increases to 2,500, according to Hall.

Most of these workers are retail sales clerks, food preparers, and providers of personal services such as hair cutting. In addition there are stock room personnel, administrative personnel and managers.

The Perkins School for the Blind at 175 North Beacon St. used to be a "prep school" for blind teenagers. Now it is a place where "multi-impaired" students from toddler age up through early adulthood receive specialized instruction.

According to Susan Bower of Perkin's public relations department, the school employs approximately 550 full-time personnel and about 500 part-time workers to aid 210 students, of whom 70 percent are full-time residents.

Program aides act as companions to the students. Depending on the students' needs, a program aid can be assigned on a one-to-one basis, or handle a number of students. The aides help students do all the things normal people take for granted.

In addition to aides, the school has teachers and teaching assistants. There are also nurses and doctors on the staff as well as occupational therapists and speech and language pathologists. An audiologist helps students with hearing problems.

The residential community has house staff, maintenance people, housekeepers, cooks and laundry people. There are administrators, secretaries and accountants in the offices.

Bower says the school is always looking for qualified teachers and program aides. She indicates that a good way to enter the field of special needs teaching is as a program aide.

United Electric Controls Co. at 85 School St. is a manufacturer of temperature and pressure controls for industrial uses. Their products turn up, for example, on pizza ovens, restaurant broilers, hospital incubators and trailer-truck refrigeration units.

According to personnel manager Fred Ritzau, there are now 425 full-time and 30 part-time employees.

Product design and testing is carried out by 50 mechanical and electrical engineers, drafters and R & D and test technicians.

Production is done by 180 machinists and light assemblers.

Manufacturing support such as purchasing, production planning, quality control, shipping and receiving, occupies 115 people.

Sales and marketing is done by 60 people, and administration, which includes accounting, finance, computer systems and personnel, requires 30 employees.

Winchester is shoe shop town all grown up

Winchester, a town of 24,000, is located 15 minutes by train from downtown Boston. It is a town of single-family homes and quiet streets, a high median income and a high level of education.

The town was part of the Waterfield Valley grant to Charlestown in 1634. With an additional grant to the north, the town of Wooborne was formed. Later, South Wooborne became Winchester.

In the late 1700s, Winchester was a town of small shoe shops. As growth continued, the town was incorporated.

Although Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown gave his name to the town, he never deigned to visit it.

Like many other suburbs, Winchester is primarily residential. However, it does have an industrial area and a number of sizable employers. McCord Winn, the Trodella companies, the Town of Winchester, Winchester Hospital, and Purity Supreme are among those.

McCord Winn, Inc., a division of Textron Corp. employs roughly 300 people at its 620 Washington St. location.

The company manufactures small electro-mechanical motors, mostly for the automotive industry.

Employees work three shifts to keep the production lines going. Most of the workers are machine operators and assembly workers. They are complimented by a contingent of inspectors, maintenance and set-up people.

There are a few engineers working on product development, and a financial and administrative staff. Managers at all levels run the various departments.

Joseph Trodella presides over a group of companies from his offices at 24 River St. Between them they employ 230 people.

The field personnel are made up of licensed electricians and apprentices, licensed installers of various sorts and their apprentices, certified welders and millwrights, mechanics and various electrical sub-specialists.

The Town of Winchester, not including the schools, employs 235 full-time permanent employees. A number of part-time positions exist, particularly in the Department of Public works and the library.

With main offices at 71 Mt. Vernon St., the town is one of the larger employers in the area.

Applying the state breakdown of job categories, 23 employees are classified as official/administrative. These are mostly department heads and include the police and fire chiefs.

Professional account for 18 positions that involve some supervisory oversight. The police and fire lieutenants are included here.

The rest of the 68 police and fire personnel are included under protective services.

Technicians, such as engineers, draftsmen and inspectors, contribute 23 positions.

The library has one para-professional.

The typing and copying is taken care of by 32 office/clerical people.

There are 31 skilled craftsmen, such as electricians, plumbers, and carpenters, and 38 service/maintenance personnel. Most of these two categories work for the DPW.

Winchester Hospital at 41 Highland Ave. employs 903 full-time equivalent staff members, according to Ann Scigliano of the hospital's community relations department.

About half of those are registered nurses. Most of the physicians use the hospital facilities, but are not employees. The exceptions are doctors in the emergency room, radiology department and laboratory.

Other personnel include laboratory, X-ray, EEG, and EKG technicians, pharmacists, counselors, and rehabilitation service people. Rehabilitation includes occupational, speech, physical and respiratory therapies.

"We also have a very valuable corps of 731 volunteers that help us reduce the number of employees," said Scigliano. The hospital operates around the clock.

Purity Supreme has a store at 695 Main St. that employs about 150 full and part-time people, according to store manager Lisa Bohan.

The bulk of the employees work as cashiers and baggers, and many others work on the floor as produce, grocery, meat, deli, baker, dairy and frozen food clerks. Meat cutters and bakers prepare their products for sale.

A manager runs each department, and the managers report to the store manager, who has an assistant.

There are no educational requirements for any of the jobs; all training is done in house. Most of the positions are filled with part-time employees, many of whom are also in school.

An employee can train and work in one department for a while, and then move on and be trained in another, says Bohan, who took this route herself up through the ranks from cashier.

Communication, choices, $$: officers Muggia, Polcari, Maurer tell Town Meeting about Winchester needs

By ROGER L. KAY
Winchester's leaders need to improve communication with each other, the town can afford its 1988 budget, but difficult choices are ahead, town officers told town meeting Monday night. Judith Muggia, chairman of the selectmen, Gerard Polcari, chairman of the finance committee, and W. Chadwick Maurer, the town manager, all gave statements in article 1, the reports of the town officers.

Muggia stressed the need to communicate among the various town boards. She asked for joint efforts to identify areas of common concern.

She said that all committees would receive invitations to meet with the selectmen to discuss topic of their choosing.

She pledged to work closely with the town manager and said, he "has our full and warm support."

"The enactment of fiscally responsible decisions is all of our responsibility," she said.

One question she said would have to be addressed is what level of services the town considers appropriate.

She asked that the town understand that the five selectmen are "very human people," but that they place the broader interests of the whole (See COMMUNICATION, page 16)

Zoning bylaw change loses on TM ballot

By ROGER L. KAY
Winchester town meeting managed to dispose of most of the non-money articles in the warrant during its first meeting Monday night.

According to town bylaw, money issues cannot be taken up until the first Monday in May.

Normally, town meeting would meet again tonight, but as there is no further business until, May 4, the next session will be then.

Of the non-money articles, only Article 19, a zoning bylaw change, fell against the recommendations of its initiators.

The Planning Board had proposed by article 19 to increase the lot size required for Multiple Family Residential District A (RA-120) development from a maximum of 4,000 square feet per unit to 5,500 square feet per unit.

Planning Board Chairman Maryann McCall-Taylor argued in favor of the plan, saying that it would decrease the density of multi-family developments from an average of 12 per acre to eight per acre.

McCall-Taylor called the proposed bylaw change a "signal to developers that we want less density."

She also said that the language in the proposed change was simpler and easier to administer. The language it was to replace related allowable square feet to the number of bedrooms. The new language referred only to allowable square feet per dwelling unit.

Many members, including Chairman of the Selectmen Judith Muggia, said the proposed change could discourage developers by reducing their economic incentive to build in Winchester.

Part of the town's attempt to develop a larger stock of affordable housing depends on bringing in developers who will provide one or more affordable units in their developments in return for zoning variances and town services.

This type of trade is referred to as "linkage."

One member on the floor pointed out that the amendment was premature. The town has hired a consultant, Pattison, Slave, & Associates of Newton, to report on the town's housing problem. The report is due in June and the member suggested that to change a bylaw before seeing the findings is inappropriate. Such a move would be "detrimental to our affordable housing program," he said.

(Please see ZONING, page 14)

Lights, lot sizes win town meeting probes

By ROGER L. KAY
The town now has tighter language in its bylaws that defines acceptable lighting in residential districts and the allowable dimensions of new building lots.

Article 17, initiated by the planning board and presented at Monday night's town meeting, asked for a substitute of language in Section 7.13 (f) (1) of the zoning bylaws. To pass, the change required a 2/3 majority vote.

When the standing vote was taken, 146 had voted for the change and six against.

Maryann McCall-Taylor, who as Chairman of the Planning Board presented the amendment, said the purpose of the measure was to "fine tune the regulations."

She said the change would allow better control of the placement of exterior lighting.

One town meeting member asked who would define "unreasonably disturb," a reference to the effect on neighbors of nuisance lighting.

McCall-Taylor said, "The building inspector."

Article 18, also presented by McCall-Taylor, asked for a change in Section 6 of the zoning bylaws that would redefine dimensional requirements.

The new bylaw requires a 120-foot width at the setback line.

The change was "designed to eliminate long, irregular, corridor-shaped lots," McCall-Taylor said.

The old bylaw only required a lot to be a certain width as measured through the house. This allowed a 50-foot corridor to be carried back from a turn-around to a remote lot. Developments built in this manner have a lot of driveways approaching the turn-around and concomitant traffic and congestion problems, McCall-Taylor said.

The new bylaw requires a 120-foot width at the setback line, 35 feet from the road. This will discourage over-density development off cul-de-sacs.

A 2/3 majority vote was needed to pass the new bylaw. When the vote was taken, 141 voted for it, and 7 against.

'87 budget items win town meeting okay

By ROGER L. KAY
A special town meeting was inserted into the regular town meeting Monday night to take care of budget issues remaining from the 1987 fiscal year.

Article 1 of the special session proposed to raise $42,000 from Free Cash to fund a collective bargaining agreement reached with the Winchester Police Association.

Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer presented the article and recommended a favorable vote. He explained the agreement had been negotiated with the union, but still had to be ratified by the town.

The agreement was negotiated after the start of the fiscal year. As a result, the pay increases, mainly for Personal Services, were not included in the 1987 budget.

"This year the agreement had to go before the state Department of Labor for settlement," Maurer told town meeting members.

He argued that the town had done better than other communities in the area. Winchester compares statistics with 13 local towns. The average increase in police union contracts in those towns was 5 percent in 1987 and 5.7 percent in 1988.

Winchester negotiated a two-year agreement with a 4.5 percent increase in each year.

Finance Committee Chairman Gerard Polcari recommended a positive vote on the article.

The motion carried unanimously.

Social studies programs in Winchester will improve with implementation of a plan presented this week to the school committee.

The committee Tuesday heard a report from three school administrators about the social studies program.

Director of social studies William O'Connor, Lincoln School principal Susan Villani and assistant superintendent David Ackerman made the presentation. The report outlined an action plan for improving the curriculum.

The improvements are based on a visiting team report the school department received in March. The team, comprised of six social studies education specialists, observed the schools for three and a half days and spoke to teachers and students about the program.

Youth center job bank calls for more student workers

By ELIZABETH AARON
Winchester youth center job bank referral service has more jobs than junior and high school students looking for work, says Darcy Fitzgerald, the youth center coordinator.

The service matches the needs of employers with the talents of teenagers looking for a part-time job.

There are 30 to 40 professional jobs available in the area, said youth center aid Jack Monteith, a Suffolk University student who works at the center part-time.

Tufts student Tracy Caulfield also helps with the job bank, which is under the direction of Bentley student Jeff Ewing.

Some students use the job bank as a way to earn money for college.

Others use it to get better jobs in the future, obtain good references for college applications, or earn spending money, said Fitzgerald.

The center tries to find local jobs for the students to reduce their travel time, Monteith said.

"The furthest ones are in Stoneham and Woburn," he said. Monteith explained that these would go to those over 18.

Many jobs are available for 16 and 17-year-olds, he said.

"We really need interested kids. Often it's just a case of the parents wanting the kids to have a job for the summer," Monteith said.

"For the most part it works fine. We'll get an influx of people. Now we need new people, especially seventh and eighth graders," said Monteith.

He said the center needs new students because many who used the service in the fall now have schedule conflicts.

O'Connell defends actions, decisions

By SUE SHOR

School committee member Edward O'Connell defended himself against being "bushwacked, ambushed and bludgeoned with half-truths, rumors and innuendo" regarding his correspondence with teacher Linda Cicciariello at Tuesday night's school committee meeting.

O'Connell was referring to a letter Cicciariello, who teaches Latin at Winchester High, wrote to him about vice principal Karen Baker's tenure denial and his response.

O'Connell said Cicciariello's letter accused him of "bringing shame and embarrassment to Winchester."

In rebuttal, he said, "I have served Winchester for 20 years and I am proud of my record of service. I may not always be right, but I have not brought any shame to Winchester."

O'Connell said, "I made an appropriate response to her letter."

"We pay her to teach Latin, not to criticize or politicize," O'Connell said.

He has received letters in praise of Cicciariello from students, former students and town residents. O'Connell said he has sought legal advice in regard to the letters he has received.

'I have served Winchester for 20 years and I am proud of my record of service.'

Edward O'Connell

"I don't have to tolerate this kind of accusation," he said.

Cicciariello said earlier her letter was "strong."

The issue was brought up because Cicciariello has resigned from her position for personal reasons.

The school committee accepted her resignation with regrets, 4-0, with O'Connell abstaining.

School committee ok's sliced budget

By SUE SHOR

The Winchester School Committee has decided 4-1 to accept the reduced budget the finance committee will recommend to town meeting.

Committee member Michael Ronyne entered the sole negative vote. The finance committee budget includes a $161,000 school budget decrease and a $30,000 athletics budget decrease.

The committee will present its case for the school system at town meeting to try to get some leverage for next year.

"This is a new town meeting and not many of those members come to these meetings," said committee member Alice McCarter. "They are just setting their sense of how they will vote. I will not be comfortable with money taken out of the budget and I want that clearly understood."

Later in the discussion McCarter said, "I have a sense that we as school committee members will be able to put together a presentation that would win them over in the long run."

Committee Chairman William Jervey expressed concerns many people have about the effects of Proposition 2½. "It's not easy cutting $161,000 from the education budget; it hurts. Next year will be worse."

Jervey questioned how long the schools could continue to take budget cuts and still retain today's educational standards.

WHEN NOT TO USE $125,000 EXEMPTION

Homeowners over age 55 may exclude from gross income any profit up to $125,000 realized on the sale of a principal residence. To qualify for the exclusion, you must be age 55 by the day the residence is sold, and you must have owned the property and used it as a personal residence for at least three of the preceding five years. This tax break can be used only once in a lifetime.

Does this mean that it ALWAYS makes sense to use this tax break if you sell a home for a good profit when you are 55 or older? Not necessarily. This exclusion was made primarily for a retiring couple to sell their old home and buy a small retirement home without having to pay significant capital gains taxes. If you are going to buy another home that will cost as much or more than your present one, it might make more sense to avail yourself of the rollover break which allows you to defer all the profit from the sale and which can be used as many times as you desire.

Sullivan explains TM rules

By SUE SHOR

Town meeting is run by the rules of parliamentary procedure.

Town Moderator John Sullivan explained the process from beginning to end at an orientation meeting last Wednesday night.

The purpose of a warrant is to sufficiently warn the tax payers of an issue the town will take action on. It consists of numerous articles. The articles give a general description of the topic under consideration. Zoning articles must include specific description of the property in question.

In order to begin debate on an article a meeting member must make a motion. "A motion is a question on a specific action such as: Moved that the town purchase an IBM PC computer for $5,000," said Sullivan.

Once a motion has been made and seconded debate can start. Any member can try to change the original motion with an amendment. The amendment must get a majority vote.

"An example, to follow the computer motion, would be, the town should purchase two IBM PCs for $10,000," Sullivan said.

An amendment can only change things within the issue of debate. It cannot be used to change the issue at hand.

Motions may be made to postpone a vote indefinitely or to a specific time in the future, to stop debate and take a vote, to adjourn and to reconsider an issue town meeting has already decided.

Debating is regulated as well. Each speaker has five minutes and can ask for one extension of that time.

John Sullivan

After giving up the floor, a speaker has one more opportunity per issue to speak. The person who made the original motion can have the floor for 10 minutes.

When the town meeting votes to reconsider an article, that article becomes the first order of business at the next meeting. The rule was put in to effect to assure that groups could reorganize in time to represent their argument, according to Sullivan.

Sullivan does not expect decorum problems. "There are times when people will not sit down," Sullivan said. "I can usually handle that. What I don't need is people supporting the guy."

Youth job bank looks

Jobs, like working in stores and offices, which older high school kids do, "but they're not old enough," said Ewing.

Jobs available range from 15 to 20 hours per week and can grow to 40. Clerical, babysitting, housework, retail sales, yard work, and nurses aide jobs are examples of openings, said Monteith.

For most jobs, no previous experience is necessary. After students come in, fill out a form, and get parental permission, they will probably have a job within a week, he said.

"Yard work, we have a hard time getting kids to do. Mothers nag their kids to do their own," he said.

Jobs are listed according to category and are entered into a computer. Openings are matched with a student's request, said Ewing.

On the average, the jobs pay from $4 to 5 per hour, Ewing added.

Ewing urged employers not to be skeptical about hiring students because "we do know all the kids," he said.

Job bank applications are available at the Winchester High School guidance department, the recreation department, and the youth center. For more information call the youth center at 721-7129 or the recreation department at 721-7125.

SCHOOL NOTES

Students and parents to attend 'Drugbusters'

Hundreds of students in grades three-six, and their parents are expected to attend a special "Drugbusters" program Wednesday, May 6, at 7:30 p.m., at the high school auditorium. Now in its second year, the collaborative "Drugbusters" effort by WBZ-TV and the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs is designed to open communication about drug and alcohol abuse between elementary school children and their parents.

The one hour program will be hosted by WBZ-TV's Jack Williams and Governor Michael Dukakis; the presentation features skits performed by the Puppet Trio on peer pressure, drug abuse and family communication.

Following each skit, the audience will be invited to respond to the questions and issues raised.

The "Drugbusters" program was prompted by a state-sponsored survey of 5,000 high school students from across the Commonwealth. The survey revealed that 60 percent of the students had used drugs and that nearly 30 percent of those student first tried drugs at the age of 12 or younger.

The presentation is designed as a "first step" to promote parent/child communication on the topic of drug abuse and to diminish denial of a drug problem so that communities can pull together and work towards a long term solution.

"Drugbusters" is presented in the evening to allow parents to attend the program with their elementary school-age children. More than 8,000 Massachusetts residents have participated in the program in 20 communities throughout the Commonwealth. WBZ-TV sponsors the program as part of the station's FOR KID'SAKE public service campaign which focuses on the opportunities and problems facing today's youth.

For more information about the upcoming "Drugbusters" program contact Jan Dolan at 721-7020.

Jack Williams

Shakespeare, Queen Elizabeth, knights and ladies, jugglers, gymnasts, Maypole dancers, street vendors, shopkeepers, sportsmen, gypsies, executioners, and a few pickpockets and beggars.

Members of Curtain & Cue, the high school drama club, will also present "The Most Lamentable Comedy, and Most Cruel Death of Pyramus and Thisby" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Good eating

Cynthia Kavanaugh's second grade class at St. Mary's school recently completed a nutritional unit focusing on the four food groups.

As a culmination of the unit, the children took part in preparing a well-balanced lunch of a sub sandwich, celery and carrot sticks, vanilla pudding and milk.

This activity included rinsing, slicing, peeling, measuring, mixing, assembling the food on platters and cleaning up.

Children's activities include making buttons and using rubber stamps to make cards. There will be face painting, penny candy and a gluing-project table. Games include basketball toss, the fishing game and ring toss. Pony rides, balloons and a magic show are also planned.

Parents can browse the raffle table and the yard sale area, which will include children's clothing (newborn to 6 years), children's toys and baby equipment, small household items, and books.

Admission is free. Proceeds will benefit the school. Rain date: May 10.

Computer center drive launched

John Otis of Winchester and other members of the board of trustees of Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston are working on plans for a dinner-dance at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel—May 13 at which Massachusetts State Senate President William M. Bulger will be named "Man of the Year."

Boston Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, last year's honoree, will make the presentation. The event is a fundraiser for the new $5 million Electronics/Computer Center dedicated April 11.

Cocktails 7-8 p.m. will be followed by dinner. Entertainer Paul O'Donnell will emcee, and dancing will be to the music of the Ed Peters' band. Tickets are $100 from the office of Fr. Kenneth McAlice, SDB, director of the school, 426-9457.

Mahrya Dakuba, Ben Cooley and Anya Schoenegg of the community music school recently played in a concert in Worcester.

COMMENT

Teen life is so difficult

Hair can be such a drag

By RICHARD MANUGIAN

No matter how bad a day I'm having, I always find it reassuring to remember things could be worse. Much worse.

Consider, for instance, the plight of the modern teen.

When I was a teenager, I had my hands full just keeping my hair combed. But today's teens have to coordinate several different colors of hair, plus style it in all kinds of spikes and patterns. What's more, they have to do all this before their styling mousse dries.

I'm not sure which I'd hate more — having blue and orange hair, or wearing it in spikes and patterns. I had a tough enough time conforming in the early '70s, when all I had to do was let my hair grow over my ears and down my forehead.

Even assuming I managed to color, pattern and point my hair — and could do so before the mousse dried — I'd be lost when it came to today's wardrobes.

Even now, in the dead of winter, teens can be seen everywhere wearing clothes barely warm enough to fend off a spring breeze.

Girls wear thin, brightly colored stretch pants, hemmed so high they bare ankles and calves to the ravages of wind and road slush. Leather shoes and boots, meanwhile, have given way to plastic and rubber footwear simulating dress shoes.

Boys, similarly impervious to the cold, wear skimpy designer t-shirts.

GUEST COLUMN

And any boy who carries a jacket or coat is careful not to wear it but hang it — rakishly, of course — from one shoulder.

Both sexes, meanwhile, seem committed to hatless hair wetted and slicked with styling mousse, regardless of the temperatures outside.

For those teens who manage to avoid illness, physical dangers abound.

First and foremost, teens are no longer allowed to tie their shoelaces. Teens today wear high-top sneakers, with laces loosely untied and tongues protruding up and over baggy pants cuffs.

I'm not sure I have enough coordination to walk around in baggy pants hanging over loose shoes with dangling shoe laces. Worse yet, I know I'd never be able to run to catch a bus.

And today's teens need to be able to catch buses, because so many of them can't afford to buy cars.

When I was in high school, a decent used car could be had for a few hundred dollars. Sure, it might have more dents and rust than a World War II battleship, but so what?

A teenager's car wasn't supposed to look good. After all, that's how you knew it was a teenager's car.

My first car, a 1965 Rambler inherited from my mother in 1973, was rusted out around the rear wheel wells on both sides. Both the radio and the gas gauge were broken, and passengers had to roll down the window and open the door via the outside handle because the inside release usually jammed.

My old Rambler ran faithfully, though, and was still chugging along dependably a couple of years later when we sold it to a neighborhood teen who kept the wheel wells from disintegrating altogether with a liberal application of duct tape.

In the last decade, the price of a decent used car has escalated from a few hundred dollars to a few thousand. And even though today's used cars generally look a lot better, they usually run a lot worse.

In an era of celebrity congressional candidates and feel-good presidential policies, that's called progress.

Teen clothing has progressed, too — into a whole new dimension of shapes, colors and out-of-this-world prices.

When I was in high school, it was easy. A few pairs of LEVIs, a couple pairs of corduroys, a handful of colored B.V.D. t-shirts and I was in business. In fall the fall, of course, I'd have to add a few long sleeved shirts from K-Mart or Bradlees, depending on who had the best sale.

Teens today, however, face a national ostracism if seen by their peers anything but designer clothes tagged with funny names and not-so-funny prices.

My mother's criteria, when she took me shopping for teen clothes, was much simpler: I bought what we could afford, what we knew would keep me warm and dry, and what fit — in that order.

It was so simple, there was no way I could mess up.

As a teen today, however, I'd have to always drive with my sunroof open in order not to crush the spikes in my day-glo green hair. And, in these temperatures, I'd wind up with frost bite all over my wetly moussed scalp and fashionably bare arms and ankles.

In many ways, in fact, the life of today's teens sounds as grim as during the Depression — an era when my parents walked 375 miles to and from school and lined the soles of their shoes with cardboard to pad holes they couldn't afford to fix.

My father always told me I should be thankful I grew up when I did, and today his words ring truer than ever.

Compared to today's teens, I had it easy. Richard Manugian is editor of the Watertown Sun, a Century Newspaper.

AIDS may foster spirituality

By TERRY MAROTTA

The cool San Franciscan sunlight filled the upper room of the little restaurant near the corner of Market and Castro Streets. A brisk spring wind from the open window ruffled the hair of those dining at the table nearest it.

The diners were these: a married couple from Boston; the founder and physician-in-charge of the medical clinic here in this famous gay neighborhood; his administrative assistant; and a social scientist trained in tracking the behaviors and lifestyles of various American subcultures.

These last three are devoting their fulltime professional energies to the disease that in recent months has pushed the American press and public to the point of near-hysteria. The disease is called AIDS, and we, the couple from Boston, had been learning about it firsthand.

AIDS bears no resemblance to the Black Death that killed, by some estimates, a full 70 percent of Europe's inhabitants in the 14th century: it is not a plague. It never will be, at least in this hygienic and public health-minded society. It is infectious, but not contagious, as the Surgeon General has been at pains to point out. It can't be passed by casual contact. How it can be passed was the subject of our discussion over brunch.

The physician views it from the standpoint of the medical profession. From his perspective, the fact that two straight men in this city contracted the disease in 1984 means that it can be spread by sexual practices other than those usually associated with gays, and is, potentially, a threat to the population at large. He thinks case-by-case.

The social scientist argues that the fact that that number has grown only to seven in three years' time means AIDS is probably not a threat to us all. He thinks collectively.

The physician sees sickness every day in the form of AIDS and ARC and the disfiguring lesions of Kaposi's Sarcoma. He works on the front lines. His patients and colleagues call him Dr. No: he preaches a total celibacy.

The social scientist questions the efficacy of such a preaching. They don't agree on this issue.

"The only safe sex is no sex," said the physician.

"Not necessarily," answered the social scientist. "At least not for everyone. What the Surgeon General is proposing — instructing young children, filling with fear straight teenagers who are just now discovering the mysterious and ineffable nature of love — to me it's repugnant. And damaging."

"Fear can be dangerous too," interposed the administrative assistant. "If you stress out," she amplified, "you lose the ability to fight off infection. This is a disease of the immune system, remember."

Their voices grew louder, more impassioned. Yet though they can't agree on some of these issues, they are fellow-travelers still: they are comrades-in-arms. And what they can agree on, what all of us can agree on, is the magnitude of this tragedy, the certain loss to the world of its 32,000 present victims.

The physician has lost his partner and fellow doctor at the clinic to AIDS. A friend at a nearby table has lost his lover of 20 years. The social scientist who is tracking it, and who not coincidentally, is the big brother of this married couple, has lost 30 friends. Only think what the loss of 30 friends would do to your address book.

And yet, he is hopeful. He and his two weary comrades see an odd silver lining to this darkest of clouds.

The community has been spiritually awoken, they say. There's a lot less sex now; but at the same time, there's a lot more love. More support. More simple friendship.

AIDS is not a judgment visited by God on part or all of an erring humanity. It's a disease.

And if it does foster a new spirituality — if it does end by teaching us anew of love's power to flourish even in the face of death itself — well, that will have been a lesson worth the learning again.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Former student criticizes

O'Connell actions

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is addressed to Mr. O'Connell but it is one that I think might interest the town as well.

I feel that it is my obligation, as the 1985-1986 Latin Club President, to write to you in response to some of your comments recorded in the April 9 issue of the Winchester Star. Unfortunately there is a five-day lag between when the town receives the paper and when I do, which accounts for the delay with this letter. I waited until I received the next issue in order to see whether I had any comments to add to those published and I most certainly do. I know very little about Karen Baker and basically do not have an opinion about her performance as assistant vice principal.

However I did have Linda Cicciariello for four years and therefore feel very qualified to assess her ability as a teacher. You said that she was "audacious" to sit in judgment of your career. May I ask why? After all, she is an employee of the town and thus she is one of your employees. Nonetheless, as a resident and voter of Winchester, I do have the right to sit in judgment of your career. Why is it that no other teachers were quoted as having received insulting letters from you? Surely she is not the only one to have responded to the action in the form of a letter. Do you feel that it is your duty to criticize Cicciariello because she is leaving us?

Mr. O'Connell, what ever your reasons, I think you are a hypocrite. I know that I listened to you speak or rather endured your speeches at the MJCL convention and at least one National Latin Exam awards night.

Maybe if you had sat in on some of her classes you would not have displayed your ignorance of the Latin language so blatantly. If I recall correctly, you praised her for her wonderful work as a teacher and how far she has brought the Latin program. What happened to change your mind?

Linda Cicciariello is one of the best teachers I have had and will ever have. She is caring, devoted, enthusiastic and a respected professional. It is because of her that I will be majoring in Latin and as a freshman have already nearly reached the half-way mark. I gave all the credit to her when both my Latin professors commented on how well I know my Latin.

So, Mr. O'Connell please reevaluate your own position in the town before you contradict yourself on one of your employees' status. I would like to conclude by saying that I wholeheartedly endorse what the Latin III class and also my classmates have said in the editorial section of the April 16 paper.

Official thanks voters

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to congratulate all those voters who braved the elements and voters in the Town Election on March 31.

Just by going out in that weather, they showed how important the election was to them. Further, I would like to thank all those voters who voted for me and all my supporters who worked so hard on my behalf.

I pledge to work hard and honestly on their behalf and to live up to the confidence they have placed in me.

Dennis M. O'Malley

Colleague supports Cicciariello

TO THE EDITOR:

It was with great distress that we read two weeks ago in the Winchester Star about the unanimous vote of the school committee against Karen Baker's tenure at the Winchester High School. Although we do not know her personally we have noted her presence at the High School in the better level of communication with parents and the generally "tighter" policies in regard to attendance and behavior.

With school-aged children we are extremely concerned with continued progress in discipline and structure. Karen Baker seemed to be a fine addition to the school's administration. Despite positive evaluations and the recommendation for her tenure by the superintendent, she was denied tenure with no comment. This seems a clear misuse of the power and authority of the committee. Winchester needs teachers and administrators who feel supported, not undermined, by the community which they serve. The school committee seems to make its decisions by rumor and innuendo rather than by the fair and open policies its predecessors wisely set up.

We were further confounded by your attack on the character and professionalism of Linda Cicciariello of the Foreign Language Department at the High School. As a member of the Executive committee of the Classical Association of New England, I can attest that Ms. Cicciariello has been honored by the state and the region for having developed one of the finest Latin programs in New England.

I need only check her students' advanced Placement exam scores as well as the Latin Achievement scores to know that she has served the cause of Latin and of our students in this town. I have had the privilege of teaching with Linda Cicciariello and I can attest from personal experience that she is one of the best in the business.

In short we feel that if the kind of false rumors that informed your attack on Ms. Cicciariello also influenced the decision on Karen Baker, we (as a town and a school system) are in deep trouble.

Thanks to chaperones

TO THE EDITOR:

The Winchester Junior Prom on April 10 was a great success. Everyone had a lot of fun including the many chaperones who made this all possible. We would now like to express our thanks to all of these wonderful people who voluntarily gave up their Friday night for us, the Class of '88. Our sincere thanks to Karen and Fred Baker, Carole and Eli Bortman, Pam Caniff, Richard Conway, Maria and Phil Day, Eleanor and Clyde Hardin, Vincent and Patricia Larooco, Elizabeth and Steven Power, and Sally and Jack Squeglia.

We would just like to let people know that, despite all that Karen Baker is going through, she came to the Junior Prom and did all that she could for us, her head held high.

I, Candi Ashenden, would especially like to thank Mr. Baker and Mr. Conway for dancing with me. They are two very special men.

Thanks again for making the Junior Prom a very memorable one.

Sincerely,
Candi Ashenden

BEACON HILL

The House and Senate. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on two roll calls from the week of April 20-24. There were no roll calls in the House.

Seat Belts (H 5217)- Senate 24-8, gave initial approval to the bill requiring children from age 5 to 12 to wear seat belts and imposing a $25 fine on the operator of the vehicle in which a violation occurs.

Current law requires seat belts or child restraint use only by children under 5.

Supporters said the bill will save lives and money and claimed it will educate and protect children.

Opponents, noting voters rejected any hike in the seat belt age last November, said this is another intrusion by government into people's lives and argued that parents should be responsible for educating their children.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

Group Insurance (S 696)- Senate 23-8, rejected a bill requiring that employees be individually notified by the insurer prior to cancellation of their group insurance policy for non-payment or any other reason and that the policy remain in force for at least 30 days after the mailing of the notice.

Supporters said employees have no way of knowing if their employer is paying their health insurance premiums promptly and argued this is a pro-consumer measure designed to protect the employee against cancellation without advance notice.

Opponents said the bill is discriminatory because it only refers to commercial insurance carriers. They claimed it is unworkable and unenforceable because the insurer does not administer these plans and claimed it would be impossible to notify each employee.

A Yea vote is for the bill. A Nay vote is against it. Kraus voted no.

COMING EVENTS

Unitarian Players present O'Neill play

The Winchester Unitarian Players' production of "Ah, Wilderness!" by Eugene O'Neill opens tomorrow night at 8:15 p.m. in Metcalf Hall in the Winchester Unitarian Church. The play will run for two weekends.

O'Neill set his play in the era of his own boyhood. The action takes place in New London, Conn., on the Fourth of July, 1906.

The central character is 16-year-old Richard Miller (played by Winchester High School junior Eric Mortensen), a poetic, passionate youth on fire with love and poetry, and full of enthusiasm for the dangerous new literature of Shaw, Swinburne and Oscar Wilde.

Richard unwisely sends some copies of his reading to his innocent 15-year-old girlfriend Muriel, which leads her puritanical father to forbid her from ever seeing the dissolute young man again. Richard's despairing reaction and the eventual happy resolution of the conflict form the main thread of the play.

Other characters are: Richard's father Nat, editor of the local newspaper, a generous man with a warm sense of humor who is human enough to have a drink too many at the Sackem Club picnic and then ramble on at the dinner table telling stories about the exploits of his youth, Nat's wife Essie who scolds and fusses over her children, threatening them with dire punishments and then begging Nat not to be hard on them, Essie's brother Sid, a witty drunk who pathetically can never keep either a job or a promise for very long, Nat's sister Lily, in love with Sid, always hoping he will reform, always disappointed, and the Miller children, Arthur, the assured, swaggering Yale sophomore, Mildred, a pretty, popular, teasing 15-year-old, and Tommy, the youngest, still in knickers, setting off firecrackers in the back yard.

Through the play runs a vein of nostalgia for an innocent, somewhat idealized America, for an era of small towns and big families, Fourth of July picnics, evenings spent singing around the parlor piano, and nights sitting on the back porch watching the moon.

The Winchester Unitarian Players will present Eugene O'Neill's comedy of recollection, "Ah, Wilderness!" in Metcalf Hall at 478 Main St. (corner of Main Street and Mystic Valley Parkway), Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2, and Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9.

All performances begin at 8:15 p.m. Tickets for the performances of May 2, 8 and 9 are $5 general admission, $4 for students and senior citizens. Tickets for the May 1 performance, a benefit for the Visiting Nurse and Community Health Association, are $10.

Call 721-1822 for further information and reservations. "Ah, Wilderness!" is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

STAR SPORTS

Jim Herberich (brakeman) and his teammate prepare their bobsled for a run.

Herberich on bobsled team

By MARK NADEAU

Winchester may have a representative in the 1988 Winter Olympics in Calgary: Jim Herberich of the U.S. Bobsled team.

Herberich's Olympic status has yet to be determined, but he is currently teamed with top driver Matt Roy to form the number one team in the two-man division.

He is a brakeman on the team and hopes to qualify for both the two-man and four-man divisions.

Herberich started his bobsledding career shortly before graduating from college two years ago. "At the time, I had no prior interest in the sport," said Herberich. "I had no idea what would happen."

Herberich qualified for the team by completing a rigorous eight-event fitness test which included shot-putting, weight lifting, jumping and sprinting. Such fitness is required to push the 600-pound sled at the start of each run.

Presently, Herberich is working out in track events so he can stay in shape for the upcoming World Cup circuit, which begins in the fall. When the track season ends in June, he will move on to more specialized bobsled training.

If all goes well next season, Herberich will get the go-ahead in the beginning of February, just a couple of weeks before the Games start. The World Cup circuit doesn't end until Jan. 31, and even then there is the slim chance Willie Gault of the Chicago Bears may be inserted in Herberich's place.

Bobsledding has been dominated by Switzerland and East Germany in recent years. These countries give unlimited financial support to the sport so that engineers can design the most innovative sleds and riders can be recruited from all over the country.

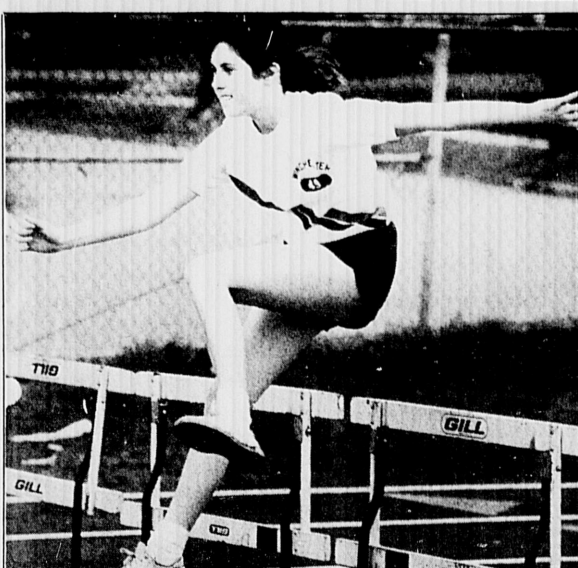

The U.S. Bobsled Team, on the other hand, is not government subsided. They get all their financial support from corporate sponsors, small businesses, and individuals. Also, the sport in the United States is geographically limited to Lake Placid, where the only world-class training site is located. For these reasons, recruitment and training are limited.

Taking into account such weaknesses, Herberich thinks it will be a "longshot" for the United States to take a gold medal in Calgary. "It's not our major goal," he said. "We just want to do as well as we can."

However, Herberich has not ruled out the possibility of a medal for the U.S. and plans on working hard towards this goal.

After the Olympics, he would like to make the switch from brakeman to driver. However, the politics of the sport, he feels, will make this possibility remote. Instead, he will probably return to college.

Lacrosse squad wins squeaker

By MARK NADEAU

A key penalty late in the final period helped the Winchester High School boys' lacrosse team edge Brookline 8-7.

Robby Arcari and Kent McCord scored following a controversial penalty call on a Brookline player for using an illegal stick. Brookline was forced to play the next three minutes one man short in what is called a three-minute locked-in penalty.

The victory was pivotal for the Sachems, who improved their record to 4-3 and now face a stretch of five games in seven days beginning with Lexington on Friday.

In the Sachems' other contest last week, they nipped Weymouth North by the same 8-7 score. George Nowell had the hat trick while Co-Captain Mike Murray and Arcari had two goals each. This game was not as dramatic as the Brookline matchup but it helped the Sachems rebound from a tough loss to Billerica, which assistant coach John Pirani still thinks Winchester should have won.

Winchester's other two losses came at the hands of legitimate powers Concord-Carlisle and Newton North. Pirani said if the Sachems take four out of five in the tough stretch coming up, they will be in great shape.

Rain has played a major role in the team's season thus far. In addition to forcing them to play five games in one week, Pirani says the rain has hampered practices, especially those following losses.

"We like to work on and correct our mistakes after losses but the rain has kept us from doing this," said Pirani.

Friday's game with Lexington will start at 3:30 p.m. at Skillings Field.

Tennis team stops Burlington

By MARK NADEAU

The Winchester High School girls tennis team bounced Burlington 5-0 Monday to remain undefeated in the Middlesex League.

Last week the team started slowly, edging Melrose by a 3-2 count before coming on at the end of the week to trounce Wakefield 4-1 and Watertown 5-0.

Monday's victory over Burlington was led by sophomore Laura Tozza at first singles. She lost her first match against Melrose, but has come on strong since to win her next three matches.

Junior Kelly O'Callaghan at second singles and senior co-captain Kristin Rothman have unblemished records thus far as does the second doubles combination of Brenda Outwater and Jennifer Bush. Jen Ciotti and Kathy Furey at first doubles have had the toughest start so far losing their first two matches against Melrose and Wakefield before turning it around against Watertown and Burlington.

Girls coach Roseann Innes says the talent around the league has improved this year.

"The fact that we won last week 3-2 and 4-1 (shows that) our days of 5-0, 5-0 right through the season are over," said Innes. "The league is much more competitive now."

Innes said this year's team is different from those of the past because it features former junior varsity players, particularly in doubles.

"In the past, whenever two or three kids graduated I would have three or four freshmen tournament-type players coming in. This year is the first time I've had kids who played two or three years of junior varsity coming in and playing varsity. It's a nice twist," said Innes.

With the growth in talent around the Middlesex League this year, Innes believes the wins won't come as easy, but the Sachettes will have to use a lot of "psyche, spirit, and pulling together" to take the league title.

Winchester '9' loses 2 games

By MARK NADEAU

The Winchester High School baseball team had a rough week which included a 22-1 drubbing at the hands of Melrose and a 17-14 free-for-all loss to Burlington not to mention a 6-0 shutout defeat by Reading.

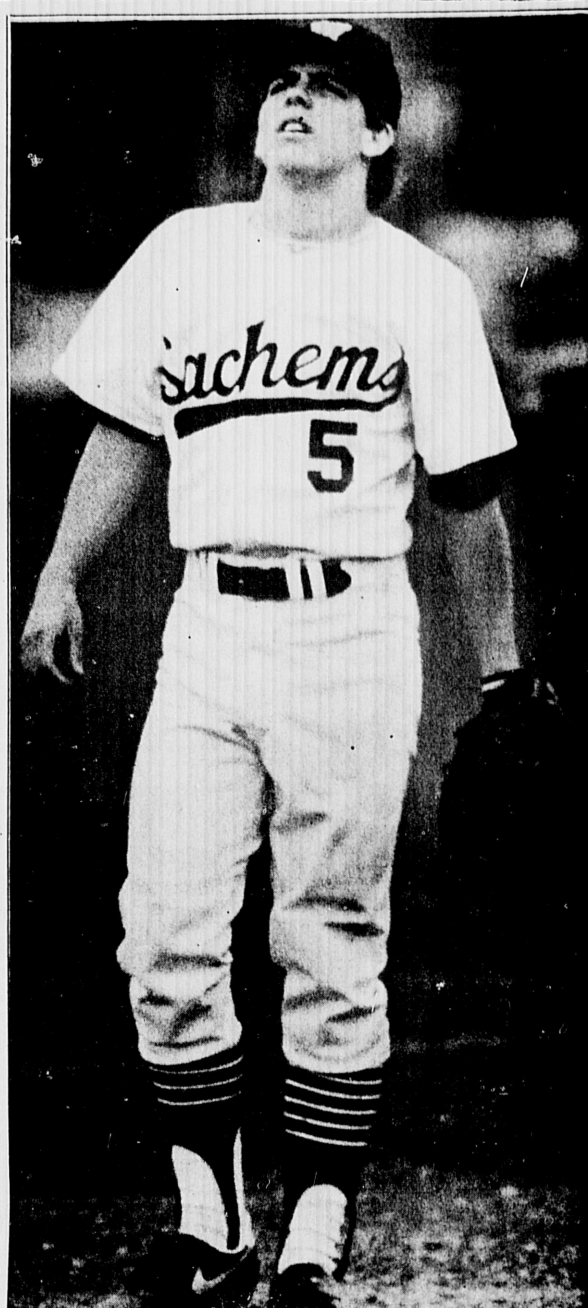

Nothing needs to be said about the Melrose debacle but the Burlington game was a wild one which featured a 10-run inning for each side.

Prior to the game with Burlington, Sachem bats had been silent accounting for only three runs in three contests. But in the second inning the Sachems roared to a 10-0 lead behind two three-run triples by Rob Glynn and John Kirkpatrick.

However, Burlington answered with 10 runs of their own in the top of the third and went on to hand the Sachems their fourth loss.

Winchester's luck did not change against the Reading Rockets on Monday. They committed three early errors which led to a 5-0 deficit in the first two innings. But one run would have been more than enough for Rocket ace Steve Lane who silenced the Sachem bats and kept his earned run average at an incredible (0.00).

Winchester will try for their first victory when they host Stoneham at Skillings Field, weather permitting.

Girls track team victorious

By MARK NADEAU

The Winchester High School girls' track team hammered Watertown 91-45 last week to improve their record to 2-1.

One of the key performers for the Sachettes was Michelle Sweeney who swept the hurdle events and currently holds the best time in the Middlesex League for the 100-meter hurdles.

Among the other winners were Laura Rutherford in the 400m run, Lauren Chabot in the two-mile, Terri Donaghey in the javelin toss, Debbie Skahan in the triple jump and Cindy Whitehead in the shotput. In addition, the Sachettes swept the 4-100 relay and the 4-440 relay races.

Coach Joe Cantillon says he has two of the best hurdlers in the Middlesex League in Sweeney and Rutherford. He also had high praise for Chabot in the two-mile. Cantillon also said that Jane O'Neil has been running well in the 800m and should be considered one of the league's best.

Cantillon thinks his young team could run into trouble as the season progresses, especially against the likes of undefeated Woburn and Stoneham.

"Most of these kids have never run track before and I think we'll have our work cut out for us," said Cantillon.

The Sachettes face Burlington and Reading this week and Cantillon feels the meet with Burlington will be an excellent matchup and a strong test for his young team.

FITNESS FIRST

Nautilus/Aerobics Center—Growing Strong

Success has come early and continually to Fitness First, a local health club, since it opened in Arlington Center three years ago. What started out as a modest sized club featuring Nautilus equipment, has now grown to be one of the largest Nautilus and Aerobics centers in New England. "The demand in this area for a high quality, well equipped, and comprehensive fitness center accounts for our continued growth," explained Larry Cronin, one of the owners. "Most of our members have shopped around looking for a club they recognize quality and value, and they love our facility when they see what we have," added Cronin.

What Fitness First does have is a clean, spacious and attractive facility spread out over a newly renovated 10,000 sq. ft. area. While the physical plant itself is very impressive, there is something more subtle that makes Fitness First unique. It's the people that are here that make this club different. The staff is terrific, they're highly qualified and interested in the welfare of the members. And the members themselves are a nice mixture of people, half men and women, of different ages and interests.

Together both staff and members blend to create a relaxed, friendly atmosphere where everyone can feel comfortable," stated the owner. "We also constantly try to improve the quality of our programs," mentioned the owner. "We have carefully chosen and trained our Nautilus Staff, have recently renovated the facility, and added more equipment."

This would be in addition to the most complete equipment line-up in the area including 34 Nautilus machines, Women's Nautilus, Physical Therapy Clinic, and a beautiful 1200 sq. ft. Dance Studio with 46 Aerobics classes per week—all free to members. One special point of pride for Fitness First is the Aerobics Staff, a group of 12 highly-skilled professionals chosen from over 100 applicants. "As a group, they're the best Aerobics instructors we've ever seen," stated the owner proudly.

These reasons may explain why Fitness First has become the most popular athletic club in the area. "We have become truly a regional facility with most of our members from a 7 town area around Arlington," stated Mr. Cronin.

Several hundred satisfied customers attest to the continued local support of Fitness First.

WHS grad brings health care to Asia

Heidi Kim Do of Winchester, an honor graduate of Yonsei University School of Nursing in Seoul, Korea, and a nursing educator at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn, has just returned from a month-long visit to her alma mater where she led classes in nursing education and leadership.

Do reports the large 1000-bed Medical Center Hospital at Yonsei University, the first rehabilitation hospital in Korea will open in May, and claims a role in inspiring health care leaders in her homeland to do something about the increasing need for rehabilitation facilities.

She was president of the student body in 1968 when she graduated and was invited back to emphasize her philosophy of rehabilitation nursing education. Two important factors she considers are "caring and commitment." The new rehabilitation hospital unit in Seoul will have 140 beds.

Do was awarded her master's degree in nursing by Ohio State University in 1975, where she also graduated with honors, and is now a doctoral candidate at Boston University School of Nursing.

She is engaged in intensive study and writing her thesis on "cross-cultural nursing, comparing health practices and beliefs among different cultures. She will graduate in May, 1988.

Do has been at the NERH seven years, beginning as an education coordinator.

Earlier, she was a staff nurse four years at the Ohio State University Medical School, two years on the staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chicago, and five years at Penn State University as nursing instructor from 1975-80.

Group insurance costs climb, says Maurer

The town incurred unexpectedly high group insurance costs during the 1987 fiscal year and was forced to ask town meeting during its special session Monday for an additional $125,000 to fund the deficit.

Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer presented the article, saying, "Costs went up faster than we expected they would at last year's town meeting."

He explained that the rise in premiums occurred after the 1987 budget was completed. Premiums have gone up every year for the past five, but the magnitude of last year's increase was unanticipated, he said.

Maurer mentioned that the funds for both the insurance line item and the police increase had already been deducted from Free Cash. "We assumed the appropriation," he said.

Gerard Polcari, the Finance Committee Chairman, said that insurance costs are "extremely difficult to control," and recommended a favorable vote.

There was a fair amount of comment from the floor on the high rates charged by Blue Cross/Blue Shield. Members wanted to know if there were not an alternative supplier.

Maurer explained that Blue Cross/Blue Shield is the only insurer who covers people over 65, and that the town has to take care of employees for their entire life span.

He said 22 people were added to the plan this year, mostly individuals who joined on Dec. 1, the plan's entry date.

"It was a very bad year for major claims," he said. "There were tragic situations in family situations. $400,000 in claims was paid out to a small group of employees. This causes costs to go up."

The appropriation was unanimously approved.

Sullivan stresses participation

The moderator swore in 85 Winchester town meeting members Wednesday.

The League of Women Voters, Town Clerk Carolyn Ward, and Town Moderator John Sullivan sponsored the event for newly elected town meeting members.

Sullivan, who has been moderator for 10 years, gave a pep talk to new members. "Feel free to speak," Sullivan told the audience. "Don't worry about parliamentary procedure."

"Attendance is very important, more in perception than in fact," Sullivan said. "We want the public to perceive that the town meeting is doing its job."

Sullivan outlined his method of running the meeting. He stressed participation. "If you want to do something, don't worry about how to do it, just stand up and do it," he said. "Don't struggle with a motion. If you're not sure about it, ask me. I'll give you the motion."

Although Sullivan said he does not expect any problems with decorum, he has recourse if a something untoward do occur.

"A town moderator has a unique power. It's about his only power in Winchester: he has the power to put somebody in jail for the duration of the town meeting," he said with a smile. "I only came close once, but I would like to do it before I retire."

After Sullivan's brief orientation, Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer went over all warrant articles that had not been previously discussed.

Zoning bylaw change fails to win TM nod

McCall-Taylor argued that so-called "inclusionary zoning" could be a second step, but that the amendment was needed to "give us leverage" with developers. She also said that the Planning Board has met with the consultant and taken its findings to date into account.

As a compromise, the Planning Board offered to grandfather two multi-family development projects already in progress if the developers pull their permits by Jan. 1.

David Mortensen, a town meeting member and chairman of the Special Study Committee on Low and Moderate Income Housing, asked the members to vote against the amendment "at this time," saying that it was a "subject of greater debate than we have done here. Whether or not the suggestion is a good one, it should be delayed."

He reminded members that a "lot of pain" was taken last year to obtain the zoning variances for the seven units of Chapter 705 housing, and that the permit for them "might not make Jan. 1," which would "undo the zoning accepted a year ago." Chapter 705 is a state program that provides rent subsidies to eligible families.

Town meeting member Clarence Borggaard said the amendment would, "increase the amount of real estate necessary for a unit," and called the amendment a "measure directed against affordable housing."

To pass, the amendment would have needed a 2/3 majority vote. The motion finally made was to postpone the discussion indefinitely. It passed 96 to 56.

The Planning Board can bring the article back to town meeting any time during the next two years.

School Committee to post agenda

The Winchester School Committee announced it will post its agenda at Town Hall.

The agenda is also posted in all the schools, at the public library and at the local cable network.

The agenda will be posted in town hall to give the public better access to them. The next two meetings are scheduled for May 12 and 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Lynch School.

Copy deadline

Contributions for publication submitted by 4 p.m. Monday will be considered for that Thursday's paper.

Contributors are requested to submit typed, double-spaced copy.

Submission by the deadline does not, however, guarantee publication the same week, as final decisions on what to include each week are made based on space considerations.

Every attempt will be made to place time-sensitive copy in a timely manner.

Communication, budget high on town officers' reports

(From page 1)

"We all need each other, whatever our background," she said. "I invite everyone in this room to adopt the watchword 'communications.'"

Polcari discussed the general state of the town's finances.

He said that his committee was recommending a 1988 budget of $31,402,000, which represents a 6.1 percent increase over last year.

The budget, he said, was $81,600 under the proposition 2½ ceiling, assuming favorable action on article 5, a computer funding request.

He mentioned that an increase in trash disposal and group insurance costs for 1988 were major line items, and that operating budgets were being funded at the expense of capital outlays, a trend which cannot continue indefinitely.

He said the town has three choices: charge fees for services, cut services and programs, and/or exempt some debt services from proposition 2½ constraints. Major capital programs can be funded this way, he said.

'The enactment of fiscally responsible decisions is all of our responsibility.'

Judith Muggia

The town can fund the budget, but future programs are in jeopardy, he added.

"Look beyond and vote accordingly," he concluded.

Maurer said the town is in a "difficult position." He pointed out that there are major increases in expenditures with no increases in services.

He mentioned the trash disposal and insurance problems as "well over a half million we felt a year ago we had licked."

He stressed the "importance of understanding the manner in which we receive revenues."

Real and personal property taxes contribute $23 million. The state adds about $5 million. Water and sewer revenues account for about $1.3. Auto excise taxes contribute about $1.5 million. Interest on invested funds yields another $200,000.

The tax base is the biggest component and it is not growing. Maurer pointed out that both the municipal and educational budgets are growing faster than revenues.

"There are 578 municipal employees and they want raises like everyone else," he said.

"All the articles mean something to various groups in the town," he added.

members that "things have not proceeded as quickly as we had wished." He said that progress has been made, though, an architect has recently been hired. Bids need to come next, he said.

"We don't know the results of test borings," he said. The committee is working on the seven units of Chapter 706 housing that the town has committed itself to building.

League supports land-use planning

At meetings in early April the long-range land use planning committee of the Winchester League of Women Voters presented results of recent research.

The topic of long-range land use planning has been chosen by the League as a priority, and the recommendation will be made to members at the annual meeting May 19 that more in-depth research be done next year, with consensus recommendations as the final result of the research project.

Housing committee mandate extended

The Special Study Committee on Low and Moderate Income Housing has had its mandate extended until the fall of 1987.

The town meeting approved Monday night the half-year extension at the recommendation of Judith Muggia, the chairman of the selectmen, who sponsored the article.

David Mortensen, the chairman of the committee, told town meeting

Confrontation: Ribman works are provoking

A.R.T.'s Masque wonderfully menacing

Review

Earlier this year the American Repertory Theatre presented Ronald Ribman's wonderful full-length play Sweet Table at the Rye Playhouse. Now, as part of its New Stages series, A.R.T. has mounted the remaining segments of this trilogy with the world premiere of the one-act play The Carnival Masque and A Serpent's Egg through May 16/17 at 12 Broadway St. in Cambridge.

In both plays, Ribman focuses upon confrontation: the brutal war of the human, the prosperous versus the unfortunate, the greedy versus the contented and the ultimate triumph of the disadvantaged.

Ribman's work is absorbing and thought-provoking; the scripts are fast and expertly plotted; the language is stark and spare, lean and sharp.

In the hands of lesser talents, these word-dense exercises of pre-emptive war could easily have proven tedious, but with the expertise of John Bonomo and Richard Grant, Jeremy Gault and Harry S. Murphy, and the knowledgeable direction of David Wheeler, each play builds to a crashing crescendo and comes home with critics flying.

The Carnival Masque takes place in a dimly lit, seedy cafe in Sweden during the famine of 1923. A faded-looking woman (Jane Lin) seizes the piano keys, singing German tunes (acknowledged). She claims to be famous, concerned about her body image, but is not above selling her body cheaply. A professionally-looking German diner (Bonomo) sits at a center table clucking his briefcase.

A young American workman (Grant) enters. Drawing through to the East, he has stopped for lunch. He is mean and tough, not tempered and drunk. While demanding a hot pork dinner with all the fixings, he insists on paying only one cigarette for beer during the war. The young worker (Er. Schwab) who thinks he is a relative of the great German leader and general, von Hindenburg, is naughty and mischievous.

"You see through all these illustrations," claims the diner as he resorts to all sorts of verbal trickery to bait the American, pushing him, then back-peddling when he realizes the trap gone bad for, retreating to humbleness, then moving ahead with Ribman to move up a notch or two.

The American is better on his feet, lifting the others, using force is necessary. But the German diner is clever. Between puffs of his cigarette, he plants seeds of distrust. He repeats rumors about the cafe.

How come they always have good meat, poultry, etc. is starving? Why have persons disappeared after coming to the restaurant? Why have no bodies been located? ... (on their clothing, some of which is in the German diner's briefcase).

The German suggests without explaining that the two play an old and intricate. He is quietly and brilliantly misleading. As the American profits the two, in tedious, raise their glasses and toast "God."

The Serpent's Egg takes place over a picnic lunch for a remote German mountaineer (permanently ill) in the late 1950s. An old civil servant (Jeremy Gault) finds solitude and privacy—a space for himself—on the lonely and rugged terrain where he has spent the past year. He travels with caution. "It is a notorious story of obsession, madness... A boulder practices up like a serpent's egg and smothered your ankle!" While noting the peril of isolated mountain travel, he also reflects upon the murders misquoting an accident.

Removing the china, silver and wine from his picnic basket—an essence of man's own nobility—his tranquility is soon intruded upon by him. Gutzmann (Harry S. Murphy), new owner of the mountain, he informs the old man that the former owner is dead and orders him to leave or pay for the privilege of using his mountain. "Nothing is for free unless you are willing to pay for it!"

The old man attempts to reason, pleads and cajoles. Gutzmann belittles and insults him while helping himself to the sickly picnic lunch. Gutzmann brags of his plans to buy all the surrounding mountains, thus depriving the local farmers of land upon which to graze their cattle unless they pay handsomely.

Gutzmann bugs the civil servant's scarf, pulling it off, and revealing a monstrously ugly tumor on the man's neck. He ridicules: "It looks like a serpent's egg!"

The old man picks up a boulder and smashes Gutzmann's ankle. "What now, King of the Mountain?" he laments. As he picks up his picnic basket and heads down the perilous terrain, Gutzmann screams, "Herr Gutzmann needs help," only to hear his own echo.

Who is the victim, who the victimizer?

Boston Ballet turns to tales

Boston Ballet artistic director Bruce Marks and associate director Bruce Wells will choreograph Tales of Hans Christian Andersen, an anthology of three story ballets based on tales by the legendary Hans Christian Andersen, to be premiered at The Wang Center for the Performing Arts, May 7-17. The production will be designed by Jens Jacob Worsaae, renowned set and costume designer from the Royal Danish Theatre.

The stories of Hans Christian Andersen have been the basis of inspiration for many ballets. Marks and Wells have chosen three tales: The Ice Maiden, The Steadfast Tin Soldier, and The Wild Swans, to be set to the enchanting music of Igor Stravinsky, George Bizet and Claude Debussy.

The Ice Maiden has been previously choreographed under the name of Le Baïser de la Fée (The Fairy's Kiss). The original music and book was written by Stravinsky and was first performed by the Paris Opera in 1928 with choreography by Nijinska.

goddess who appears as a sweet young girl to woo handsome villagers as they climb the treacherous Alps. When a young child is abandoned in the snow, the fairy kisses the boy coldly with a fatal kiss that seals his eternal devotion to her.

The boy becomes a man and, with no recollection of the fairy's power over him, is engaged to be married. The Ice Maiden returns to fulfill the prophecy of her kiss and carries the young man away with her to the Land of Eternal Dwelling.

The Steadfast Tin Soldier, set to George Bizet's La Jolie Fille de Perth and Jeux d'Enfants, was first choreographed by George Balanchine in 1975.

A tender love story, The Steadfast Tin Soldier traces the misadventures of a toy soldier whose yearning for a paper ballerina provokes a jealous shove from a Jack-in-the-Box.

Fallen from the windowsill, whisked down a gutter, swallowed by a fish, the tin soldier makes his comic, steadfast way right back to the dinner table in the house where he once lived.

The first-ever ballet of The Wild Swans will be set to Debussy's Danses Sacres et Profanes and La Mer.

A nearly perfect kingdom enjoyed by one little princess and eleven little princes is shattered by an evil stepmother. She banishes the princess from her home, and transforms her brothers into wild swans, fated to fly every day from dawn to dusk.

Only her enduring love and sacrifice can break the evil spell.

Ticket prices are $30.50, $25.50, $21.50, $17.50, $10.50 and $40.50. All prices include a $5.00 Wang Center restoration fee.

Curtain times are 7 p.m. on Thursday opening nights, 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evening performances, and 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday matinees. Tickets can be ordered by calling Ticketmaster at 1-800-682-8080.

Irish Festival stages

Rat in the Skull

Boston Shakespeare Company and New Voices will stage Ron Hutchinson's play Rat in the Skull, directed by Tina Packer, as part of the Northern Irish Theatre Festival, beginning Wednesday, May 6 through May 31 in the downstairs theatre, 52 St. Botolph St., Boston.

Preview performances are May 2 through May 5, and a symposium about the play led by Seamus Heaney and Kevin O'Neill is scheduled May 7.

In Rat in the Skull, a London police station is holding Roche, a suspected IRA terrorist, for questioning. Nelson, a detective from Ulster's predominantly Protestant police force, the RUC, has been called in to lead the interrogation. Through the bitterly personal confrontation between Roche, the Catholic city rat and Nelson, the Protestant farm boy, Hutchinson dramatizes and humanizes the conflicts in Ireland.

Jonathan Epstein plays Nelson, the RUC detective. Colin Lane plays IRA Demon Bomber Roche.

Ted Kazanoff plays Superintendent Harris, the honest copper trying to make sense of the confrontation. Naylor, a naive London policeman is played by Jim Connor.

Tina Packer, artistic director of Boston Shakespeare Company, will direct Rat in the Skull. The play was first mounted at The Royal Court Theatre in London in 1984, and then taken to the New York Shakespeare Festival in 1985.

Poet Seamus Heaney, and Kevin

O'Neill, Professor of Irish Studies at Boston College will lead a discussion on Sources of Tribal and Personal Violence following the May 7th performance of Rat in the Skull. The play begins at 7:30 p.m.

Performances are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m., Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets are priced at $13 on Tuesday through Thursday and Sunday, $15 for Friday and Saturday. Previews are one-half price.

The symposium is free. Call 267-5600.

Beginning at 3 p.m., the program will feature Anthony and Joseph Paratore as guest artists. The program includes music by Debussy, Poulenc, and Bruckner.

Anthony and Joseph Paratore were born in Boston and come from a large, closely-knit musical family.

After graduating from the Boston University School of Fine And Applied Arts, they became students at Juilliard where, under the tutelage of Rosa Lhevinne, they were encouraged to become a duo-piano team.

The Paratores have played a major role in reviving the art of duo pianism.

Civic Symphony Orchestra presents performances of standard orchestral repertoire and American compositions, providing young artists an opportunity to perform under the direction of a professional conductor with established soloists.

Hobart has served as musical director, bringing considerable expertise and experience to the orchestra. What To Do

Story by Sam Lasoff Photos by Wes Schmale

Save: Spenser

Campaign to save T.V. program heats up

Some people, like the Grim Reaper, can smell death coming — even if it's only coming to a television show.

To those people, it's a hunch, an educated guess. And they're actually good at it — predicting a show's demise, that is. People like Nielsen statisticians. Television executives. TV critics, even though they have enough to think about. Even the viewing public.

In Massachusetts, part of the viewing public, a very small part, had just that sort of hunch when it came to ABC's "Spenser: For Hire."

And for whatever their individual reasons, they did not want to see this television show succumb to a fate some believe is worse than natural death — premature cancellation.

That's why a mammoth combination of petition drives and write-in campaigns have been started to try and stop what they hope is not inevitable.

Spurred on by the Massachusetts Film Bureau, the campaign to save the TV show has received national attention. Reports of the grass roots movement have appeared in USA Today, on Entertainment Tonight, and most recently, in Newsweek magazine.

Locally, the loyal support first surfaced last week in an advertisement in North Shore: Sunday, the headline reading "Join The Campaign To Save Spenser: For Hire." The quarter-page ad urged that the show be saved for a variety of reasons, including the facts that it "Shows the country our beautiful and historic scenery," and that it has a "Quality cast, crew, and programming."

According to the advertisement, 100,000 cards are needed for the petition drive, all of which should be sent to Brandon Stoddard, an executive at ABC in Los Angeles.

The ad was placed by Pamela Christo, owner of the Pamela Christo Dance Centers of Danvers and Lynn.

"I'm very proud to have the Urichs and 'Spenser: For Hire' represent us to the rest of the country," says Pamela Christo. "But a friend of mine, Cindy Hall, first took out a half-page ad in the Andover Townsman to help save the show and I guess that's where I got the idea. Since I had business on the North Shore, I thought it would be a good idea to advertise my feelings in the area."

The reasons for attempting to save the show from television's growing graveyard — at least for Pamela Christo and Cindy Hall — were personal.

"Well, Pam and I are good friends with Heather Menzies (Bob Urich's wife)," says Hall. "We're all in the same aerobics class (the Urichs live in Andover)."

"They're not your typical Hollywood stereotypes. We'd like to see them stay in the area," explains Christo.

Friendship isn't the reason many others have joined the Save Spenser parade, however. The bottom line in most cases is money.

The person nearly everyone agrees is the instigator of the drive is non other than Mary Lou Crane, executive director of the Massachusetts Film Bureau.

"'Spenser: For Hire' spends $50 million a year in the Bay State and employs 800 people," says Crane, who is also the daughter of State Treasurer Bob Crane. "We initiated the campaign back on March 17 because the show's fate was going to be decided soon, and we felt that it hadn't had much time to build a true audience because of scheduling problems."

"Spenser," says Crane, accounts for 33 percent of all the film production completed in Massachusetts.

The first step was to find a sounding board. WBZ radio was approached to see if anyone there would help kick-off the campaign. No dice. So the film bureau asked Jack Roberts, producer of WRKO's Ted & Janet show. He bought.

"We thought it would be a good one-day question," says Roberts. "We were talking about aid to the Contreras and the Pollard case (the Jewish-American who was sentenced to life for spying for Israel) when we brought the Save Spenser campaign up for discussion. Then, that's all everyone wanted to talk about. It went on for days. The media took over from there, and Entertainment Tonight picked up the story."

After that, the letters and telegrams began pouring in — 8,000 to date.

One of those who wanted to be more than just a voice in the growing chorus was Bruce Bolling, president of the Boston City Council, who introduced a resolution before the council proclaiming a day last month (Bolling couldn't remember which one) "Save Spenser: For Hire Day."

Although Bolling admits to watching the show only a couple of times, he thinks it should be saved — not only because it brings a lot of money into the state, but because of the sociological statements it makes.

"I think Spenser shows a good working relationship between a black man and a white man," says Bolling, the first black president of the city council. "Given Boston's recent history, I think it shows this town in a different light."

Boston wasn't the only town to get in the act, either. The town of Spenser, Massachusetts, changed its name to "Spenser" just long enough to get some publicity.

As of yet, no other town in the Commonwealth has followed suit. But like Christo and Hall's local efforts, ads, editorials, and letters-to-the-editor have been making the rounds in newspapers across the state.

So far, most of the people who have been signing petitions, writing letters and sending telegrams are women.

"It comes out to be about 65 men to 35 women," says Mike Maschio, "Spenser: For Hire's" producer. "We thought it would be maybe 80 men to 20 women when the campaign started. This really is

What To Do

Public outcry may save Urich's show

surprising."

When you look at Robert Urich, the star of "Spenser: For Hire," it isn't really surprising that some of the biggest fans are women. Based on the "Spenser" novels by local writer Robert B. Parker, Spenser is a working-class ex-cop, ex-amateur boxer, anti-intellectual private investigator, who knows right from wrong and acts accordingly most of the time. Helping out once in a while is Hawk, a sort of underworld character who does whatever his clients want him to do. Hawk, like Spenser, knows right from wrong. Unlike Spenser, he doesn't always act accordingly.

There are no strong women in the cast, not since the character of Susan Silverman (played by Barbara Strook) was cut after the first year. But producers believed that audiences of the '80s — particularly women — would relate to an action series dealing with two intelligent and sensitive men.

Urich, who has been in only two movies of any note on the silver screen, "Ice Pirates" and "Endangered Species," is hardly what anyone would call a matinee idol. His bread and butter has always been made on the tube in critically panned shows like "Vegas," "Tabitha," "S.W.A.T.," "Soap" (the nighttime soap), and the television version of "Bob, Ted, Carol, and Alice."

If ratings alone are considered, "Spenser" probably should follow those bombs to the boneyard. Last year, during its first season, "Spenser" ranked 66 out of 96 shows. This year, it's even lower, coming in at 78.

Producer Maschio has a theory about the low ratings: "When we opened the show last year, we went head-to-head with 'Miami Vice,' the hottest show in America. So it ('Spenser') was moved to Tuesday nights, just before 'Moonlighting.' But where a show is ranked at the beginning of a season isn't as important as where it is at the end."

"This year, we've been locked into Saturday night, which in itself is looking for an audience. But what our show has done is to prove that we can build audiences because our nightly share has increased, independent of our overall ratings."

Maschio thinks that all the publicity generated by the campaign to save "Spenser" could work. But why does he need 100,000 responses?

"Why not?" asks Maschio. "A Nielsen rating share, a point, is figured out to be about one million viewers. And television executives have also calculated that a letter written and received is worth about 500 viewers, so 10,000 letters is five million viewers and 100,000 letters would be 50 million viewers. Last year's show, 'Designing Women,' which was going to be cancelled, was saved with a 12,000 letter campaign."

Grass roots write-in campaigns have worked before, saving some good shows that otherwise wouldn't have been given a chance.

Grass roots write-in campaigns have worked before, saving some surprisingly good shows that otherwise wouldn't have been given a second chance. "Hill St. Blues," "Cagney & Lacey," and "St. Elsewhere" were all television shows that stumbled on their way to popularity and, eventually, awards. They were all saved by letter writers.

The Film Bureau's Crane and producer Maschio believe that "Spenser: For Hire" can prove itself in a better time slot.

"We'd like a night where we can perform," says Maschio. "That's all we're asking for."

ABC executives were unavailable for comment, as they have been all during the campaign. Eventually, however, the show's fate is in the hands of Brandon Stoddard, the head of ABC Entertainment, and his associates. Their verdict will come shortly.

In the meantime, people like Pamela Christo and Cindy Hall continue to be proud of their friends, the Urichs, and what they think the show represents.

"It's unfair to kill a show because of the ratings," says Hall. "I know that sounds silly, but it's silly to get excited about such things as Roger Clemens. isn't it?"

Hall might get an argument about that. Then again, she might not.

What About Art?

By Meredith Fife Day

Nina Bohlen's 1973 monotype, Woodcock, is among the works on view in the DeCordova Museum's exhibition of drawings from the Boston Public Library collection.

Library's works shown

The exhibition, Drawings from Boston: Selections from the Boston Public Library Collections, is on view through May at the DeCordova Museum, Sandy Pond Road, Lincoln. One hundred selected works by 50 living artists who have ties to Boston fill the galleries with variety and range from the watery delicacy of Bernard Chaet's dispersed fruits and Caroline Stone's landscapes to the blocky, hard-hitting graphic statements of Paul Szep and Arnold Trachtman.

Curated by Sinclair Hitchings, Keeper of Prints at the library, and Rachel Rosenfield Lafo, senior curator at the museum, the exhibition is the first major presentation of works chosen from the library's large (2,000 works by 230 artists), but little-known collection of drawings.

In a video tape on view with the drawings, Hitchings talks with artist Barbara Swan, whose works are included among those exhibited. The two reminisce and recount the evolution of Boston's art scene from a small and intimate community to the present diverse and inclusive group. Hitchings maintains that intimacy continues to be a hallmark of the collected drawings, noting that he equates, in Boston's literary interests, the intimate act of writing with that of drawing. The library, says Hitchings, "collects drawings for their...highly personal quality."

The introspection and caring observation in portrait-making is much in evidence throughout the galleries. Even when the size is large, as in Suzanne Hodes' portrait of Isaac Bashevis Singer, the artist opts not for the monumental, but for the very personal and expressive lines in her subject's face and hands.

Lest the assumption be made that intimacy precludes drama and forceful presence, the eight small, powerful drawings of Nan Wezniak assert themselves with fullness and intensity in black-white shape relationships that transcend beauty and elegance and emerge mysteriously physical and ephemeral at once.

Conley Harris' landscapes have another kind of force. Crisp and sure graphic control pushes darks to pitch-black descriptive lines that hold hard against both transitional value changes and the paper's white.

Viewers may well find the definition of drawing a question inferred by the painting-like works of Deborah Cornell, Susan Heideman and Earl Powell. Colored, layered and worked, these pictures remain true to Hitchings' standard of intimacy as a constant in the collection while raising the issue of what does or does not constitute a drawing.

More immediate, and even urgent, in their presentation are the studies for sculptures by Harold Tovish, Ruth Mordecai Slavet and Marianne Pinada. The happy clutter of Reed Kay's View from Studio Window of 1960 is as fresh and lively as the moment, as if the drawing were regenerating itself as it is viewed.

James Weeks' placid Concord River, cushioned by trees along its banks, sings softly of light and air, while a different note is struck in the dark and haunting landscapes of Jonathan Scoville and the dense, leaning, almost-woven forms of Robert Birmelin.

There is, in this interesting show, a wealth of diversity tied together by consistently high quality. For museum hours and information, call 259-8355.

Concurrent exhibitions at the DeCordova Museum include small-scale sculpture from the permanent collection and recent paintings and drawings by Cambridge artist Elaine Spatz-Rabinowitz.

A panel discussion on the shared art life of Boston — collections, exhibitions and studios — takes place at the museum at 8 p.m. May 8. Moderated by Sinclair Hitchings, the panel includes DeCordova curator Lafo, artist Carole Bolsey, gallery director/artist Steve Gildea and collector Stephen Stone. Admission is $4.

CAR CARE CORNER
By Dan Hogan,
Service Manager

A couple of generations have passed since the driver relied on a flickering oil lamp to guide him down the road. Today's North American cars are equipped with sealed beams—units that combine bulb, reflector, and lens in comfortable isolation from weather and corrosion. Like any lightbulb, they will eventually burn out, but usually they give trouble-free service until old age takes its toll. It is surprisingly how many people drive along seemingly unaware that a sealed beam has perhaps burned out. To avoid this danger, plus the possibility of getting a traffic ticket, check your headlight occasionally.

The technicians at PETER FULLER OLDS are ASE certified. We keep a computerized history of all cars serviced here to notify you of preventative maintenance. Open 8-5. Tel. 924-8100. M/C, Visa & A/E accepted. We are located within walking distance to public transportation. Come to PETER FULLER OLDS, Watertown Sq., "Olds National Service Award Winner."
